REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

FOR AUDITOR GENERAL:

Col. DAVID STANTON, of Beaver.

FOR SURVEYOR GENERAL:

Col. ROBERT A. BEATH, of Schuylkill.

THE wheat crop in Kansas has been harvested. The yield was unusually large.

A call for a Republican County Convention, to nominate a County Ticket, appears in our columns to-day, to be held on Thursday, July 6th, 1871.

In 1860 the Democracy took sides with traitors because they believed they were right. The "new departure" platform, adopted by that party, condemns treason now because they believe it to be expedient.

REMEMBER that the Democracy by proclaiming themselves in favor of negro suffrage at this late day, acknowledge that the Republican policy in reference to dealing with the rebellion was right, and that the Democracy was wrong.

HARK! A voice from the Tombs. Robert speaks his mind on the new departure, and says: "When you can tear the live thunder from its home in the burning ether, and bind it a captive at the footstool of tyranny, then, and not till then, will I accept the situation."

The Cleveland Herald, which had prophesied the defeat of the Vallandigham platform, now acknowledges its error. It says very candidly and pointedly: "We own up to the fact that we did not believe Vallandigham could make the Ohio Democrats empty their stomachs of all they had swallowed in the past, and then deliberately turn round and eat their vomited words."

By the fact of their having a majority of one in the State Senate, the Democrats of that body added over one hundred thousand dollars extra expense to the State in the appropriation bill. Were they to possess power in all the branches of the State Government the Treasury would soon be depleted that a Treasurer would not be needed. Let the intelligent tax payer cypher a little before he votes for McCandless and Cooper.

We do not question that the Democratic nominees for Auditor and Surveyor General were good soldiers, but we do say that standing upon a platform which is a contradiction of itself, and an insult to the people; and because they are the nominees of a party which did all in its power to destroy our national Government—a party which cannot be trusted on account of its affinity with treason—no intelligent man can vote for them.

THE Gazette says: What is to become of the white man's government? Last year the Democrats declared that they would never submit to anything but a white man's rule. Now they pretend to be in favor of negro suffrage, and contend for the equal rights of all men whatever may be their race, color or condition. Surely they cannot and will not denounce Republicans who have given them the only political platform upon which they can stand with safety. But should they fail to carry their ticket next fall, they may adopt a new platform. The Democracy are becoming very fickle and elastic. They will swallow anything that will secure political power. Principles they have not. The virtue of sincerity would be a new companion to them.

DEMOCRATIC friendship for the working man is exemplified by the fact that a Democratic majority in the State Senate refused to pass a resolution sent to them from the Republican House, condemning the Coolie system. The fact is, the leaders of the Democratic party while professing great love for the workmen in order to secure their votes, are still in favor of enslaved labor, and the oppression of the working men. Give that party political power, and it would fill the cellars of Pennsylvania with Coolies, willing to work for the old Democratic standard of wages—ten cents per day. Let the miners in our coal regions make a note of this fact and then vote with the party they think most consistent with their interests.

FOR down-right lying commend us to a "red hot" Democratic journal. Nearly every Democratic paper in the United States has been industriously circulating two very characteristic lies; one charging the President with appointing a son of Brigham Young to a cadetship at West Point, and the other, that he refused a similar appointment to a son of the brave Gen. Meagher. The fact is, the son of Brigham Young was appointed by Delegate Hooper, of Utah, and Meagher was appointed by a Democratic Congressman from N. Y. City. President Grant had been requested to appoint Meagher, and was about doing so, when the Tammany Democracy became alarmed for fear that such action might create for Grant a popularity among the Irish Americans, secured the appointment from a Democrat. These slanders were started by some irresponsible newspaper correspondent, for the sole purpose of accusing the President of being in sympathy with the practices and theories of Brigham Young and his followers, and to incite the Irish against him, and make the Democratic soul generally very happy. How many of these papers will have the manliness to make a retraction?

Are they Sincere?

In the 9th resolution, passed by the recent Democratic State Convention, the Democracy declare that "we recognize the binding obligation of all the provisions of the Constitution of the United States as they now exist." In order that the people may see how this declaration agrees with their position on that question in 1868, we place the two side by side, to wit:

PLATFORM 1868. PLATFORM 1871.

Resolved, That the Democratic party of Pennsylvania is opposed to conferring upon the negro the right to vote, and we do emphatically deny that there is any right or power in Congress or elsewhere to impose negro suffrage upon the people of the State in opposition to their will.

