"Plant your manufactories by the side of your farms, and you cover your country with blassings." - General Jackson.

The nation which exports manufactured products, instead of the raw material, attains the greatest wealth, and confers upou its citizens the greatest independence.

It cost two dollars a head under Buchanan to run the government. Under Grant it costs but $1 64. Another evidence of the failure of Grant's administration. He is no such royal spendthrift as his Democratic predecessors have been.

The movement for a convention to revise our State Constitution is gathering importance as the day of election approaches. In some of the counties its advisability is being made an issue in the primary selection of candidates for the State Legislature.

It being charged that a Louisville negro voted twice at the recent election, the New York Commercial remarks that it could put up with theft, murder, elopement with white heiresses, but when the negro sinks to a level with the Democratic repeater, there is room for the apprehension that emancipation may prove a failure indeed.

The Democratic party has lately been dabbling in mathematics to a great extent. The ratio of increase in the proportion of their membership in the next House of Con gress has been their favorite study. One primary rule of arithmetic-reduction-has engaged the Republican administration, and the magnificent monthly decreases in the public lebt attests how successful it has

On the outside of to-day's JOURNAL will be found the long-expected neutrality proclamation, issued on Monday, August 22d, by President Grant. It declares in strong terms the neutrality of the Government of the United States in the contest now waging between France and Prussia, and prescribes certain acts which shall not be committed within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States.

The action of the State and Congressional Republican Conventions all over the country is marked with cheering concord and harmony. Persons engaged in a common cause can only expect succe as through compromise and concilation, and in this spirit all these gatherings have terminated. With spirited contests, in some cases, for the coveted honor, personal prefere nees have been sacrificed to a generous feeling and ne cessity for union, and a love for the cause, outweighing all lesser considerations; and the end has been peace.

A great evil, or rather abuse in the conduct of National banks which at one time threatend serious trouble, has gradually been done away with through the watchfulness, care and attention of Comptroller Hulburd. We refer to the correction of the practice on the part of the banks once so much in vogue, of permitting the five per cent. reserve fund required by the law to be held by them, to sink below the standard or to disappear entirely in the financial transactions. This has been fully remedied. required to hold the reserve, having liabili-

The Liberty (Clay Co., Mo.,) Tribune, published a number of heart-rending letters from old men of Clay County, who have been "disfranchised." Their records give unmistakable evidences that they were rebels, copperheads and bashwhackers during the rebellion. The climax of suffering is reached in the case of one Anderson I. Turpin. His letter sounds as if written from some cannibal island. Here it is:

I was born in Montgomery county, Ky. souri in 1854; moved to Kansas in 1860. Was a resident of Olathe, Kansas, when I was arrested by a body of lawless men, tried by a secret court-martial, and sentenced to be caten to death by negroes-was bitten by negroes until they thought I would die. was placed in prison, and after five months' onlinement made my escape and fled to Liberty, Mo. Was and am a true Union man, but because I do not now love the negro I am disfranchised. ANDERSON 1. TURPIN.

Mr. Richard Turpin, vulgarly known as ry, could boast of no such remarkable escape | Franco. from death as this. And we doubt very much if "Tom Pepper," an individual who is said to have been kicked out of the "infernal regions" for lying, ever told a story half so great.

The opponents of woman's rights jeeringly ask: "If women accept the right of suffrage, they should take with it its duties as well as its privileges, including the performance of military duty." But the army is not the only place to serve one's country during war, and people must eat as well as fight. By doing the farm work, thus letting the men get into the army, the women do their full share to ward the military service. France and Prussia are learning the truth of this. The women of those countries will prevent the forebodings of loss and suffering in the agricultural regions from being realized. Both in Prussia and France the women are trained to work in the fields, and do not look upon such toil as degrading. Particularly is this the case in Prussia. Not only peasant women, but those in the middle classes are now gathering the harvests, guarding flocks and performing other out-door labor. For years women have been employed to a considerable extent in Prussia as flagmen and station agents on railways. Were it necessary, all the trains could doubtless be run by women-men acting as engineers.

THE FRENCH-PRUSSIAN WAR. What is Doing.

PARIS, August 20.—The Parisians are still ignorant of the truth of the battle o Rezonville. They believe in a French victory. They are assured that Bazaine was the conqueror and that he has already been successful in forming a junction with Mac-Mahon and the other French forces at Chalons. With simplicity truly pitiable, they say not one of the Prussians will get out of France: Bazaine has put them in a trap, and typhus fever and dysentery are killing fifty Prussians every day. Such is the only news allowed to circulate in the city. The circulation of all foreign papers is rigorously prevented. It is questionable whether a popular uprising will take place, though many expect one in a few days.

> CARLSRUHE, August 21. - Strasburg is in flames. The French have fired the surrounding villages. They make frequent sorties, which are constantly repulsed. Eight thousand Prussians have arrived with a train of heavy siege artillery. The city is surrounded by 30,000 men under Gen. Werder. The inhabitants are demoralized, and disorder everywhere prevails. Surrender is hourly expected.

The Crown Prince has won another victory in a great battle before Chalons. The Prussians are victorious everywhere, and the French defeat complete.

PONT-A-MOUSSON, August 21, via LON. don.-Prisoners still pour in. Last night there arrived 2,000 privates and 36 officers; to day more soldiers and fifty five officers were brought in, among the latter General Plimben. The loss of the French during the week cannot be less than fifty thousand killed, wounded and missing. At Coursill and Vienville and Gravelotte they are known to have lost 16,000 in each battle. including at the latter 4,000 prisoners.

The Wiehen Red Huzzars a lyanced over a crest of a hill, but had to retire from a hot fire of infantry and artillery, leaving the ground covered with dead and wounded. The horses dashed riderless over the field, which was quite open. A heavy fire of artillers now commenced on both sides, and the battle became desperate. The French kept up 2 rapid fire from their chassepots, which told severely. The elatter of small arms was incessant, and intermingled with the long boom of the batteries.

"From 2 till 6 p. m., the French resoluteresisted the advance of the Germans; but then they began to waver and retreat, keenng up a slow but incessant fire. They were pursued by a regiment of lancers and the Green Hussars of Magdeburg over Ste Marie aux Cheres and beyond St. Prierot, and the latter village was burned.

"The scene on the field was one which has seldom been equalled. Thirty miles of ground were covered with dead and wounded of both sides. I counted 41 dead in one little spot, including a major, pierced through the head, who lay on his back, sword in hand. The cannonade from the German side and the rattle of the needle guns were terrific. The defeat of the French was total.
