for the farmer.

CARE OF HORSES' LEGS. - Few men who handle horses give proper attention to the feet and legs. Especially is this the case on rubbing, brushing and smoothing the hair A GREAT OFFER farms. Much time is spent of a morning on the sides and hips, but at no time are the feet examined and properly cared for. Now, be it known that in this six thousand year old world of ours, the feet need more care than the body. They need ten times as PRICES much-for in one respect they are almost the entire horse. All the grooming that can WHO HAS A HOUSE TO PAINT? be done won't avail anything, if the horse is forced to stand where his feet will be filthy. In this case the feet will become disordered, and then the legs will get badly out of fix, and with bad feet and bad legs there is not much else of the horse fit for anything. Stable prisons generally, are terribly severe on the feet and legs of horses, and unless these buildings can afford a dry room where a horse can walk around, lie down or roll over, they are not half so healthy and comfortable to the horse as the pasture, and should be avoided by all good hostlers in the country.

TO PREVENT CATTLE JUMPING FENCES .-The following singular statement was made at a late meeting of the American Institute Farmers' Club, New York. "To prevent steers from jumping fence, clip off the eye lashes of the under lids with a pair of seissors, and the disposition to jump is as effectually destroyed as was Samson's power by the loss of his hair. The animal will not attempt to jump a fence until the lashes are grown again; of this we are informed by Samuel Thorne, the great breeder of Duchess county, who assured us that he had test ed it upon a pair of breach oxen. As it has been of great value to him, he hopes it will be tried by others; no barm can be done by it, I should suppose." -- Deitz' Ex. Journal.

* PROMOTING LAYING .- To promote laying in winter-especially our Northern winterstimulating food is necessary, but breeders must bear in mind that birds treated in this way are always more or less injured by the use of such food, and will in a short time be useless for any purpose whatever. The following kinds of food are stimulating. Cooked meat chopped fine, bread soaked in ale, ground oats mixed with milk, tallow chandlers' greaves soaked in boiling water, and hempseed are all stimulating and tend where it is sold at prices that will induce their to make the towls lay.

A horse should have at least a pail of water, morning and evening; or still better, four half-pailfuls at four several times in the day, because this assuages his thirst without bloating him. But he should not be made to work directly after he has full draught of water, for digestion and exertion can never go on together.

Damaged corn gives horses inflamation of the bowels, and skin diseases.
