S. J. ROW, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

CLEARFIELD, PA., MAY 18, 1870.

The Boston Post says the prohibitory liquor law never has and never can be executed in Boston. The record of crime of that city, for the month of April, tells a poor story for the law. Of 97 convictions to the Tombs, 667, or two thirds, were for drunkenness, 258 being women.

Even those of us who see no necessity for our Government taking any active part in behalf of the Cubans, cannot read without disgust the details of the scandalous haste with which General Goicoechea was garroted. It was done to forestall any appeals to save his life. Those Spaniards are brutal wretches, at best.

The Pittsburg Gazette, the oldest daily in Pittsburg, comes to our table clad in a beautiful new spring dress. Although the Gazette is more than eighty years old, it is as vigorous as any of its more youthful contemporaries, and the new suit which it has donned is a gratifying evidence that the people of Pittsburg appreciate its enterprise and spirit.

General Longstreet was Marshal of the Day for the Fifteenth Amendment celebration in New Orleans. Longstreet, whose courage and gallantry on the field cannot be gainsayed even by the rear-guard and stay-at-home Democracy, was never braver than when, on the 26th of April last, he met the allied forces of Southern prejudice and passion. His last charge is his best.

Kentucky and Delaware, the two reliable Democratic States, cling with a death clutch to the last relic of barbarism—the whipping post. In the latter State the spring "season" has fairly set in, and the good people are enjoying a refreshing excitement. Now that the negroes have been enfranchised, it is expected that more enlightened views will prevail and the whipping post will soon be numbered with other brutal Democratic arguments of the past.

It is estimated that it will require at least forty thousand troops to carry on our pending Indian war. The available force is about seventeen thousand. The Mormons are putting themselves upon a war footing to resist the enforcement of the laws against polygamy. The question arises—will it be the best kind of policy, to say nothing of economy, to add a Mormon war to an Indian war, and reinforce the redskins with the entire strength of the more savage white followers of Brigham?

The Delaware White Men's Convention, last week, was not a very great success. The up-country trains brought ten men to Dover, the down-country trains fifteen more, and these were all that could be mustered in the State. Even Salisbury was not in attendance. The fifteen, it is said, looked at the ten, and the ten looked at the fifteen, and then all looked at Sam Townsend, who had projected the movement, until someone said, "Let us go home!" when the white men dispersed.

A Western paper states that Senators Dick Yates and Zach Chandler are both anxious to command the Big Horn expedition—a northwestern land speculating crusade—and maliciously asserts that "the expedition itself they care nothing about, but they must have the honor." This trifling with Senatorial dignities is very unseemly, and should not be tolerated by the respectable press. In the instance referred to it will probably appear that neither of the gentlemen named ever finds himself in a dilemma about taking any sort of a horn.

General Sheridan's way of dealing with the "noble savage" makes him a lion among the "white folks" of Wyoming and Montana, who at the same time regard the gentle Quaker Peace Commissioners as "old granies." Sheridan deals with the noble red scalps, as a noble ignoble savage, while the humanitarians who denounce "Little Phil," no doubt think that every Indian is a sort of Hiawatha spouting poetry. The simple truth is, however, that these Western Indians will have to be located to work or they will be killed off.

Judgment has just been given in New York against a railroad in a case of interest to all travelers on yearly tickets. A traveler purchased a ticket that entitled him to a hundred rides. He paid, therefore, for a hundred rides; but when he had taken fifty rides he lost his ticket, which was the only evidence he had of having paid his money. The railroad company tried to take advantage of his loss by compelling him to pay again, and he sued for so much money as would pay for the fifty rides yet to be run, and the railroad company had to come down. Railroads, therefore, have not got everything their own.

The same news is repeated from Mexico only in an aggravated form. Throughout the unhappy Republic affairs are ripening for a universal anarchy, the progress of which it is painful to contemplate, and the results impossible to foresee. Highwaymen abound, public officials are assassinated, and most of the States, and even some of the cities, are convulsed by local revolutions. This is a terrible state of affairs, but while the Mexicans choose to govern themselves it is no affair of ours, and we have no right to interfere. In due time we suppose Mexico will become Americanized, and with the irrepressible and thrifty Anglo Saxons will come peace, law and order.

IMPORTANT TO LAND OWNERS.—Deputy Commissioner Douglas, has written a letter to Joseph T. Valentine, Assessor of Internal Revenue of the 8th District in this State, in answer to a number of persons who had rented their farms for a portion of the product, and they ask the following question—"Are we as landowners required to return as income agricultural products on land and unsold?" The Commissioner replies: "Land owners are to be considered for the purpose of income tax, solely as the persons who, having property, have rented their property for a certain valuable consideration or rent, which rent is paid to them according to agreement in certain products of the land. If the rent had been made payable in any other manner, the money would have been as usual wherever, in the manner stated, there be any doubt about returning the market value of the agricultural products received as rent. It is however required by law and cannot be avoided."

"These land owners labor under a mistake, that because they own the land they must be regarded and recognized as farmers. They speak of their 'stock on hand' and the 'sale of previous crops,' as if they were the producers of these crops. Whereas the sale of previous crops, as if they were the producers of these crops, and the land on which rents are derived, and requires that income be returned year by year as it is received, for the purpose of taxation. If such income has not been returned in previous years in the manner stated, gross error, at least, has been committed. If the land owners chose to keep the rent which they had received, whether the said rent was in the nature of produce or ought else, until they could dispose of it advantageously to themselves—they had a perfect right to do so; but when the said rent has been disposed of, it becomes the duty and the right of said land owners or proprietors of real estate, if the amount received for it is in excess of its market value at the time when it was returned as income, to return said excess as income for the year in which it is exchanged or sold, and on the other hand if it be less, to deduct the loss realized from income. In this light it is regarded precisely as all other business transactions are regarded, as the source from which income is produced and not as the growth or production of the estate, said as being for the time, for the consideration of rent paid, in the possession of others—the tenants. These tenants are the farmers, or producers of the crops."

