

THE DOLLAR.

Clearfield, Pa., Nov. 9, 1849. The 29th of November. The Proclamation of Gov. JOHNSTON, appointing Thursday the 29th day of this month to be observed throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as a day of Thanksgiving and Praise to God, the Supreme Ruler of the world, for his abundant blessings, will be found in another column.

The Antediluvian World. Professor L. DAVIS, a gentleman who appears to have devoted great attention to his subject, lectured in the Court house in this place last night on the interesting subject of Bible history. He illustrates his lectures with various picture representations, such as the Egyptian Pyramids, the ruins of Thebes, Palmyra, Babylon, &c.,—certainly the best we have ever seen—greatly aiding the mind of the hearer in applying and comprehending the ideas of the lectures. He will also lecture this (Thursday) evening—admittance only 12 cents.

The Weather.—We do not recollect of ever having enjoyed such delightful weather so late in the fall as we have had up to this time. Several days of the present week have been warm enough to render open doors necessary for comfort.

THE ROBBERS is the title of a Drama translated from the German by Frederick Schiller, and which will be published in book form in a few days by GEORGE LIPPARD, esq. All who know the high reputation sustained by this gentleman for his literary attainments, will rest assured that the Drama must be good to merit his approbation. For price, &c., see notice in another column. Address George Lippard, Philadelphia.

The News from Europe. We must again call the attention of our readers to the highly interesting news from Europe, a large portion of which will be found in this paper. The Philadelphia papers of the 5th and 6th contain the telegraphic report of the news brought by the steamer Ibernia which arrived at Halifax last Saturday, with seven days later news, but nothing of a more definite character touching the difficulty between Russia and Turkey on the subject of the Hungarian refugees, than that brought by the steamer Europa, and which we publish.—By the last steamer advices we have a doleful account from Ireland. It would appear that the present condition of that unhappy Island is worse, if possible, than that of civil war. The potato blight is quite as extensive as at any former period, and the peasantry, driven to desperation by the prospect of another year of starvation and death, are everywhere seizing upon the crops of every kind. The consequence is, many serious conflicts between them and the civil authorities, which have resulted in the loss of many lives. To add to these horrors, the Orangemen and Repealers are creating great excitement by their antagonistical movements.

But we commenced this paragraph for the purpose of directing the attention of our numerous readers particularly to the eloquent appeal of the unfortunate Kossuth, to the Prime Minister of England. What will the British government say or do in answer to this appeal to its humanity? Can she refuse to grant every request, without forfeiting every shadow of claim to the title of a humane and enlightened nation? She has the power—she knows the demand is just one—all she wants is the will. But what of the government of Turkey? First it grants an asylum to Kossuth and his followers unconditionally; then, at the bullying demand of the Emperor of Russia, makes it a condition of her hospitality that they must renounce and abjure the faith of the Christian religion and bow down to the unmeaning worship of Paganism. This is a most fatal step for the Sultan. France and England will both tell him that they can form no alliance with a nation so false to its pledges, and so lost to the first principles of humanity. He may repent, and repeat his noble declaration that he would rather lose 50,000 of his own men than that a single hair of the heads of the Hungarians should be injured. If he does, then may we hope for freedom again to dawn in the north of Europe; or behold the haughty Czar of Russia hang his head in sullen submission to the great progressive spirit of the age.

But most of all, we regret that the government of the United States has no chance to say a single word on this subject. We have no minister at all at St. Petersburg, and Mr. Carr, our Minister at Constantinople, is still there, but only as a private citizen, in effect—he having several months ago been notified of his recall, though no person has as yet been appointed in his place. Why is this? Is there no remedy?

The Speakership. Among the men prominently spoken of as candidates for the honorable post of Speaker of the next State Senate, we notice the names of J. PORTER BRALEY of Crawford; Gen. W. F. PACKER of Lycoming; & CHARLES FRALEY, of Schuylkill, either of whom would make efficient presiding officers.

For Speaker of the House, the number is still greater, among whom J. M. PORTER, of Northampton; JOHN McCALMONT, of Venango; J. B. MEEK, of Centre, and Dr. McCLENTOCK, of Allegheny, are the most conspicuous.

M. BODISCO. M. Bodisco has been for many years residing at Washington city in the capacity of Russian Minister to the United States, and some six or eight years ago married a young American lady, and invested a large amount of funds in American property for her benefit. This latter act, some of the Washington scribblers have recently discovered, gave offence to the Russian Monarch, who recalled his Minister last spring, and after his arrival at St. Petersburg for the first time revealed his displeasure, and, at last accounts, was about banishing him to Siberia. This has been the subject of much Washington gossip, and many contradictory statements have appeared, among others a card from madam Bodisco stating that her husband was still in St. Petersburg safe and sound, and that he was expected to return to the United States during the coming winter or spring. The general impression, however, from all that has transpired is, that M. Bodisco is under the displeasure of his government from some cause.

A Total Wreck. The Bank of Susquehanna county has departed this life, again cheating the people out of hundreds of thousands of dollars. The Cashier, as we learn by the telegraphic news in the Pennsylvania of the 6th, has been committed to prison, at Moutrose, on the charge of purloining some $80,000 of the funds of the Bank.

A fire broke out in the Democratic Union office, about two o'clock on the morning of the 28th ult., which was extinguished by the vigilance of the firemen and citizens of Harrisburg, not, however, until it had destroyed a large portion of the excellent material in that extensive printing office.

