From Santa Fe.

The St. Louis Union of the 31st inst. had a conversation, last evening, with Mr. Wm. Mitchell, who had just arrived from Santa Fe. Mr. Mitchell, who is here for the purpose of purchasing goods for the Santa Fe trade, informs us that business in that city is unusally dull at present, and this we would infer from the fact, that the publication of the Santa Fe Republican had been suspended about ten days when Mr. M. left. Much greater harmony appears to prevail between the American and Mexican inhabitants of Santa Fe than was anticipated, and the Mexicans are far better satisfied with their transfer from the Mexican to the American Republic than was supposed would be the case.

Col. Collier, the newly appointed Collector for California, who was at Santa Fe with a hundred men when Mr. Mitchell left, was about starting for California, under the guidance of the experienced Hatcher. Hatcher receives $1,600, three mules, and all necessary supplies for his services in piloting the Colonel through to San Francisco.

The emigrants have principally taken three routes, the largest body by far going the northern rout, by way of Fort Laramie. Beyond this fort grass and water are said to be very scarce, and there the greatest amount of suffering is anticipated. The middle, or old Spanish trail—the most direct rout from Santa Fe to California; and the southern, or Col. Cook's route, south of the Gila, are being travelled by pretty large bodies of gold hunters. Many of the emigrants have determined to stop and work the mines in the vicinity of Santa Fe, and before Mr. Mitchell left, one man had succeeded in sinking a shaft and for his first day's labor he obtained $116. Mr. M. says the opinion prevalent at Santa Fe is, that these mines are very rich, and that they have only been superficially worked by the Mexicans.

Mr. Aubry's train met the U. S. troops at San Miguel, about fifty miles this side of Santa Fe. They were getting along finely and enjoying good health.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.—Six Lives Lost.—We are indebted for intelligence of the following disastrous causality to our friend Mr. Robert Forsythe, who reached this city from Ohio river a few days since.—Last Friday week, the steamer Ben West, bound from Louisville to New Orleans, grounded when about one hundred miles below her starting point. After numberless fruitless efforts to spar her off, the Captain determined to light her of her freight and passengers. The yawl was immediately put in requisition. After making several trips from the boat to the shore and back, when under way again with six persons (three boat hands, two steerage and one cabin passenger) it was struck by the hawser, which fastened the steamer to the shore, and capsized, drowning every one in it.—St. Louis Reveille, 2nd inst.

THE SURRENDER OF GORGEY.

A very intelligent friend, now in Paris, writes that the fact is susceptible of proof that Gorgey, the young Hungarian general, was purchased by Russian gold. Two millions of dollars were previously offered to Dembinski, another of the Hungarian generals, but he indignantly refused the bribe, and exposed the plot. It is believed that Gorgey was more easily approached, for he secretly afterwards yielded his fine army into the hands of the foe of his country. We give the sad story as we have received it; by no means vouching for its accuracy, though it comes from an unquestionable source.—Pennsylvanian.

GEORGEY'S DEFECTION.— The impression is gaining ground, in the absence of the details of the singular and mysterious movements of Gen. Georgy, that he has proved false to the cause of Hungary, if indeed Russian gold has not directly influenced his conduct. The English journals seem also to suspect something of the sort, and the position of Georgey goes far to support the suspicion. He was known to be opposed to many of the schemes of Kossuth, and though none fought more gallantly than he, he is said to have retained strong feelings of regard for the empire and that the army against which he found himself arrayed. There is a volume yet to be developed as to the manner of his achieving a position in which he seems to have been vested with dictatorial power, and using it instantly to enter into negotiations of an unconditional surrender.—Daily News.

Another Shooting Case in St. Louis.

The St. Louis Reveille of the 28th, states that on the previous morning the residents in Second near Olive street were alarmed by the report of a pistol, and the shouts of a person, the principle actor in a scene of bloodshed which had just been enacted.—George J. Lansdown, well known to a certain class of our community, had just shot John Howard, the person whose paramour was killed by his wife sometime during last fall in Cincinnati, and who since killed young Freeman, at Independence. It seems that, for some weeks back, Lansdown had suspected the attention of Capt. Howard to his wife. For the past few days he had kept a close watch on all of her movements, from a place opposite the Doniphan House, where they both boarded. Save the occasional presence of Howard, whom, he states, he saw once or twice loitering in the neighborhood of the hotel, he could detect little to confirm his suspicions until this morning when he saw Mrs. Lansdown leave the house and walk down Second street.

