SCANDAL LANE.

It is not on the sign board sir-Or in the town directory.

The map or railway guide;
And if you pump your neighbor, sir,
You pump, alas! in vain,
For no one e'er acknowledged yet
He lived in Scandal lane.

It is a fearful neighborhood, So secret and so sly.

Although the tenants oftentimes
Include the rich and high.
I'm told they're even cannibals,

And when they dine or sup.

By way of change, they il turn about

And eat each other up! If you should chance to dine with them Pray never be deceived; When they seem most like bosom friends They're least to be believed. Their claws are sheathed in velvet, str. Their teeth are hid by smiles, And woe betide the innocent

Who talls beneath their wiles When they have singled out their prey, They make a cat-like spring, Or bug them like a serpent, ere And then they wash their guilty hands, But don't efface the stain, These very greedy cannibals That live in Scandal lane

A Young Man Running in Debt.

A young man running in debt is a painful sight. The disposition to do this is the forerunner and exponent of all evil. Apostolic authority says: "The love of money is the root of all evil." But when a young man loves money so well as to get it while knowing he cannot repay, or be willing to take it before he has honestly earned it, some passion so strong as to thus overbear his moral principles in clamoring for its indulgence. Pleasure, especially unlawful pleasure, is a perilous and exhaustive thing. Lawful, necessary, and healthful pleasure, like the pure mountain air, and the gushing waters of the mountain spring, has been made accessible by our Creator, at comparatively little trouble and expense. Any indulgence may be known as unlawful when it can be reached only by running in debt. and springs of our being. UNCLE JOHN'S BEAR STORY .- A Jewish missionary was once making inquires in Russia about the method of catching bears in that country. His informant told him that, to entrap these formidable and ravenous creatures, a pit was dug several feet deep; and after covering it over with turf, leaves, etc., some food was placed on the top. The bears if tempted by the bait, easily fell into the snare. "But," he add ed, "if four or five happen to get in together, they all manage to get out again."

"How is that?" asked the missionary. "They form a sort of ladder by stepping on each other's shoulders, and thus make their escape."

"But how does the bottom one get out?" asked the missionary.

"Ah! these bears, though not possessing "Oh, such torments as you are! I was next day. Once in a while, when spring a mind and soul such as God has endowed T. J. THAT OLD FASHIONED MOTHER. - One in all the world, the law of whose law is love : one who is the divinity of our infancy, and the sacred presence in the shrine of our first earthly idolitey; one whose heart is far below the frosts that gather on her brow; one to whom we never grow old, but, in the plumed troupe, or in the grave souncil are children still; one who welcomed us going, and never forgets us-never. And when in some closet, some drawer, some corner, she finds a garment or a toy that once was ours, how does she weep as she thinks we may be suffering or sad? Does the battle of life drive the wanderer to the door of the old homestead at last? Her hand is upon his shoulder, her dim and fading eyes are kindled with something of "the light of other days," as she gazes upon his worn and troubled face. "Be of stout heart, my son! No harm can reach you here." But sometimes that arm chair is set back against the wall. the corner is vacant, and they seek the dear old occupant in the graveyard.

THE NIGHT LAMP. - There are many families who use nigth lamps, and through inability to provide gas have been in the habit of burning kerosene oil, a very good thing when properly used. A few words on the subject of its use at night may prove interesting to the general reader. When the light of the kerosene oil lamp is turned down low, the combustion is not perfect, and the atmosphere of the room becomes vitiated by the unconsumed oil vapors, by the gas produced by combustion, and also legitimate particles of smoke are thrown off, to be taken into the lungs of the occupants. Air thus poisoned is deadly in its effects, and the wonder is that the people are not immediately and fatally injured by breathing it. Its consequences are the mysterious headaches, irritation of throat and lungs, dizziness and nausea.

A HEAVY Dose.-A surgeon had occasion, lately, to prescribe a couple of pills for an Irishman, which were sent home in a small box, bearing the direction, "The whole to be taken immediately." On visiting his patient afterward, the doctor expressed his surprise on learning that the desired effect had not been produced, and asked Pa's better-half if she hadreally given him the medicine. "Faith, that I did, sur," she replied, "but maybe, yer Honor the lid hasn't come off yet!" The poor sick man was made to swallow not only the pills but the box as well.
