Hgos Eating Grub Worms.

In regard to hogs eating grub worms and thriving on them, I think it will be a slow thrive. Take out the ring, and turn them in every sod field, and you will find they will root whether it is grub or no grub. They root for the grass roots , and for fish worms, and not for the grub.

A reliable farmer of my country told me he plowed, last spring a year, an old meadow sod, and the grubs were very thick and very large. He turned in forty head of stock hogs, weighing from eighty to one hundred pounds gross, thinking they would follow after him and do well simply on the grubs. But to his surprise, they would not eat them. He concluded he would starve them to it, and he kept them from corn for three days, and still they would not touch the grubs. Then he told me he gathered a lot of grubs together, and mixing them with shelled corn, fed them to the pigs. The result was the corn was selected out by the pigs, and the grubs left. He said they would eat fish worms but would not eat the grub.

I think nothing will eat them but ducks. and they will eat almost everything, either animate or inanimate. The grubworm, last year, in Preble county, injured the corn crop very seriously, and has injured the growing wheat crop. They are the worst pest we ever had to deal with in this county. When they first came it was thought they only worked on clay soil, but we soon found we were mistaken; they work on black soil just as bad. The only remedy we can find is to let the grass or clover grow all it can in the spring, say to the middle of April ; then turn the sod and they will work on the sod roots, and in this way your corn may get a good start and keep out of their way .- Cin Gazette.

THINNING OUT FRUIT .- Thin out pears where they over-bear, removing every knotty and wormy specimen. There are some varieties that grow in clusters, and do not generally over-bear-from these the wormy or worthless ones only should be removed ; but where the trees are not too large to manage, and are not cluster-growing, no two specimens should be allowed to touch, as they are almost certain to become wormy and both are lost. Many persons, not acquainted with fruit-raising, heaitate to thin out their trees, on the ground that the crop may be diminished. This may be possibly but not positively true, if the fruit is intended to be fed to the pigs. But even should it be otherwise true sometimes, who would r prefer to have one bushel of large, beautif luscious pears, to five bushels with probab not a half a peck among the whole fit to p upon your table or send to market ?- Ge mantown Telegraph.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says : I take pleasure in recommending your Rosadalis as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results-one in a case of becondary syphilis in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrof-ula of long standing, which is rapidly im-proving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of alterative ingre-
