CLEARFIELD, PA., JUNE 22, 1870. Gold sold at 112 in New York, on Saturday last.

Jerome Bonaparte died at his residence in Baltimore on Friday last.

The Rhode Island Legislature, on June 14th, re-elected Hon. Henry B. Anthony United States Senator for six years from March 4th, 1871.

United States Attorney General Hoar, having resigned his position in the Cabinet, the President has appointed Hon. Amos P. Ackerman, of Georgia to fill the vacancy.

The Chicago Times asserts that General M'Clellan is being worked up in New York as a Democratic candidate for President in 1872, especially to be used in case Grant is renominated. Let it be so.

necessary relief. Better try it.

Some inquiring chap has heard that the green on the new three cent postage stamps is poisonous, and wants to know what he shall do if he licks one and is made sick. Our advice would be to go immediate around and lick the Postmaster General.

Whisky yielded, last year, under the old ratio of taxation and a Johnsonian plan of collection, a revenue of but $12,000,000. Under the present reduced rate, and with a more faithful administration of the law, the revenue from that source will be nearly $52 .-000,000. The ring now proposes to increase the rate again, plausibly suggesting that there can be no failures in the collection under President Grant. The suggestion is

The N. Y. Tribune says: "The fact has been developed in the testimony in the Alexander-Gardiner case that the $1,200 left by the dead man to pay for a lot and monu ment for him in Greenwood Cemetery has been given as a fee to the lawver now engaged in trying to exclude his heirs from their rightful inheritance. 'Mean enough to steal a meeting house' was once thought to be a mere Yankee figure of speech. 'Mean enough to steal a tombstone' is hereafter, it seems, to be an accurate description of at withstanding the work in this bureau has least one of our New York lawyers."

Experience seems to teach no lesson to the Democracy. They cling to prejudices and follies with a tenacity that is inexplicable. In Tennessee they presist in a disorganizing policy, the result of which will sooner or later be Federal interference in some form. They have also become the apostles in repudiation in matters directly affecting the State eradit. Again, in West Virginia, they reassert the old dogma of white superiority and supremacy. Poor Democracy! When will they learn to accommodate themselves to passing events!

The Titusville Herald, of June 15th asks : "How is this for High?" and then relates that "at a Treasurer's sale of unscated lands in Forest county, a tract of 411 acres in Kingsley township was bid off for$55,000 .-000, and 290 acres in the same township for $53,000,000. It is refreshing to know that in every case the taxes were only about $60." We know of nothing that comes very near being as "high" as that, if the figures are correct; and, we opine, if the debts on the lands were proportionate to the reported bids, the Treasurer's chance for payment in full would be rather slim.

Oregon had a Democratic State Government last year. It elects the ticket of the same party this year by a very considerable reduced majority. The last Legislature was nation to do that much for the country, by proclamation, in which he describes with ago. He will be tried for the offence. Democratic by seventeen majority on joint ballot; in the next Legislature, the same party will have a reajority of not more than eight. This is not much of a Democratic victory. Moreover, it seggests a pertinent inquiry. The convention which nominated the ticket now successful, endorsed in its platform the policy of repudiation. Query? Was the reduced majority of the pariyat or in spite of it?

tion to rumors relating to the purposes of the New York Democracy in opposition to the Fifteenth Amendment, and the recent legislation of Congress in connection with it. Our contemporary alleges that "the election law passed by Congress, by which it is intended to secure purity in elections, has that it does not tend to promote the harmothoroughly aroused the Democracy, and the leaders again talk of resistance to the Federal authority." A special session of the which would perhaps be the wisest course, Legislature, with this end in view, is spo-more or less scrious, in several European the object being to pass measures which shall bring to a square issue the contest between Federal and State authority. Homestead Law.