[BY REQUEST.] The Second Adventists have been holding meetings, during this week, in a large tent erected for the purpose, at the corner of Steward and Pine streets. The meetings have been well attended, and good order has been preserved. The Adventists are a zealous, and undoubtedly a sincere people—though, perhaps, a little too confident in their interpretations of prophecies, and sometimes rather rash in their denunciations of such as do not agree with them. Their agitation has had one good effect, which the Christian world ought to acknowledge. It has led to a more thorough and perhaps a more candid searching of the Scriptures, than has resulted from the promulgation of any other idea since the Reformation. All the people of this faith, so far as we know them, are Bible students. They carry their authority with them, generally, and turn with remarkable quickness to any portion of the sacred text which an opponent may refer to. If they are wrong in some of their interpretations, it can hardly follow that the world will be worse for their existence. Men cannot study the Bible so constantly and closely, without deriving some benefit from it; it will fashion their lives, though it may not convince them of the error of some of their doctrines; and it will thus send into the world an influence of more value than thousands of sermons, aimed at the inculcation of some fustian and tangled abstraction.—Providence Republic Herald.

California.—A correspondent of the National Intelligencer, writing from San Francisco, says—We are pushing strongly for a civil government. The elements of a State Constitution are taking shape under the wise policy of General Riley.—We intend to have two Senators in the chamber of your capital next winter.—The high station, owing to the gold mania is less anxiously sought here than you would suppose. The most prominent persons for the post are Gen. M. G. Vallejo, a well tried friend of the flag; Thomas Butler King, of Georgia; Walter Colton, so long Alcade of Monterey, and Thomas O. Larkin, late Navy Agent. All these gentlemen have strong friends to back them. Col. Fremont will undoubtedly be elected Governor.

FATAL ACCIDENTS.—We are sorry to hear that a man named John King, overseer to Mrs. Berry, residing near Addison's Chapel, in Prince George's county, came to his death on Wednesday last, at Upper Marlboro, under the following painful circumstances. Mr. King was attending the agricultural fair held that day, and on leaving the village on horseback, his animal suddenly took fright on turning a corner of the street, when Mr. King fell, broke his neck, and died on the spot. A young colored man named Henry Hines, was killed yesterday morning, about ten o'clock, by the train of cars passing over his breast and producing immediate death.—National Intelligencer.

Sir John Franklin's Expedition. A long article appears in the London Athenaeum, throwing many doubts on the truth of the narration of the Esquimaux to Captain Parker, of the English whaler, Truelove, arrived at Hull. The Athenaeum publishes a letter from Mr. Goodstiro a Scotch gentleman, who embarked on the Advice whaler, which accompanied the Truelove in her passage to Lancaster Sound in search of the expedition, for the purpose of assisting personally in gathering information of Sir John's ships. Mr. M.'s letter advances the opinion, that had the Esquimaux really visited the ships, the expedition would have forwarded communications to be delivered in the whalers in Pond's Bay. Mr. G. also argues that if Sir James Ross be where the report places him, he would have opened up a communication by his own men with the whalers during the summer months. These surmises are, however, not generally sustained in England, by persons competent to judge, and the Athenaeum adds: "We may mention that Mr. Goodstiro's last letter bears the date of August the 22d at which time he was in latitude 65, 30 min., far too much to the south to glean any intelligence respecting the expeditions. "This is so melancholy a view of the case, that we are glad to find to report that an opposite one is entertained by those who may be considered the great Arctic authorities. We have caused inquiries to be made, and such is the result. Sir George Back, who has had great intercourse with the native Esquimaux, declares that he never knew an Indian or an Esquimaux tracing to fall; and, after deliberately weighing all the information, he is of the opinion that four ships, answering to those composing the two expeditions, were seen some time in the spring of this year by the Esquimaux; but whether in Prince Regent's Inlet or to the westward of Boothia is uncertain." Captain Perry, Col. Sabine and Admiral Beaufort, are all in favor of the truth of the Esquimaux report."

A STRIKING THOUGHT.—"The death of an old man's wife," says Lamartine, "is like cutting down an ancient oak that has long shaded the family mansion.—Henceforth the glare of the world, with its cares and vicissitudes, fall upon the old widower's heart, and there is nothing to break their force or shield him from the full weight of misfortune. It is as if his right hand was withered—as if every wing of his eagle was broken, and every movement that he made brought him to the ground. His eyes are dim and glassy, and when the film of death falls over him, he misses those accustomed tones which might have soothed his passage to the grave."

OVERGROWN LONDON.—Returns just published by order of the House of Commons, show that the total number of new houses built within the metropolitan police districts since January 1, 1829, up to the present time, amounts to 64,058; and the number of new streets formed, to 1652, in length 209 miles. The increase of population from 1830 to 1849, within the said district, is estimated at 525,905; the total population of the metropolitan district being now about 2,360,000.

CHOLERA IN CARTHAGENA.—Accounts from Carthage to the 30th of August state that the cholera had almost exterminated the whole city of Carthage. The population exceeded 10,000, and of these, in a short time, one-fourth were carried off by the disease. The epidemic not only raged at Carthage and in the province, but also extended its ravages to Santa Martha and Monpax, where its fatality has equalled that at Carthage.

"THE ROBBERS" is concluded in this week's number of our paper. We will put to press, next week in book form, a new and splendid edition of this great Drama—the only complete edition ever issued in this country. It can be forwarded by mail to any part of the United States.—Brethren of the press who may give this a notice, will be entitled to a copy of the book. Notwithstanding the expense which we have incurred, in the stereotyping of this Drama, we will sell it for 25 cents per copy; or FIVE COPIES for $1 00 remitted by mail.—Quaker City.

DIED.—On Tuesday last, in Lawrence township, ARCHIBALD HENRY, son of Joseph and Elizabeth Shaw, about 1 year of age.
