

THE DOLLAR.

Clearfield, Pa., Oct. 19, 1849.

Accident.—We regret to learn that A. S. Leonard, of Goshen township, met with an accident one day this week, whilst ploughing in one of his fields, by which one of his legs was badly broken.

The weather, for the season of the year, continues pleasant. We have had a few sharp frosts, and some cold rains, but generally we have had a very pleasant fall.

The Last Riot.—A full account of the disgraceful riot which took place in Philadelphia on the night of the election, will be found in our paper this week. Strange as it may appear, politics is nowhere situated to have had anything to do with it, which is at least some relief.

President Taylor.—Gen. Taylor has again returned to Washington. It was announced in the Philadelphia papers last week that the President of the U. States was about starting on his tour to the North, and went as far as Baltimore, where he remained, day or two, when, owing to urgent public business, as it is rumored, was summoned back to Washington.

The Late Election.—We publish sufficient returns of the late election in this State to show that JOHN A. GAMBLE, esq., has been chosen Canal Commissioner by a large majority—perhaps as much as 15,000. The House of Representatives is also Democratic by a large majority. But the principal contest seemed to be for the control of the Senate. Last winter the Senate elected 20 Whigs to 13 Democrats. The Democrats have gained four members, which gives them a majority of 17 out of 33.

Onto Election.—The election in Ohio was held on the 17th inst. The Whigs were defeated. The Democrats were elected. The Whigs were 17, and the Democrats 33. The Whigs were 17, and the Democrats 33. The Whigs were 17, and the Democrats 33.

Gale on Lake Superior.—Arrival of Sir John Richardson. A correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer writes from the South Sea Islands on the 18th ult. that the propeller Napoleon (in which he was a passenger) had arrived from Isle Royal with the passengers who it was feared had been lost in their during the late tempest. The storm was tremendous, the water rose at White Fish Point eight or ten feet higher than had before been known, and the volume of water passing the Sault was so great as almost to obscure the falls. The writer says: Among others on board, we name Sir John Richardson, on his return from the Arctic region. He has found no traces of Franklin's expedition. Sir John left England in April, 1848, and from the Sault Ste Marie has made the voyage in canoes and boats and overland, a distance of three thousand and five hundred miles back by the way of the lake of the Woods, Mackenzie's River, &c. After reaching the Arctic Ocean, they travelled five hundred miles along the coast. He in the shirt, striped linen vest, canteen speaks confidently of the existence of a northern passage; its practicability, he says, is another question, the Summers being only from thirty to sixty days long. He was by way of Toronto and Montreal to Boston. We have also on board the U. S. Geological Corps, Foster, Whitney De Sore. They are bound down.

Efforts made to recover this morning... could be found. The body was recovered the next day by dragging the dock... Saturday Gazette.

Fatal Accident.—A most frightful accident occurred about seven o'clock yesterday morning in Front street near Greenwich, Southwark. As a man was going along at rather a slow pace on horseback, without a saddle, he suddenly fell off, when his horse stumbled and rolled over on him, causing his death in a few minutes. His name is supposed to have been J. W. Jones a resident of Pittstown, near Woodbury, N. J. He had on a green box coat, striped cassimere pantaloons, with a watch fob, striped linen vest, canteen, a flannel shirt, white muslin shirt, blue boots, white wool stockings, black fur hat. His shirt was marked 'J. W. Jones, No. 12.' The body was taken to the Green House to await the arrival of friends, after an inquest had been held by the Coroner.—Penny Journal.

TO CURE A COLD OR COUGH.—The Editor of the Baltimore Packet says:—The best remedy he ever tried in the family for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, &c., is the following: Take a slice of bread, cut it into small pieces, and dip it in a mixture of equal parts of honey and vinegar. Eat it three or four times a day, and it will cure you.

Melancholy Occurrence.—On Thursday last, about 3 o'clock, P. M., Jacob Louck, of West Manchester township, who was recently confined in the Lunatic Asylum at Philadelphia, mounted a spirited horse, and armed with a loaded rifle, came into town at full speed. He stopped opposite to the residence of Capt. George Hay, and deliberately aimed at the Captain, who was sitting on a sofa in his furniture warehouse. As he fired, the horse wheeled round, and the ball passed through the window in the passage of the house. He then started off at full gallop. As soon as Capt. Hay ascertained that it was Louck, he followed him on horseback. About two miles from town, he met Mr. Henry Igenfritz, son of Mr. John Igenfritz, who proposed riding up a lane after Louck, and did so, in company with another individual, while they crossed the fields to head him at the termination of the lane. The object was, if possible, to get from Louck the rifle, and any weapons he might have about him; as from former threats, there was some danger of his returning home, and injuring some of his family. Instead of watching Louck, he had been instructed to do Igenfritz rode up to him on the right side, and addressing him pleasantly, proposed that they should ride in company. Louck agreed to this, but after riding a short distance, proposed to get round on the right of Igenfritz. No objection being made, he passed round to the right, and suddenly, springing his horse ahead of Igenfritz, he wheeled round in his saddle and fired at him. The ball struck him in the right breast, about the first rib, passing through the spine and the left shoulder blade, lodging directly under the skin on the left shoulder. Igenfritz lived about two hours. His body was brought to town the same evening, and taken to the residence of his father, David Everhart & Albertus Welsh, who were in the vicinity at the time this occurred, immediately gave chase to Louck, and captured him about 7 o'clock the same evening, on the Conewago Mountain, about nine miles from York. When searched, he had two heavily loaded pistols on his person, and a number of balls for the rifle. He had also arranged a sheet of tin under his vest, as a breast-plate. Great excitement was apparent, when he was brought to town, about 10 o'clock, and amidst cries of "Lynch him!" "Hang him!" the prisoner was with some difficulty safely lodged in jail, where he will remain until some disposition be made of him at the November Court. There is no doubt of his insanity; he has been for some time practicing with the rifle on horseback, with the avowed purpose of shooting his father-in-law and Capt. Hay, but his family and friends paid no attention to his threats, probably not believing him capable of carrying them into execution. Mr. Igenfritz was a worthy man, about 23 years of age, and leaves a young widow to mourn his untimely fate.—York Gazette.

Casualties, &c. of the Week.—On Tuesday, an unknown deaf and dumb man, died in a lot, in the rear of the Spring Garden Watch House. On Wednesday, the body of an unknown man was found drowned in the Delaware. On Friday, a young man named Daniel McNamara, was seriously stabbed in an oyster cellar. On the same day an inquest was held on the body of Henrietta Frank, colored, who was burned to death between 10 o'clock on Thursday evening and 10 o'clock on Friday morning; the deceased had been left ironing clothes by the family at 10 o'clock, and was found dead in the cellar. On Saturday, J. W. Thompson, head waiter of the Merchants Hotel, fell from a fifth story window, and injured his skull, so that his life was despaired of. On Sunday, Robert Evans, residing in Parish street, above Eighth, Spring Garden, died from the effects of injuries received the previous evening, by the ignition of gas, and the explosion of a can, from which he was pouring the fluid into a lighted lamp. On Saturday evening, Francis Goddard, of the water works, was killed by the explosion of a boiler, the noise made by this falling in the water was heard by the mate of the ship and others, and efforts made to recover this morning... could be found. The body was recovered the next day by dragging the dock... Saturday Gazette.
