for the farmer.

Drawing Manure in Winter.

We have recently read a very able editorial article upon this subject in the Country Gentleman which we condense. The advantages of the practice, it is argued, are a mongst other things, the removal of manure heaps about the buildings, and the employment of the leisure which winter always brings to the farmer. The most perfect diffusion of the most valuable constituents of manure, is effected by washing or dissolving out all the soluble parts, and allowing them to soak in among the fine particles of the soil. Manure spread on the ground during the winter in a stratum one fourth an inch thick, (which would be about 30 two horse loads per acre.) would have all its valuable parts absorbed by the soil below, after a few long rains or thaws. The rain which would fall would not carry off the essentials of the manure, because there is enough of the fop soil thawed to retain and absorb the small quantity washed out from the quarter inch stratum, and this applies with equal if not greater force to grass lands, for the blades of grass retain the moisture and convey it to the roots. It is important that the manure be finely broken and evenly spread, in order that the whole surface may have unequal share of the fertilizing substances. It should be as well done as practicable at the time it is drawn out; and when the first thaw occurs sufficient to admit further pulverizing and to give a bare surface to the grass, run a fine harrow over it. This may be done while the soil is still frozen below, if the surface is not too soft. For this purpose we have no implement equal to the new smoothing harrow, the numerous slanting teeth of which cut to pieces and grind down to powder every lump of manure they come in contact with, instead of throwing these lumps on one side as is done by the common harrow.

THE UNITED DRAUGHT OF HORSES .-Horses will work much more evenly, and lose less of their effective force, by working abreast, than when they are placed in single file. It four horses are to draw a load on one wagon, it is better to have a long, double whiffle-tree, with a span of horses on each side of the tongue, than to have one span placed before the other. Whenever one span of horses is hitched before another, if the leaders are hitched to the end of the tongue, it should be lowered to a horizontal position. Or a chain may extend from the whiffle-tree of the leaders to the hind end of the tongue. If the tongue is not horizontal, a large portion of the strain will bear like a heavy burden on the necks of the wheelers. The best method of hitching a number of teams, one before the other, is to extend a long chain or rope from the leaders to the draught, and hitch the other teams to this by means of short chains. In many instances a span of horses are hitched with a very short whiffletree before oxen wearing a long voke. When plowing with such a team, the effort of the horses will act in such a direction as to crowd the ox into the furrow. When two or more teams of horses are hitched to one plow, the double whiffle trees should all be equal in length. When horses and oxen are worked together, the yoke from the neck of one ox to the other, should be equal in length to the double tree, from one staple to the PROFIT ON YOUNG HOGS.-A corres pondent of the Boston Culticator maintains that it is economy to kill hogs at nine or ten months, rather than feed them until they are fifteen or sixteen months old. He cites the following case bearing on the point: "In the barn cellar of Mr. Waters I noticed 8 or 10 fine looking pigs, about 6 months old which would, doubtless, weigh over 300 lbs. each. Their feed had been mostly skim milk from the dairy; for the past six weeks they have been fed with meal. These pigs are a cross of the Chester. Mr. Waters thinks farmers can ill afford to keep swine 15 or 18 months before slaughtering them, and perhaps then not weighing more than 350 pounds, when they can just as well be made to weigh the same number of pounds at 9 months old. I will here give you Waters' experience in fattening some 8 or 10 pigs in 1868. Mr. W. kept a correct account from the first, of the cost of the feed until they were slaughtered. The sum received by Mr. W., for three pigs, when sold gave him a profit of $100 over and above all the cost, he realizing to himself $100 for his time in feeding them, the worth of the pigs at first being included in the cost of making."

How to KILL LICE ON CATTLE .- A correspondent of the Country Gentleman dissolved about a pint of soft soap in a pail of warm soft water, and saturated the whole surface of a lousy cow's body with it; after about thirty minutes, repeated the operation, and in about thirty minutes longer took a pail of clean water and thoroughly washed out all the soap water and dead lice in quantities. put her in a warm stable, and covered her with a dry blanket. The next day, after being thoroughly dried, she looked and seemed to feel like a new animal; more than doubled her quantity of milk in twenty four hours, and immediately commenced gaining flesh and general thriftiness.

Now is the time to prepare hot beds.

A GOOD FARM FOR SALE

Persons desirous of purchasing a farm, are directed to examine that valuable property in Lawrence township, and situate at the mouth of Clearfield creek—two miles East of the Borough of Clearfield, and convenient to schools and

The property contains ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY ACRES, part of which is unproved and under a high state of cultivation— the whole being well fenced. Coal, iron ore, and other minerals are found on the same.

The buildings consist of a good TWO-STORY DWELLING HOUSE, 28 by 48 feet—a GOOD BARN, and other convenient outbuildings. And there is growing on the premises a young bearing orehard of choice fruit trees.

This property is very pleasantly situated and being at the confluence of the creek and the river, it is a very desirable and inviting residence for a private family. Its position on the creek an river also render it a good situation for a board-ing house during the rafting season.

The west and north sides of this property being bounded by the creek and river, makes it one of the best rafting grounds in this section, and as such yields a handsome revenue yearly.

The owner, Mr. M. A. Frank, having perma nently settled in the west, is the reason for dis-posing of this valuable property. For terms, etc., apply to S. J. ROW, opply to October 6, 1859. Clearfield, Pa.
