for the farmer.

The Treatment of Sick Animals.

The crying evil of the agriculture of this country is, that we have no good system of veterinary instruction. Except in the large cities, and, indeed, in most of those, it is impossible to find a well educated veterinary surgeon. Throughout the whole length and breadth of the land, our poor dumb brutes, condemned to suffer from diseases generally brought about by our own carelessness or neglect, are obliged to bear the still greater M E N S', suffering of barbarous treatment of common farriers and quacks, who know almost nothing about the organization of their bodies As a natural consequence, violent purgings. frightful blood-letting, blisters and firings, are applied without thought and without reason, entailing untold agony to the animal, and generally much loss to the owner. Of course, when an animal is sick, any farmer who is ignorant of what should be done ought to secure the best advice within his reach. But he should always retain so much control over the treatments as to avoid a resort to barbarous remedies, unless the unskilled practitioner can convince him that there is good reason for it; for, as a general rule, an animal left to the unguided curative process of nature would come better out of its troubles than if subjected to the opera tion of brutal means for the restoration of its health.

With animals, as with men, there is far too much medicine-giving, blistering and bleeding; and probably more are killed or permanently injured by these practices than | B. A. IRVIN, are cured by them. Of course, in some desperate cases, they are necessary, but they should always be resorted to with caution, and with much hesitation. In all minor diseases, which result almost invariably from bad air, food, filth and neglect, the wisest treatment is the removal of the cause and the restoration of those simple, natural conditons upon which the return, no les than the maintenance, of health is based. The purging ball may often be with advantage supplanted by a loosening diet, bleeding, almost invariably by such a dist and pure air. Warm clothing and thorough grooming will usually do the work of a blister, and do it much better. In all cases of sprains. bruises, and wounds, water is an almost sovereign remedy and in nine tenths of the cases in which it is thought necessary to send for the local horse doctor, the simple treatment above indicated will be found not only cheaper, but far better in its application and in its effects - American Agricult

Good and Bad Farm Stock.

There is no fact, in agriculture more fully established than that it will not pay to keep poor stock, when it is possible to secure that of better quality. The cost of keeping an inferior cow is precisely the same as that of a better one. A good horse will always cammand a better price in the market, or is more valuable to its owner for his own purpose than a poor one. The cost of keeping is the same. Why not, then, raise the best horses? There are breeds of swine that grow rapidly and fatten on much less food, and in a shorter time than others. Why not procure these improved kinds? The same may be said of sheep, poultry, and in fact, every kind of farm stock, and yet we find thousands of farmers in the face of these incon trovertible facts, arraying themselves in steady hostility to all movements having for their object the improvement of domestic farm animals. They cling to inferior stock with a pertinacity that is surprising.

In order to produce thoroughbred stock into a neighborhood (if the first cost is an objection,) half a dozen farmers could unite. and thus make up the amount necessary for procuring first class animals. The time has gone by for cumbering our farms any longer with scrubs. Let us go in for having the Gardening for Women.

There is nothing better for wives and daughters, physically, than to have the care of a garden-a flower pot, if nothing more. What is pleasanter than to spend a portion of every passing day working among plants. and watching the growth of shrubs, and trees, and plants, and to observe the opening flowers from week to week as the senson advances? Then how much it adds to the enjoyment to know that your own hands have planted and tilled them, and have pruned and trained them. This is a pleasure that requires neither great riches or profound knowledge. The humble cotta ges of the laboring poor, not less than their grounds, may be adorned with pet plants, which in due time become radiant with beauty, thus ministering to the love of the beautiful in pature.

The wife or daughter that loves home, and would seek ever to make it the best place for husband and brother, is willing to forego some gossiping morning calls, for the sake of having leisure for the cultivation of plants shrubs and flowers, as is the husband at his place of business.

It is said that one of the most powerful remedies for bots in horses is a strong decoction of sage toa, made very sweet. It -dislodges the bots instantly.