A Good Hit.—A very extraordinary skeleton was recently exhumed in the suburbs of Mooresville, Indiana, which excited considerable interest in the community as to its identity. The Chicago Post claims, on the strength of its information, that the skeleton is clearly "that of Old Nick—that he must have died in Indiana while on a visit to the Democracy there, and was probably buried by Dan Voorhees, or some other 'grateful friend.'" The frame of the exhumed thing, whatever it is, is said to have some resemblance to a human being. It measures 5 feet 10 inches in height. The skull is quite depressed in front, having two protuberances or horns just above the forehead, curving backward. The arms are long. The spinal bone is of remarkable length, and terminates in a tail about a foot in length. "That's the fellow (exclaims) 'is missing but the eleven ribs, and some mean Hoosier had probably dug into the grave and got those out to make glue of." This proof of his demise will be received "as a full explanation of the rapid decay of the Democratic party."

THE BRITISH NATURALIZATION REFORM.—Great Britain, first by treaty with Hon. Reverdy Johnson, and now by statute, originating in the House of Lords, and since amended in the Commons, abolishes the old decree of "once a subject, always a subject." The new order provides that British subjects naturalized in the United States, and United States citizens naturalized in the United Kingdom, are free from primitive allegiance. It also removes many disabilities, and gives adopted citizens the right to hold and convey land, enter Parliament, and become members of the Privy Council. The absence of the first enactment led to the war of 1812, and the latter is liberal almost beyond precedent in Europe.

THE INCOME TAX.—If the law providing for a tax on incomes did and the fact is very plain that it did—expire with the year 1869, it is safe to say that Congress has no right to pass such a joint resolution as that which recently went through the House, declaring the act to have originally meant that it should not expire at that time. The law ended and ceased, utterly, by its own express terms of limitation, and there is no honest way to revive the income tax except by the passage of a new act, or what would amount to the same thing, the re-enactment of the old one. A resolution declaring the expired act still pending is as absurd a would be an act declaring a dead man to be still alive.

NOTES OF FREE BANKS.—The Auditor General continues to administer upon the scattered remnants of the old free-banking system of the Commonwealth. His report for 1869 is now published. It appears that the entire amount of circulating notes issued from his Department to those institutions was $3,219,668.00, for this sum, 436 are now outstanding. For this sum, 436 of the banks are responsible, and have each lodged the needful security for their redemption with the Department. It is probable that nearly all the outstanding paper is in fact not in existence—"gone where the woodbine twines."

PROTECTION is one of the ancient political landmarks. Washington, as President, met the first congress clad in a suit of domestic cloth, and the second act passed by that Congress had a preamble as follows: "Whereas it is necessary for the support of Government, for the discharge of our debts, and for the encouragement and protection of manufactures, that duties be laid on goods imported," etc. When we make our fight this fall in Pennsylvania on the Congressional delegation we are but forming again on the old lines and under the old colors.

THE BEE.—Such is the title of a new afternoon penny paper just started in Philadelphia, by Messrs. McClintock & Co. It is a very "busy" little Bee, very tidy in appearance, and promises to "improve each shining hour" for the advancement of the interests of Philadelphia. Success to it.

THE FOREST REPUBLICAN came to us last week, in a much enlarged form, and improved in appearance. The paper is worthy the encouragement and support of the citizens of that county, irrespective of party.

THE OLD REBEL SPIRIT.—It is pitiable to observe the frantic efforts being made by the rebel element of the South to obliterate the record which the country and indeed the civilized world have written against them—to stem the tide of the 19th century which is flowing in upon them. The Confederate rebel General Gordon recently lectured in Savannah, and seems to have dwelt chiefly upon the subject of Northern school books. Those he would have entirely excluded from the South. "We all know," said the speaker, "that the conquered always take their impressions from the conquerors—take their civilization, their religion, their politics. It may be North that we should take their religion, but we cannot think so. It is the North that we adopt their theory of perfect equality; but we think it subservive of the fundamental principles of government, as well as atheistic and anti-Bible—a theory which would level all distinctions that God has made, and which are recognized everywhere (even in Hell, or Hell here). Of course the distinction referred to here is that of color. But how has this been ascertained by this distinguished mourner for the 'lost cause' that white and black are regularly assorted and separated in Heaven? But this vaporing may be contrastively proved by quoting from our progressive and liberal Democratic townsman, John O. Byrne some of Paul's sermon from Mars' Hill: "God hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on the face of the earth." Not content with banishing all the school books which do not uphold the rebel rights, Gordon has now taken it upon his leading champions, General Gordon protests against the current definitions of the word State, and desires to reconstruct Webster's Dictionary.

HAIL STORM IN PHILADELPHIA.—A destructive hail storm visited Philadelphia on Sunday week, of which we obtain from the North American some graphic particulars. It says: "The course of the storm was from the northwest, and it moved rapidly. The first clouds gathered in the southwest, and moved northward until they were over the city, and then struck the city from the southwest to the northwest, between two and three o'clock. The storm struck Philadelphia at the latter hour of the day, and unintermittently for some time, and revisited the same place in the afternoon at first. There are eight thousand street lamps in the city and fully one half have been broken. The conservatories are a wreck and gardens have suffered severely. The owner of one mill estimates his loss, by breakage chiefly, at seven to eight hundred dollars. Stores in the city and the skylights were broken, giving the rain and hail access to the interior, must have suffered severely. The churches had some of their finest stained glass and illuminated windows wrecked. The total loss has been estimated at $3,000,000, and no one has seen it below $1,000,000.