A bill proposing a very important amendment to the Homestead law, for the benefit of those who served in the suppression of the rebellion, has passed the House of Representatives, and is now awaiting the action of the Senate. It provides that every private soldier and officer who has served in the army, and every seamen, marine officer or other person who served in the navy of the United States, or in the marine corps or revenue corps, during the rebellion, for 30 days, and remained loyal to the Government shall, without payment of any fee or commission to registers or receivers of land offices, be entitled to enter one quarter section of land, not unineral, or alternate reserved sections of public lands along the lines of all railroads or public works in the United States, wherever public lands have a ravine and over a little stream of water been or may be granted by acts of Congress, and to receive a patent therefor under and by virtue of the provisions of the homestead acts, and on terms and condition therein described; and all provisions of said acts, except as herein modified, shall extend and be applicable to entries under this act. This secures free homesteads for all soldiers and sailors on those lands by reason of settlement and improvement. It is to be hoped that the bill may become a law, and that it may be of practicable benefit to the former soldiers of the Republic.

Democracy-Naturalization.

We feel called upon, says a contemporary, to express sympathy with the Democracy on acount of the perverse obstinacy of Congress in afflicting them with a rigid and not very easily evaded naturalization and franchise law. The Senate was severe, but do hear that it is no better in Berks, nor Tuesday a-week, re-elected Hon. Aaron H. the House is severer. It has actually de-Cragin as United States Senator for six termined that false swearing to secure natuyears from March 4th, 1861, when his ralization or a vote is perjury, and requires lit to be punished as such, and this not by a "Yes master, and putting down the land "Yes master, and putting down the land" mild Democratic judge, whose sympathies Several items, in our issue of June 8th, | might run away with his judgment, but by seem to have stirred up the bile on our the United States court. But the unfortunate fact is, the "stump speech" is in the interest of honesty, and hence not quotable. We really incline to fear that for once even Democratic ingenuity, in duplicating votes, is at fault. Coffee pots, repeaters and the like, will be at a discount, unless some new method of evasion is discovered. Why not raise a fund and offer a reward at once for such a discovery? Without it, we fear those great victories promised next fall will not be real-

A Census Difficulty.

We commend to the attention of our readers, the remarks of the Newark (N. J.) Courier in reference to a difficulty which the encounter and which, if not in some way progress. The Courier observes: "The census-takers find but little trouble in procuring from the woman folks at home prompt, intelligent and satisfactory answers to a large majority of their questions. On one point, however, they experience some difficulty-that which relates to the value of real estate, a subject upon which it is hard ly to be expected that women are generally posted. It is suggested that if the head of the family would estimate the value of this property and put it in black and white upon paper to await the cail of the census man, it would save the latter a vast deal of labor and relieve the mistress of the house of many unanswerable questions. Our property owners should take enough interest in the present general enumeration of the serving which they also serve themselves.

English Free Trade and Poverty.

Those who seem to be desirous to bring this country down to the level of England by the adoption of the policy of free trade, may read a profitable lesson, if they please, in the following extract from the New York World's (free trade organ) "own correspondent" across the big water. The letter is dated at London, May 28, and may be found in the World of the 12th of June. Here is

I left the cottage and walked down the road that leads to the village of Denham. Seated on the benches before the Plough Inn were groups of peasants, in smock frocks, corded trousers, and hobnailed shoes. Along the road, at intervals, were a few cottages, all of them very old, very dirty, very substantial, and still very picturesque. sently the road took aturn and wound down clear as crystal. As I stood for a moment on the big bridge two men approached me, and, taking off their hats and making an awkward scrape with their feet, said : Master, wud ye bestow on us a penny or so to buy us some bread?" "What is the matter?" I asked.

"We can get no work to do," said both the men in a breath. One of the men was very old, and the other was young. They had clothing enough to cover their nakedness, and that The old man had a stick in his hand; his few white hairs were matted together with dirt; his eyes had a weary, yearning, hungry look.

I don't know what they told you, but they couldn't have told you anything worse than the truth. The distress is awful. I don't know what we are coming to. Things get worse and worse every year; and only last week three rate payers on this parish went themselves on the rates. Talk of Ireland! Why, sir, if the poor here hadn't all the spirit ground out of them there seen.