He followed her until she entered the furniture store of Mr, Hart, on second, between Olive and Pine streets. She remained at the door one or two minutes, when she was joined by Mr. Howard.—The two remained engaged in conversation together only for a few moments, when Lansdown approached, and, Howard having his back turned, shot him in the small of the back, near the spine.—Howard fell, and Lansdown retreated for a short distance, but returned (probably with the intention of finishing his work, with a bowie knife he carried about him,) when, perceiving that the wounded man had also drawn out a pistol; he turned and fled. No attempt was made to arrest him until, on his way to the river, he was met at the Constitution House, between Main street and the landing, by officer W. J. Williamson, to whom he surrendered.

He was lodged in jail previous to an examination, which he will undergo this morning, before Law Commissioner Watson, under the Planter's House. Howard was conveyed to his room, corner of Olive street and Shark Alley. Drs. Pope and Martin, who have probed and examined the wound, state, that his case is not entirely hopeless. They have not yet succeeded in extracting the ball.

KENTUCKY.—The new House of Representatives, 57 Whigs, 42, Democrats, and one, probably Democrat, to come in. The Senate is strongly Whig, making the Whig majority on joint ballot about 20.—We hardly apprehend that instructions to Messrs. Clay and Underwood, to side with Calhoun on the slavery question, can pass the Senate. The Reform Convention meets in a few days. It is composed of 47 Whigs and 52 Democrats, with a tie in Casey county, where, with the candidates, there being no provision in existing laws for the case, Gov. Crittenden has signified his willingness to order a new election.—Daily News.

VERMONT ELECTIONS.—We have returns of Representatives from 207 towns in Vermont, all but apout 40 in the whole State. In these 117 Whigs are elected to 78 all others: Whig majority thus far 35. These same towns, last year elected 92 Whigs to 99 all others, showing a clear net Whig gain thus far of forty-two in the House!

☞The late election in the State of Vermont has resulted in favor of the Whigs, giving them a large increase of members of the State Legislature.

DIED—On Wednesday evening last, ——infant son of A. M. and Jane Hills, aged about 4 weeks.

On yesterday morning, also in this place, ALONZO WARREN, son of John and Hannah Gulich, aged 1 year, 10 months and 11 days.

Facts for the People.

Exposure to co'd when the body is heated, wet feet, putting on or keeping on wet clothes, in addition to hereditary disposition or unwholesome employment, are some of the primary and most frequent causes of that fearful disease—PULMONARY CONSUMPTION. For the removal of the effects of these causes, freeing the system of all obstruction, allaying irritation and promoting a healthy action of the lungs, the most speedy and certain remedy is Thomson's Compound Syrup of Tar and Wood Naphtha.

This preparation is formed by a union of some of the principles of our most valuable vegetable pectorals in a combination with Tar—the value of which, in all affections of the breast, all know and confess. Since its introduction, of those who have employed it,

"None name it but to praise."

And even the prejudice of Physicians to the employment of combinations, of whose exact constituents they may be ignorant, has been so far overcome that THIS ONE has been RECOMMENDED and is now daily PRESCRIBED in their practice.

This invaluable medicine is prepared at the N. E. corner of Fifth and Spruce streets, Philadelphia.

Prepared and sold by AGNEW & DICKSON, N. E. corner of FIFTH and SPRUCE streets, Philadelphia.

Sold by A. M. HILL, Clearfield, Pa., and by Druggists generally. Price 50c or $1 00 per bottle

PROSPECTUS OF THE UNION;

A Daily, Semi-Weekly, & Weekly Newspaper;

Published at Washington, D. C., and devoted to Politico, Literature, and General Intelligence.

On and after the first day of June 1849, the "UNION" will be published under the joint editorial management and control of the subscribers.

As both of the undersigned have been before the public in different stations—one of us for nearly half a century, and the other for several years—we believe it will not be deemed arrogant in us to suppose that nothing more than a general declaration of our principles and the course which we intend to pursue, will be necessary at this time.

The political character of the "UNION" will remain unchanged. As it has hitherto done from the date of its publication to the present time, it will continue to advocate the great principles of the democratic party as expounded by its illustrious founder, THOMAS JEFFERSON, and carried into successful practice in the administration of the government by subsequent democratic Presidents; principles which have secured for our beloved country an expansion, progress, and glory unexampled in the history of ancient or cotemporary empires, and elevated it to the first rank among the nations of the earth.—Those principles have been more fully developed in the original Prospectus which was published at the commencement of the publication of the "UNION," and re-published in its columns a few days ago.—They demand a system of taxation and revenue which shall be equal and just upon all classes and individuals, oppressing none and favoring none; economy in the expenditure of the public moneys; the separation of the fiscal affairs of the general government from all connexion with State institution or corporations created by itself; a strict construction of the constitution, confining the several branches of the general government to their particular spheres of action, and requiring of all a faithful performance of duty; and especially demanding and insisting that the President of the United States shall not abdicate his high powers and his responsibilities to an irresponsible cabal, under the name of a cabinet, who are not chosen by the people, & are not accountable to them at the ballot-box.

