Littlefield, sending pardon of enquiring about gases... After reading the statement, Dr. Putman proceeded to argue as to its truthfulness, said that it was made when the writ of error was still pending. Also, that Professor Webster's estate was worth several thousand dollars, and that he was not in such a strait as to commit such a crime deliberately. The previous petition from Professor Webster, protesting his innocence, and praying for absolute pardon, he said, was got up by his family who were unwavering in their belief in his innocence, until his confession was communicated to them about a week since. He concluded in asserting his belief that the confession was true.

Members of the council have retained a copy of the petition previously presented, and withdrawn by the advice of Dr. Putman, which will probably be published. It asserts his innocence, and also asserts that Littlefield, or some other person, placed the remains in his room, to compass his ruin.

Another Horrible Indian Massacre. The St. Louis Republican contains a melancholy narrative of the massacre of a party of ten Americans, perpetrated, it is supposed, by the Apache Indians, on the Plains between Independence, Missouri, and Santa Fe. It appears that a party just arrived at Independence report that at the Wagon Mound, eight or twenty miles this side of Moro, and the first American settlement, they found the bodies of ten Americans, pierced with bows and arrows. From papers in their pockets they ascertained that the party consisted of Messrs. T. W. Flourney, Benjamin Shaw, John Doty, Moses Goldstein, Clay Williams, Hendrickson, Freeman, and others not recognized. From indications, it is supposed they had encamped for the night, about a mile this side of the place where they were killed, and early in the morning were surrounded and cut off. Two of their bodies were found in their little wagon, the rest on the ground around it, and the mules in the harness, killed as they stood. Several of the above party were citizens of Independence, and men who were very much esteemed. Mr. T. W. Flourney left there, accompanied by three persons, conveying the mail, to take charge of the wagons and goods of Mr. Brown's train, that had, in the winter months, been stopped on the Somerone by the snow. He was a young man of much promise, and bid fair, by his attention to business in that province, to be able soon to attain the object of his desires. Mr. Goldstein, who had goods in Mr. Brown's wagons, was going in to Santa Fe, in advance of the wagons, with the party; he, with his brothers, were for a number of years engaged in merchandising in Independence. Mr. Shaw, for a long time partner of Mr. John F. McCarty, Mr. Doty, and one or two others, were coming in to the States, but, induced to return to Santa Fe by hopes of greater gain, were thus suddenly hurried into eternity. The murdering party, it seems, after having satisfied their revenge, left all things as they found them, for the mail bags were carried but a short distance, and but few of the letters destroyed.

Within the last nine months, twenty good and true citizens, besides a lovely lady and child, have been made the victims of the cruelty of a wild and fierce set of savages. It becomes now the duty of every lover of his kind, to make a demand at the hands of our Government, that these troubles be put an end to, at once and forever—the interests of individuals demagnified, and Mexico and California require it also that of the whole Republic. The company just in met with different trains going out, all getting along pretty well. This train of Mr. Brown, by this sad disaster, goes into Santa Fe with scarcely a person to attend to it. The consequences must be, unless some kind friend volunteers his services, much loss and delay.

PURCHASE OF CUBA.—Things at Havana.—A letter dated Havana, June 19, in the Mobile Tribune, from a gentleman who had lately arrived there, and had been very unexpectedly permitted to land without a passport says:

Generally accredited rumors are in circulation, that negotiations for the purchase of Cuba, by our government, are nearly concluded. A lawyer (Foulhouse) from New Orleans, who has been some what conspicuous in Cuban affairs, is said to be here in connection with that purchase. We are indebted to him, I believe, for the permission granted to land. He seems, and, in fact, claims to be, on the most intimate and confidential terms with the Conde de Alcoy. That the government fears us, no one who lands here can doubt. Any one who observes the large military force in and around the city, and the heights bristling with cannon, must necessarily arrive at the conclusion that the Conde de Alcoy is equally distrustful of his own people. For it is not to be supposed that he would have secured a vessel to land in Havana, if he had not been in the confidence of the government.

Spanish Outrages. Since the Spanish invasion, the Spanish mon-of-war have been very impudent in prying into the affairs of all the American sea-captains in the Gulf of Mexico. The latest outrage was the overhauling of the schooner Gen. Taylor, on her passage from Chagres to Turk's Island. This was done by a war steamer, and the Spaniards were very insolent to the captain and crew, ransacking the whole vessel. The steamer likewise overhauled the American brig Navias, bound from some southern port to Beverly, Massachusetts. We suppose, however, nothing will be done by our Government but to protest against such impertinence. Should these outrages continue it would not be a bad plan for some shrewd Yankee to send out a vessel prepared to be searched, and let the Spaniard "catch a Tartar." It would be "right nice fun" to blow up a Spanish steamer, or in any way, and worth all the trouble it would cost. It is well known that the Spaniards are very ignorant of our laws, and that they will be very easily deceived. Disinterested Patriotism of the Italian Leaders in the late Revolution.