Resolved, That we recognize the binding obligation of all the provisions of the Constitution of the United States as they now exist, and we deprecate the discussion of issues which have been settled in the manner and by the authority of the people of the State by a constitutionally appointed body.

What think you of the twin? Was ever such a perfect summersault turned by any great political party? No! Never! But, are the Democracy sincere in their present professions? Do they really recognize the "binding obligation" of the 15th amendment? To show that they are not in favor of the "provisions of the Constitution of the United States as they now exist," and that they will repeal those provisions, just as soon as they are placed in power, we append some extracts from several fearless and outspoken organs of that party. The Lancaster Intelligencer says:

"We take it at its face value, and find in it a recognition of the fact that these amendments, although improperly adopted, are at present a part of the Constitution, and that we will obey them as long as they remain there; but no extension that we will not remove them when we properly do so."

The Bellefonte Watchman says:

"We must be allowed to enter our earnest protest against any such cowardly demagoguery as the ninth resolution which, seeking to conciliate Radicalism, 'denies the discussion of the negro suffrage and other so-called amendments to the constitution'—and would fain have the agitation of these questions which mongrelism would have us believe are dead issues;—no. Radicals, political charlatans, silly demagogues and men who have scarcely enough of Democratic blood in them to distinguish them from the mongrel race, who are now cursing the country, may deprecate the agitation of the negro suffrage question, but that will not stop it. It is a question. It will be agitated, and the Democratic masses, regardless of would be leaders and ignorant teachers, will agitate it. AGITATE! until the unconstitutional, dirty and demagogic dogma of negro suffrage is blotted out, and the government of our country placed under the exclusive control and guidance of the white race."

The Carlisle Volunteer says:

"Push on the column, all who are opposed to equality, negro supremacy and negro impudence."

And to convince the people that the resolution passed by their Convention on June 24th, 1871, was "a lie," and that the above quotations express the true sentiments of the Democracy on the "negro question," we quote from the Philadelphia Sunday Mercury (good Democratic authority) the following:

"We give Mr. Lewis G. Cassidy and his comrades, that move this lying, mendacious dirty business, the credit of having passed a resolution which will, in other States at least, prove a decided error. It will cut two ways. It will not only disgust and drive off many Democrats, but prevent thousands of honest and independent Conservatives from voting with a party that has forced a lie to win an election."

It is plain from the extracts given, that the Democratic professions of accepting the Constitutional provisions "as they exist," are a cheat and a fraud, with the intent of gulling the people into supporting their candidate for the Presidency in 1872. But it won't do. The cloven hoof is too conspicuous—the vail too thin to deceive the most superficial observer.

Very few of the Democratic papers in this State respect the resolution of the Democratic State Convention endorsing the XVth Amendment. The Bloomsburg Commonwealth, Backleaver's home organ, says:

"We have no respect for platforms set up by convention and endorsed by the principles they have been previously fully discussed and decided by the people in the selection of delegates."

Nor have the leaders of the Democratic party any more respect for the platform set up by McMillin and Wallace in their recent Convention, than has the editor of the Commonwealth. The whole thing is only a blind for the purpose of making Democratic votes. Their conduct can only be compared to that of the rebel soldiers, on several occasions during the campaign in Virginia. All Union soldiers will remember how they were then deceived by what they supposed were their comrades approaching the Union lines, which turned out to be rebels in disguise, having stolen the uniform of dead Federal soldiers, and in that garb managed to get close enough to murder our men without running any risk. The same spirit now pervades the Democracy. They are at the end of their string. Their cause is hopelessly gone—they have lost all hope of success on their old platforms—and knowing that they have forfeited the confidence of the people, and that they cannot win a fair and square victory by proclaiming their true principles, they are trying to hide their old worn out rebel dogmas by putting on the bright and beautiful garb of lively Republican principles, hoping, as did the rebels, under their disguise to get near enough the Union lines to do some damage to their foes. But their trick is too apparent; and hence, whenever you hear a Democrat vehemently proclaiming himself in favor of the XVth amendment, put him down as a "rebel" fighting in the stolen uniform of a true Union soldier.

Grant for the Presidency.