Such are, in general, the principles which the "UNION" will advocate; and, in performing the duties which they have jointly assumed, the undersigned are aware that, in the present crisis, it will devolve upon them to discuss the policy and measures of the party in power with freedom, and perhaps, on some occasions, with severity. But, in executing their high functions as conductors of the public press, they will not forget the dignity nor the amenities due to their position, while they perform their duty to the people with the firmness and fidelity which the occasion may demand.

Aware that the "UNION" is the sole organ at the seat of government, of the great democratic party, which represents the people of the United States not only in principles and sentiments, but also in numbers, the undersigned will endeavor to conduct it in that liberal and catholic spirit which the true interests of their country and party demand at their hands. They are not blind to the fact that in a republic so extensive as this, and embracing such a wide range of latitude and climate, different interests and different institutions must spring up apparently conflicting with each other, but, in reality, each contributing to the advancement of the whole.—This apparent conflict of interests and institutions, of course, gives rise to sentiments and opinions as apparently diverse, but which, rightly understood, and under just restraint, can do no injury to each other. With regard to these conflicting sentiments and opinions, growing out of local causes and institutions, it will be the object of the undersigned not to interfere, except to inculcate concession and forbearance on all sides, and to secure to each the just protection which the constitution promises to all.

Our endeavors will be to unite all the elements of the democratic party in support of its common principles, and in an effort to regain its ascendency, which has been lost by the mistaken trust and confidence which some of its members have reposed in a man, now occupying the presidency, who had gained high military honors in a noble and patriotic cause, and who, in order to attain the highest civic honors, made promises and pledges which he has, from incapacity to fulfil his duties, or from intentional design, grossly violated, thus betraying to the enemy those who confided in him, and bringing disgrace upon the Presidential office.

In carrying out these purposes and intentions, the undersigned feel that they shall stand in need of the active and energetic co-operation and support of the undivided democracy of the country. The party in power has secured its ascendancy by a fraud upon the people, and has most shamefully violated all the pledges which it made to attain power. It will endeavor to maintain its ascendency by the same unscrupulous means. It is the party representing the foreign sentiments and principles now too openly prevalent in this country, and which are at war with the principles of our government and with popular liberty. It is the party which always allies itself with every foreign enemy with which our country may happen to be at variance. It is the party that espoused the cause of Great Britain in the war of 1812, and leagued with Mexico in the war of 1845. Sound political morality, fidelity to republican principles, and that spirit of true patriotism which ever frowns upon treachery to one's country, require that this party shall be expelled from the power which it has gained by such reprehensible means, and is now exercising for such unjustifiable ends. And in this great work we invoke the energetic and unfaltering aid of every patriot and every friend to popular liberty and free government, assuring them that we shall endeavor not to be wanting in honest efforts to accomplish that part of the work of reform which may devolve on us.

But, while the "UNION" will be mainly devoted to politics, it will not overlook the demands of the domestic circle. It will contain all the important news of the day, and devote a reasonable portion of its columns to matters of interest relating to science, the arts, and general literature.

PROSPECTUS OF THE REPUBLIC.

The undersigned will, on the 13th day of June, 1849, begin the publication in the City of Washington, of a daily Whig Administration paper, to be called "THE REPUBLIC," the editorial supervision of which will be committed to the exclusive care of Alexander C. Bullitt and John O. Sargent.

The Republic will give to the principles upon which the administration of General Taylor came into power, a cordial, zealous and constant support. It will be a faithful record of the times; it will discuss public measures in an impartial and independent spirit, it will be a vehicle of the latest and most authentic information; it will be, in a word, a political newspaper, devoted to the liberalizing and progressive doctrines which prevailed in the late Presidential canvass; to the interests of labor, as veloped in the wants of agriculture, commerce and manufactures, and to the cause of literature, science, and general intelligence.

The Republic will acknowledge no allegiance except to the country. It will aim to merit the confidence and support of the American people. It will be the organ of no person, or party, or fraction of a party, in that compulsory sense which would hinder it from speaking boldly and candidly to the people about whatever it concerns them to know.

The Republic will be printed upon a double royal sheet, in a new, large, clear, readable type.

Besides the Daily paper, there will be published a Tri-weekly and Weekly Republic, made up of the most interesting & important matter of the Daily issue.