If what is told is true about Manin, Mazzini and Garibaldi, the leaders of the Italian revolution a year or two since, they have the blood of Brutus in their veins. Manin was dictator of Venice for eighteen months. During that time he refused to receive any pay from the treasury, and since his exile he has refused to accept a large sum of money subscribed for him by the patriots of Italy. He is now living at Paris, and gains his livelihood by giving lessons in Italian. Mazzini, former dictator at Rome, drew no salary whatever, and is now maintaining himself in exile by his pen; he writes well in Italian, French and English, and contributes to the literary journals of three countries. Garibaldi, the Roman general, whose deeds of heroism rank him with the chivalrous knights of the Round Table, and make him the worthy peer of Richard of the Lion Heart, would consent to receive nothing from the Roman Republic but his food, clothing and arms. When he reached Piedmont, after his long and perilous march from Rome, he was destitute. Such examples of disinterested patriotism are enough to redeem the age from the stain of selfishness, placed on it by the chosen chiefs of the retrograde movement.

Strange Catholic Ceremonies in Italy.

At Messina, in the celebration of the assumption of the Madonna, a huge car is introduced, forty feet high, supported by iron machinery, and very fancifully decorated. This car is drawn through the streets for three days. The base represents a tomb occupied by a choir chanting over the body of the Madonna. The twelve apostles are in attendance, personated by youths of good families. Above them is a circle that revolves horizontally, with children attached to it representing angels under a large Sun and Moon that turn vertically, with six infants as cherubims suspended at the ends of the principal rays. The infants and children suffer exceedingly in sustaining the parts assigned them, and when taken down, are not infrequently half dead from fright and fatigue. As to the girl who personates the Madonna, I was informed that it was always deemed prudent to place her under the custody of the police for some days afterwards to save her from the infatuation of the lower orders, who would, unless thus restrained, tear the hair off her head for relics. The lungs it is well known sustain only a subordinate part in the economy of life. In one of the religious processions a boy, who had been gilded over and exhibited to represent the Golden Age, died in consequence of the obstruction occasioned to the vessels of circulation.—Letter from an American.

The New Comet.

The new comet is now faintly visible to the naked eye in the constellation Ursa Minor. Its northern declination being 72 deg., and its right ascension 16h. 20m. It will continue to approach the earth until the middle of July, when it will attain its minimum distance from us of about thirty-eight millions of miles, or less than half its present distance. As it is also approaching the sun, it will become five or six times brighter than it now is. On the 20th June its geocentric position will be between the stars Alpha and Iota Draconis. On the 11th of July it will be seen a few degrees to the west of the bright star Arcturus, in the constellation Bootes.—Moving rapidly to the south, it will pass near the star Spica Virginis on the 23d of July, and will soon after descend below the southern horizon.

It is already fast increasing in brightness, it will probably be distinctly visible to the naked eye during the middle of July. It is a singular fact, that the first European observations of this comet were represented by elements which made the probability of a collision with our planet a matter of serious apprehension.—Boston Traveller.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO AN AMENDMENT OF THE CONSTITUTION.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the Constitution of this Commonwealth be amended in the second section of the fifth article, so that it shall read as follows: That the Judges of the Supreme Court, of the several Courts of Common Pleas, and of such other Courts of Record as are or shall be established by law, shall be elected by the qualified electors of the Commonwealth, in the manner following, to-wit: The Judges of the Supreme Court, by the qualified electors of the Commonwealth at large; the President Judges of the several Courts of Common Pleas, and of such other Courts of Record as are or shall be established by law, and all other Judges required to be learned in the law, by the qualified electors of the respective districts over which they are to preside or act as Judges; and the associate Judges of the Courts of Common Pleas by the qualified electors of the counties respectively. The Judges of the Supreme Court shall hold their offices for the term of fifteen years, if they shall so long behave themselves well, (subject to the allotment hereinafter provided for, subsequent to the first election) the President Judges of the several Courts of Common Pleas, and of such other Courts of Record as are or shall be established by law, and all other Judges required to be learned in the law, shall hold their office for the term of ten years, if they shall so long behave themselves well; all of whom shall be commissioned by the Governor, but for any reasonable cause, which shall not be sufficient grounds for impeachment, the Governor shall remove any of them on the address of two-thirds of each branch of the Legislature. The first election shall take place at the general election of this Commonwealth next after the adoption of this amendment, and the commissions of all the Judges who may then be in office shall expire on the first Monday of December following, when the resolution were, Augustus K. Coryn, David Evans and James M. Porter—Nays 3. Extract from the Journal WILLIAM JACK, Clerk.
