

on the part of the author, or from his equally ignorant belief that we are soft enough to assume the paternity of that which he is either afraid or ashamed to own. But that is not the case in the present instance. A Trial to Humanity, shows, by his free use of language, and well arranged argument, that he is not unacquainted with the common courtesies in such cases made and provided, and we can only account for his not furnishing us with his name, as an oversight, and confidentially relying upon his good intentions, we waive this well-established rule for the present, expecting that by next week, the author will make amends for the past.

The Nashville Convention.—At a recent election held at the seat of government, on the question of sending delegates to the Nashville Convention, there were 302 votes; four delegates received each one vote, and there were besides, six other votes in favor of a convention, but naming no delegates, and 295 votes were no convention, no disunion. The Galveston Journal of the 8th inst., says that in that place, the people would not vote on the question at all, and adds: "We have no doubt that the recommendation law, or whatever else it may be termed, passed by our Legislature upon the heels of an adjournment, relative to this matter, will meet with just such a merited rebuke throughout the entire State."

Blind Affray.—An affray which terminated fatally to the participants, occurred at Monterey on the 7th inst. It had its origin in a quarrel about game cocks, belonging to a man named Harrison, who was just returning from Alabama. Lester, a man in Harrison's employ, got into a dispute with a blacksmith named Collins, who called to Lester to come from the boat, if he wanted satisfaction. Harrison and Lester went to the shop, and as the latter stepped in, Collins knocked him down with his tongs, when he was shot by Harrison. He then struck the latter on the head, and again turned and struck Lester, when Harrison shot him a second time. After receiving the last wound, Collins threw the tongs at Harrison, which struck him just below the eye, and went down in his mouth. Harrison lived three hours. Lester died instantly. Collins lived until next morning. They were all men of families.

The Recent Process in Washington. A difficulty arose, yesterday, in front of the Intelligence office, between Senators Foote and Borland, out of a conversation on Southern affairs. Mr. Foote dropped a few words about "servile followers" of Mr. Calhoun, which Mr. Borland construed to reflect upon himself, a scuffle ensued, in which Gen. Foote was struck in the face. He had but recently recovered from a severe attack of pleurisy, and was hardly prepared for a street fight. Mr. Borland, the moment the blow was struck, perceived, himself, the extreme impropriety and ungenerousness of his conduct, and apologized for it in a manner which would do credit to his high conduct.

The occurrence is the more to be regretted, as Messrs. Foote & Borland have been friends, and Mr. Foote had, on a very recent occasion, defended Mr. Borland against the assault of his enemies. I am glad to add, that the unconditional apology offered by Mr. Borland, has since been considered personally satisfactory by Gen. Foote; and that, in all probability, Mr. Borland will this evening be introduced to the bedside of Gen. Foote, to shake hands with him.

After so grave an offence was committed, it was certainly an act of justice and respect for his own dignity, as well as for the dignity of the body of which Mr. Borland is a member, to apologize, as he has done, to a tried and true friend. After an error is committed, the best plan is to acknowledge it frankly; and not to aggravate it, by false pride that would add crime to rashness.—Baltimore Sun, March 16.

A Rabbit Chase.—The Berks county papers tell a story at the expense of a countryman residing at Alsace, near that city—which by the way, we would be tempted to disbelieve, had it occurred anywhere but in that county, for we do not believe any man in this State, (other than a Berks County) is green enough to be caught at such a trick. It appears that the fellow lost his leather purse, containing a small amount in notes, in the following singular manner. He was loading wood on his wagon, when he observed a rabbit in the pile, which he caught. Retrieving a few more sticks, another made its appearance, and in order to secure it, he tied the hind legs of the captured one with the strings of his purse, and in fancied security, laid down the rabbit, when it started off at a fleet gallop with purse and money. "The countryman pursued it for upwards of six miles, when getting exhausted and out of breath, he gave up the chase.—Pottsville Ledger.
