True Loveliness. BY CHARLES SWAIN.

She who thinks a noble heart Better than a noble micn-Honors VIRTUE more than art, Though 'tis less in fashion seen-Whatsoe'er her fortune be, She's the bride-the wife-for me!

She who deems the inward grace Far surpasses outward show, She who values less the face Than that charm the soul can throw Whatsoe'er her fortune be, She's the bride-the wife-for me!

She who knows the heart requires Something more than lips of dew-That when love's brief rose expires, Love itself dies with it too-Whatsoe'er her fortune be, She's the bride-the wife-for me!

The Mechanic.

In the circles of false refinement, or where true refinement never dwells, you may hear the expression sometimes used, as if in derision, or commisseration, "Oh! he is only a mechanic!" It may seem strange, but there are men and women, too, who can boast no other lineage themselves, and who, when told of this poor man's misfortunes, or that man's sudden fall, pass over the matter with the old remark of "He's only a mechanic-no matter, God help him-he is only a mechanic." God does help him, my friends-God helps those who help themselves; and I say it boldly other class of equal number. "Only a ern parts of New York, and in the Westtures.