The Independent in its last issue pronounces in favor of Grant as "The People's Candidate" for the Presidency. Among other things it remarks:

"He may not have satisfied all the politicians—a task which would baffle the wit of an archangel, yet the great heart of the Republican party is with General Grant as a true man and a faithful executive; and, unless he shall reverse his own antecedents, he will say there. The Democracy will have to hunt for a candidate; but the Republican party will need to do no hunting. The man for the hour is already furnished to its hand. Though we expect to support whatever candidate the National Republican Convention may select, we take this early opportunity of expressing an opinion; and it is that Ulysses S. Grant is the man whom the 'people' of the party will demand, and whom its votes will be reluctant to withhold from Presidential service. The politicians, if any there be, who are planning or hoping otherwise, had better clear the track and prepare for this result."

From Such Economy Deliver Us.

One of our members of the Legislature (says the Scranton Republican) said to us the other day that if the Legislature had adjourned without passing the Appropriation bill it would have been a saving of a million of dollars to the Commonwealth.

The Democratic majority in the Senate, in order to compel the Republican House to submit to the killing of the Registry Law in Philadelphia, passed a resolution to adjourn sine die, without passing the Appropriation bill, or any other bills then pending.

A caucus of the Republicans of the House demonstrated the fact that if the Senate resolution to adjourn came to the House it would be promptly passed, and then let the people lay the blame where it properly belongs. This frightened the valiant Democratic Senators, for many of them were peculiarly interested in the Appropriation bill, and they concluded to reconsider their previous action. If the case is as stated, that an adjournment would have saved the State a million, we regret that it did not occur.

Immediately after it was known that the Democrats would have a majority in the Senate, some of the more honest journals urged in the most persistent manner that for honesty and economy, as that would be the most effective argument that could be used in the next campaign to secure a majority in each branch. The appeals of a few papers were really piteous, so earnest were they, but it was of no avail. There was no species of extravagance into which the Senate did not wildly plunge; its members voted themselves $500 extra pay; voted money into districts for the purpose of making political capital; and indulged in every species of rascality ever known to the most reckless and corrupt body of law makers.

The Pittsburg Gazette says: The leading Democratic paper of the country declares that the Confederacy has been dead so long, that the smell emitted from its "tomb," is very offensive. By which it means, we suppose, that if it were only alive, its odor would be fragrant. But as it is buried, its "ashes" should be allowed "to rest in peace." It is a breach of decorum to attempt to "exhume its carcass when decomposition and rotteness have asserted their empire. Such breaches of decorum," continues our Democratic contemporary, "are reserved for arrogant brawlers like Tombs, and arrant egotists like Davis; men who always cared more for themselves, and little for any cause except as a ladder for their ambition," which, we may add, are the characteristics of Democrats generally.

WHAT is the "Lost Cause," which Jefferson Davis affirms is not lost, but only postponed for a brief season? It is the dismemberment of the American Union and the establishment on its ruins of a Southern empire, with slavery—re-suscitated, of course—as the cornerstone! With the aid of the Northern Democracy, this is what the distinguished ex-rebel expects to live to see consummated. How do the Democrats hereabouts relish the entertainment to which they are invited?

The first meeting of the newly-organized Republican State Central Committee will be held at Altoona on Wednesday, June 21st. Business of importance connected with the next campaign will come before the Committee, and a full attendance is requested. Hon. CONNECTICUT responds to the Democratic "new departure." The recent election in Norwich resulted in the election of a Republican Mayor by 310 majority. Last year a Democrat was elected by 350 majority. Republican gain, 660. So much for the hypocritical "new departure." The wool dyed Copperheads of Connecticut won't stand on the platform.

SUICIDE.—Mr. Adam Guyer, of South Woodbury township, committed suicide on Wednesday, May 31st, by cutting his throat. The cause of the rash deed is not known. Six millions of dollars were voted out of the State Treasury under the general appropriation bill recently passed at Harrisburg, and the Governor was allowed scarcely six hours to examine and consider it. This is a gigantic evil, and its repetition should be prevented by a constitutional amendment.

THE Wilmington Commercial, in reference to the "new departure," says: "No Republican, it seems to us, can object to these proceedings of the Democracy. It is an endorsement, by our opponents, of our finished work. When even our enemies endorse it, must it not have been well done?"

It is currently reported that arrangements are being made for the vigorous prosecution of the work of building an air line railroad between Pittsburg and Chicago. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company are the projectors of the enterprise.
