THE KIDNEYS.

The Kidneys are two in number, situated at the upper part of the loin, surrounded by fat, and onsisting of three parts, vis : the Anterlor, the Interior, and the Exterior.

The anterior absorbs Interior consists of tisues or veins, which serve as a deposit for the uriue and convey it to the exterior. The exterier is a conductor also, terminating in . single tube, and called the Ureter. The ursters are connected with the bladder.

The bladder is composed of various coverings or tissues, divided into parts, vis: the Upper, the Lower, the Nervous, and the Macous. The upper expels. the lower retains. Many have a desire to urinate without the ability, others arinate without the ability to retain. This frequently occurs in children.

To cure these affections, we must bring into action the mescles, which are engaged in their various functions. If they ere neglected, Gravel or Dropsy may ensue.

The reader must also be made aware, that however slight may be the attack, it is sure to affect the bodily bealth and mental powers, as our flesh and blood are supported from these sources.

Gour, on RESCRATION -Pair occurring in theoins is indicative of the above diseases. They ocur in persons disposed to moid stomach and chalky concretions

THE GRAVEL .- The gravel ensues from neglect r improper treatment of the kidneys These organs being weak, the water is not expelled from the bladder, but allowed to remain; it becomesfeverish, and sediment forms. It is from this deposit that the stone is formed, and gravel ensues.

DEORSY is a collection of water in some parts of the body, and bearsidifferent names, according to the parts affected, viz: when generally diffused over the body, it is called Anasarca ; when of the Abdomen, Ascites; when of the chest, Hydrotho-Tax.

TERATURET .- Helmbold's highly concentrated compound Extract Buchu is decidedly one of the best remedies for diseases of the bladder, kidneys,gravel, dropsical awellings, rheumatiun, and gouty affections. Under this head we have arranged Dysurie, or difficulty and pain in passing water, icanty Secretion, or small and frequent discharges of water; Strangury, or stopping of water; Hematuria, or bloody urine; Gout and Rheumatiam of the kidneys, without any change in quan numberel with the dead. Then came the firing of the ranche, after hursh of whickey had been brought out; and one of those horrible scenes of rovelry. over the burning pile and around the scaleed dead followed.

For some time after the ceach had left Fort Sedgwick Station, it had been cloudy f lowed by a team, consisting of a common wagon, covered with cauvass, which was drawn by a pair of mules. But as the road became heavier with snow drifts, the small animals could not keep pace with the six fine stage horses, and so they were left in the back graund.

The second wagon was occupied by three persons -a man of twenty-five, a woman who could not have been over seventeen or eightion years of age, and an infant.

As they found that they could not keep pace with the stage, the woman said, and tother impatiently :

"I am sorry we must be left behind. We may lose our way, or be attacked by the Samiges.

"No," replied the man, "for although we are both strangers in this country, we could not have a better guide than the telesouth poles. And as for the Indians attacking us, they are a great deal more likely. is my opinion, to be on the lookout for the stage, and attack it.

"How much further do we have to go to day?

"I can't tell well. Bat from the distance w had to travel since noon, I should say that nine o'clock in the evening ought to bring us to the Pole Creek."

"And three days more will bring us to our father's house in Denver. Good old must weary of hunting, he builds a fine dwelling in the city, says it is for his children, and sends for us. I have not seen him since I was a little child, but I am sure I shall love him."

It was something like an hour after darkness had not in that the lonely travelers saw the night soming red ahead of them. Brighter and brighter erew the light untill they could actually see the flames as they shot up into the slow filled aturnsphere. Then a nearer approach regeated the true state of affairs; and to save himself and family, the young man at once turned the heads of his inules over the bluffs and away from the river. Then came a weary ride of two hours, during which time a close lookout was kept for a light. At length one was discovered, cried : ed. PRILADELPHIA, PA., Feb. 25, 1867 H. T. HELWHOLD, Druggist :

DEAR SIS :- I have been a sufferer, for upward of twenty years, with gravel, bladder and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent Physicians, experienting but little relief

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised. I consulted with my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised remedies, and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of over getting well, and determined to use no remedies horeafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of buchu, cubebs and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination, and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced its use about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing you a full statement of my case at that time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and therefore concluded to defer and see if it would effect a perfect ours, knowing then it would bo of greater value to you, and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months.

I have not used any now for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tenis and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections. M McCORMICK.
