UNDER THE VINES.

John Abbott up the garden path Walked gravely in the autumn haze, With downward looking eyes, and sighed "Ah! short and evil are our days.

"By woman's folly man is led, Earth's nations bend to evil rule; God's vintage-time is surely come; The wine-press of his wrath is full."

Among the grapes fair Elsie sat, An autumn richness in the glow Of rounded check and waving hair, And happy eyes that prayed below.

"I am the Vine, the branches ye; Love one another," then Christ said, The maiden thought ; and 'mid pure joy For life's good boon she heard a tread.

What passed beneath the shadowing vines I know not; but with hopeful tone John Abbott, in his church next morn, Gave Elsie's text, and not his own.

THE HUNTER'S ORIME.

In the autumn of 1816, while the woods were bright in the variegated hues which follow the light touches of frost, a mounted traveler was quietly pursuing his way thro' a dark, broad, lonely forest in the western part of the State of New York.

He had ridden three miles since seeing a single habitation, and yet two miles to go befine he could get sight of another. He was desending a hill into a gloomy valley. through which flowed a shallow but swift | running stream, and on reaching the water he permitted his thirsty beast to drink.

At that moment a man stepped out from a cluster of bushes into a road. or horsepath, on the other side of the stream. This man was dressed like a hunter, and carried his rifle on his shoulder. In his general appearance there was nothing to indicate histility or wicked design. He was of medum size, compactly built, with inteiligent features, and a certain air of gentility, reming as one more abroad from some setthement for a day's sport, than a professional hunter. All this the mounted traveler carefully noticed before he crossed the stream to coatinue his journey, and when they came together pleasant salutations were exchang-

Dr. Johnson's Pudding.

I made the best of my way to a small build-

THE KIDNEYS.

The Kidneys are two in number, sitnated at the upper part of the loin, surrounded by fat, and consisting of three parts, viz the Anterior, the Interior, and the Exterior.

The anterior absorbs Interior consists of the ues or veins, which serve as a deposit for the urine and convey it to the exterior. The extetier is a conductor also, terminating in a single tube, and called the Ureter. The ureters are connected with the bladder.

The bladder is composed of various coverings or tissues, divided into parts, vis : the Upper, th Lower, the Nervous, and the Mucous. The upper expels. the lower retains. Many have a desire to urinate without the ability, others urinate without the ability to retain. This frequently occurs in children.

To core these affections, we must bring into action the muscles, which are engaged in their verious functions. If they are neglected, Gravel or Propsy may ensue.

The reader must also be made aware, that howver slight may be the attack, it is sure to affecthe bodily bealth and mental powers, as our flesh and blood are supported from these sources.

Gour, on RHEUMATISM .- Pain occurring in the oins is indicative of the above diseases. They occur in persons disposed to acid stomach and chalky concretions.

THE GRAVEL .- The gravel ensues from neglect r improper treatment of the kidneys These er gans being weak, the water is not expelled from the bladder, but allowed to remain; it becomes feverish, and sediment forms. It is from this deposit that the stone is formed, and gravel ensues.

DROPST is a collection of water in some parts of he body, and bears different names, according to the parts affected, vis: when generally diffused over the body, it is called Anasarca ; when of the Abdomen, Ascites; when of the chest, Hydrotho-TRE.

TREATMENT .- Helmbold's highly concentrated ompound Extract Buchu is decidedly one of the best remedies for diseases of the bladder, kidneys, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatism, and gouty affections. Under this head we have arranged Dysurie, or difficulty and pain in passing water, Scanty Secretion, or small and frequent discharges of water; Strangury, or stopping of water;

Hematuria or bloody urive . Gont and D. sm of the kidneys, without any change in c tity, but increase in color. or dark water. It was slways highly recommended by the late Dr. Physick, in these affections. This medicine increases the power of digestion and excites the absorbents into healthy exercise by which the watery or calcareous depositions and all unnatural enlargements, as well as pain and inflammation are reduced, and it is taken by men, women and children. DEY GOODS-the chespert in the county, a MOSSOP'S.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Feb. 25, 1867. H. T. HELNBOLD, Druggist:

Dean Sin :- I have been a sufferer, for upward of twenty years, with gravel, bladder and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent Physicians, experienoing but little rollef.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised. I consulted with my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised remedies, and had found them worthless, and some guite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of buchu, cubebs and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination, and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced its use about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing you a full statement of my case at that time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and therefore concluded to defer and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing then it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months.

I have not used any now for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

Your Bachu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor. a nice tonis and invigerator of the system. I do not mean to be without it whenever ecasion may require its use in such affections. M McCOKMICK.
