The Saturday Gazette

PARLOR JOURNAL.

The subscribers, on beginning the 12th volume of their newspaper, cannot but exmess their satisfaction with the patronage they have received, for the past year, since the enlargement. The Gazette now contains thirty-six columns of reading matter, which is from four to eight more than the weeklies generally; and being printed in new and handsome condensed letter, contains more matter than any two dollar so much on the superior quantity of the contents, as on the quality that the subexcels its contemporaries will, therefore not be out of place here.

BEST CORPS OF CONTRIBUTORS.

From its commencement, the Gazette has been made up principally of original contributions in prose and verse, and not, as most of the weeklies are, of selections clipped from the country papers and each other. The subscribers of the Gazette always have fresh reading, therefore; and this from the very best pens the country affords. Some of our most eminent wri- MANSION HOUSE, ters contribute to no other newspaper: a. mong them we may name, the author of the "Bedott Papers," Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, T.
