Butter From Milk.

Many persons in making butter think they must not churn anything but pure cream, and would rather lose some of the cream in skimming than to have any milk get in with it. I believe I can make fifty KEYSTONE STORE! pounds of butter more from one cow during the season by churning all the milk. In the greater part of the season the milk will sour before half the cream is risen, the atmosphere being warm and sultry, and the cream will often sour and taste bitter before a churning is gathered. In cold weather SILKS, it will not rise, if we warm it (as many do) we hurt the quality of the butter.

Many persons in setting milk, put about two quarts in one pan, thinking the cream will rise better. Think of the cream that will adhere to the edges of a pan 🖮 skimming, and then the number you would have in setting the milk of a large number of cows. Drachms make ounces; ounces make pounds. In churning the milk we do away with the labor of setting, skimming, washing and scalding. The expence of crocks or pans for a number of cows is considerable,

I have cream crocks bolding from four to six gallons, easily handled. I strain one churning in two or more, cool it, let it stand until it commences to get sour, and then put it in an upright churn that holds sixteen or twenty gallons; test it with ther' mometer; if too cold put in warm water; if too warm, cold water, and churn it about one hour at sixty four degrees Faheren heit. The butter is always the same color, unless the cream is trozen or scalded. If the pasture, water and other things are the same, I get the same amount of butter each day, the season through. .

I use sheep power for turning. It is simple, easily constructed, very durable; the whole cost will not exceed eight dollars. In the last manner referred to I have made from two common cows during the past two years, and five months of this year, 1,092 pounds of butter, exclusive of milk and butter used in family, and raised one calf each year on sweet milk. I have sold to the amount of $325, and have over three hundred pounds for sale now. I don't claim my cows to be extra milkers, but I do think that a penny saved is as good as a penny earned. If our friends have a better way that they can make more butter, and make it easier, I should like to hear from them through the Rural .- Cor. Rural New Yorker.

Salt and Lime.

These two articles will, when mixed and allowed to lay for a few months make an excellent manure, which in its action will much excel an equal amount of either of its

Air-slaked lime should be thoroughly mixed with common salt, in the proportion of three of lime to two of salt by measure. and kept well sheltered from the weather. The mixture should be thoroughy shovelled WEST BRANCH BITTERS. over every two or three weeks; the longer it is mixed before using the better it will be-and these or four mouths is the least fine that should elapse between mixing

In England the value of compound is generally understood, and it is there used in large amounts for almost all erops except flax, to which it was found to be injurious, by injuring the fiber, though it will materially increase the yield of seed.

Now is the time to mix it for the wheat crop of next fall, in order that it may have all possible time to produce the change which takes place in its constituents-the salt and lime being decomposed, and two new and valuable compounds are formed in their place-at least so our chemists tell us; any how, it is a first rate manure, and at the same time not very expensive, and is easily made on a small scale. - Practical Farmer.

INDIAN CORN VINEGAR. - A corresponof the Queenslander, Australia, gives the following directions for making vinegar from Indain corn: "Steep about a quart of maize in about five gallons of cold water for two or three hours, and then put it on the fire until the maize shows signs of bursting Do not let it burst, but take it off the fire and strain the liquor in to a cask, and add about two pounds of sugar to it. Set the cask in a place where the sun can shine upon it, and in three or four weeks it will be found to contain five gallons of vine, ar. Less quantities can be made in the same way.

Oysters Fritters .- A pint and a half of milk, a pound and a quarter of flour, four eggs, the yolks of the eggs must be beaten very thick, to which add the milk and flour. stir the whole well together; whisk the white to a stiff froth and mix them gradually into the batter; take a spoonful of the mixture, drop an oyster into it, and fry it in hot lard; let them be a light brown on both sides. The oysters should not be put into the batter all at once as they would thin it.

Housekeepers will find the appearance of old wall paper very much improved by rubbing it with a woollen cloth dipped in dry corn meal. It removes all dust and smoke. Pieces of stale bread are equally efficacions.
