

S. J. ROW. ADITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

CLEARFIELD, PA., JUNE 29, 1870.

The U. S. Senate, on Friday, June 24th. confirmed the nomination of Amos P. Ackerman to be Attorney General of the United States, in place of E. R. Hoar, resigned,

All the Republican State Conventions held since the inauguration of President Grant have endorsed his administration, the best possible evidence that the country approves his policy.

In Maine the fight between the two parties has always hitherto been to secure the vote of the temperance people. This year the Republicans by nominating an earnest temperance leader have effectually flanked their opponents.

Our Democratic contemporaries have been agitating themselves considerably concerning the colored cadets at West Point. They helping to crush the rebellion, and cannot endure the thought of permitting colored officers to fight for us in any future war.

THE people of Pennsylvania will be highly gratified to learn of the improved condition of the health of Hon. Andrew G. Curtin; great War Governor continues to be the recipient of the most distinguished honors from the Emperor and the court at St. Petersburg.

There has been no rain in southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois since the 1st of April. In that section it is stated that the wheat and corn crops will be almost a total worth cutting. Parts of Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska are similary

The Circinnati Commercial, a radical Democratic paper, says its party "is dying of vice and fraud; of folly and knavery; of cowardize and ignorance; of the displace took place: ment of its true and great souls by the soulless scoundrels who control the organization." The truth of at least a portion of this we think will be acknowledged by many Democrats in this State.

Every now and then, says the New York Herald, the administration writes in letters of gold an additional reason why it should ing the year ending April 30, 1870, $180, 260,954." Coming events cast their shadows before them; and the Herald wants to be on the winning side.

Another reproof for little Delaware. The Spanish people have an unenviable reputation for cruelty, but even they appear to be touched by the humanizing spirit of the nineteenth century, and the Cortes of that country adopted a resolution on Wednesday to abolish punishment by the lash. Delaware is completely surrounded now, and will soon be obliged to surrender.

The Democratic Senators occupied nearly the entire session of Saturday in what it is to be hoped will be a futile attempt to prevent the passage of a bill designed to prevent fraudulent naturalization. This bill has been shorn of some of its best features, and is not what it should be, but the very fact of it being so bitterly opposed by the ballot-boxstuffing Democracy should insure its pas-

We have not the least doubt but that a similar result will follow, in any State or county where the Good Templars allow themselves to commit such a great mistake."

The Refuge of Rebels.

With a large class of rebels who were recently in arms against the country, unblushing falsehood and persistent lying are practiced as if among the cardinal virtues. What is particularly noticeable is the fact that they are sure to find refuge and endorsement in the party which sympathised with them during their attempt to destroy the government. A short time ago a letter appeared from a perjured traitor who deserted the United States army after having been educated at West Point, and swearing faithfulness and allegiance, whose name figures as J. Bankhead Magruder. In that letter he stated that President Lincoln was aware that he (the traitor) intended to go into the rebel service, and that he (the said traitor) being on the most friendly terms with Mr. Lincoln, had told him of his intention, and that the President made no objection to his going, but bade him a kindly and affectionate farewell. Of course this was a rebel lie, and was made up to injure the memory of the distinguished and beloved Lincoln.

The same Magruder took occasion to charge Hon. Simon Cameron with falsehood for making a truthful statement on the floor of the United States Senate. Of course no sensible loyal paper credited the rebel's story, but the papers which sympathised with treason eagerly reproduced the traitor's letter assuming that General Cameron was the liar, and their rebel pet the pink of honor, frankness and truth, having always credited the stories of traitors in preference to loyal men. Now, however, we have a letter from Major General Sturgis, a true and loyal officer of the army. who was in Washington when Magruder deserted to the traitor's army. General Sturgis was familliar with all the circumstances attending the desertion, and he now comes forward in a card in which he relates have not yet forgiven the colored people for the substance of conversation between himself and Mr. Lincoln concerning this man Magruder. According to General Sturgis, Mr. Lincoln said :

"MagAuder came to see me the very evening before he left, and voluntarily said while expressing his abhorence of secession. "Sir, I was brought up and educated under the glorious old flag; I have lived under it United States minister to Russia. Our and have fought under it, and, sir, with the help of God, I shall fight under it again and, if need be, shall die under it!" The very next day," the President continued, "Magruder abandoned us! So that at the very moment he was making to me these protestations of loyalty and devotion, he must have had his mind fully made up to leave. And it seemed the more wanton and cruel in him, because he knew that I had implicit confidence in his integrity. The fact is, when I learned that he had failure, and that the grass crop is hardly gone over to the enemy, and I had been so completely deceived in him, my confidence was shaken in everybody, and I hardly knew whom to trust anymore.

We the undersigned persons engaged in the Square Timber business, feeling that we have submitted to the great inconvenience, risk and labor attached to this point as a place of business, as long as we can endure it, do hereby agree that all contracts for the future delivery of timber shall be made at Linden or Williamsport, in place of Lock Haven, and that as a business we will neither buy or sell, or in any way allow our timber to change hands at this point, provided proper and convenient arrangements are made by the committee appointed for that purpose by the meeting held at Lock Port, this 4th day of April, 1870.

The above proceedings are of a meeting held April 4, 1870, and have been withheld from publication for almost three months, for the purpose of giving the citizens of Lock Haven an opportunity to make some arrangement to add to our facilities and make the landing more secure, and thus retain the business at that point. But we learn they have not succeeded in accomplishing anything that will promote our safety.or be of any advantage to the square timber interest. On the contrary, their continued there is not a whisper of suspicion. Favor Repudiation.

The Democratic party, like that Scriptural conservative Ephraim, is hopelessly joined to its idols. An isolated fragment occasionally shows signs of accepting as veritable facts the events of the last decade, but the mass of the party still adheres to the traditions which cluster around the historic "Confederit X Rodes." At the convention of the Mercer county, Ohio, Democrats, held on the 11th inst, the following platform was unanimously adopted:

That the so-called war debt is a fraud and swindle, and was created under false pretences and in violation of the Constitution ; we are therefore, uncompromisingly in favor of repudiating the whole of the bonded war debt of the United States.

That we are unalterably opposed to negro citizenship and negro suffrage; that the fifteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States was forced upon the people by trickery and fraud and against their well-known wishes, and is therefore illegal, void, and of no binding force whatever. We recommend the above to the Democracy generally. AN UNEXPECTED SPRINKLING .- The West Chester Republican of yesterday says: On the return of the excursion party over the Wilmington and Reading railroad, on Wednesday last, an incident occurred when vote of 124 ayes to 29 nays. A dispatch a few miles above Downingtown, which notsays, among those who voted in the negative | withstanding its disagreeable results, gave rise to considerable merriment. The train had stopped at a tank to supply the engine with water. The company had failed for want of time, to place hose on the spout or trough of the reservior, to insert in the tankused instead. As the train started, by some inexplicable means, the gate of the water tank became displacad, thus permitting the water to escape. The stream emitted was some four inches in diameter, and struck near the bottom of the windows of the car, which were all open at the time. The seats were filled with occupants, and the effect of such a volume of water suddently pouring into one's lap, may better be imagined than described. We can only say that the sudden scraebling it produced was wonderful to behold. The entire train was thus immersed-the seats being saturated and the floors flooded. Although everything was suddenly rendered exceedingly disagreeable, the whole party took the affair good natured-, and set it down as the practical joke of
