

For the Farmer.

Hints on Horse Flesh. As five years are required for the completion of bone structure of the horse, it is important that he be carefully used until that age.

Properly constructed harness is as essential to the comfort of a horse as easy clothes are necessary to a man.

If a horse is compelled to run when his head is held in a vertical position, the gravity is thrown too far back, and he advances with difficulty.

The ears of the best horses are short and wide apart, the eyes are well open, and the forehead broad.

The Arab says, speaking of his horse, "The first seven years are for my younger brother, the next seven for myself, and the last for the enemy."

A horse has only one jugular vein, a man has three. The withers can never be too high. The higher they are the easier the animal travels.

THE ACTUAL VALUE OF COWS.—Now, we can go into a dairying neighborhood, and point to farmers who are losing from two to three thousand dollars, by keeping cows yielding two hundred pounds of butter per year.

DRY HOP YEAST.—Tie three handfuls of hops up in a thin cloth, with eight pealed medium sized potatoes, boil these together in three quarts of water.

SPICED NUTS.—One pint sugar house molasses, half pound of butter, quarter pound ginger, one ounce caraway seed, a little powdered cinnamon, a small portion of cloves and allspice.

Tar is an excellent application for hard, dry, and cracked hoofs. It softens and penetrates the hoof, and gives it a bright, clean appearance.

When a ton of wheat is marketed it leaves nothing behind but five dollars worth of straw. When a ton of meat is sold, it has left behind it nine-tenths of the manual value of the food consumed in making it.

Remember "figs don't grow on thistles," with equal truth may be said from good seed only can good vegetables be obtained.

Men often make unlucky investments, but hardly anything else is so certain to pay in the long run as judicious Tree-Planting.
