DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

The Democratic Society of Clearfield County requested to hold a General County Meeting in the court house on SATURDAY the 25th day of July next at 12 o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of appointing two Delegates to represent our county in the Congressional Convention.

By order of the STANDING COMMITTEE.

CAMP MEETING.

A Camp Meeting for the Clearfield Circuit will be held on the land of Mr. DAVID ADAMS, near Pleasant Creek Bridge—to commence on the 28th of August. The location is just beyond Mr. Adams' house in a small woodland to the left of the Turnpike. It has the advantage of being accessible from almost every quarter by good roads, and being quite convenient to several springs of water. Members of the church, friends of religion, and the rustic are generally invited to attend.

E. WELTY,
H. HOFFMAN,
J. LLOYD.

E. W. CARR, Esq., (of Philadelphia) General Newspaper Agent, is hereby requested to act as Agent for the "BANNER," to receive subscriptions, advertisements, &c.

For want of paper, we were unable to issue a paper last week, and are compelled to issue but a half sheet. After next week we hope to appear regularly on Wednesdays.

THE COUNTY MEETING ON THE 25th.

The democrats in the country should remember the County Meeting to be held on the 25th inst.—A general turn out of the party at this season of the year cannot be expected; but every democrat who can come, without too great a sacrifice on his part, should feel it his duty to be here. It is a matter of the greatest importance to our county.—Our citizens suffer seriously, in many parts of the county, for the want of mail routes, and the proper regulations of post roads, and regulations that can be made, too, without any additional expense to the Department. These things, it seems, can only be done by one of our own citizens, who knows and feels an interest in them. Come out, then, all of you, and spend an hour or two for the welfare of your party.

The Steamer Britannia has arrived at Boston, bringing British papers to the 19th June. They contain no news of any general importance. Sir Robert Peel's reform measure's are dragging their slow length through the forms of Legislation—the famous Corn Law bill having passed through committee of the whole in the House of Lords by 33 majority. As a consequence, grain of all kinds had fallen in price.

His holiness, the Pope of Rome is dead, having died suddenly on the 1st of June. Cardinal Fronzoni, it is said, is the person most likely to succeed him.

The most interesting part of the news by this arrival is the accounts, by the British Press, of the victories of Gen. Taylor over the Mexicans. They generally unite in giving old Rough and Ready, and his little army, the highest praise for their conduct.

HON. WM. BEATTY.

We learn by the Butler Herald of July the 1st, that this distinguished democrat declines being a candidate for Congress at the coming election. The Herald accompanies the notice with the following well deserved compliment:

"We embrace this opportunity to say, that there is no man in Pennsylvania who has contributed more, for the last twenty years, to establish and sustain the great democratic principles and the great interests of the State, than Mr. Beatty; and it can truly said of him, that there has been no public station he has ever held, but what he has discharged its duties with a single eye to the public interest."

NEXT CONGRESSMAN.—The Democrats of Armstrong hold their county Convention on the 16th June, and nominated a full ticket. The Congressional Conferences are James Douglass and Robert Mcintosh, Esq., with instructions to carry out the spirit of the following resolutions:

Resolved, That that the last Wednesday, the 29th of July, be the time at which the Conference of this Congressional district be requested to meet at the house of Wm. G. Clark, in the borough of Indiana.

Resolved, That the conference delegates be and they are hereby instructed to support Maj. FREDK. PATERSON, for nomination as the candidate of the Democratic party for Congress, at the ensuing election.

The Democrats of Indiana hold a county meeting on the 23d June, and appointed Maj. A. Kelly, and Hon. F. Cannon, conference, with the instructions contained in the following resolutions:

Resolved, That this meeting, entertaining entire confidence in the talents, integrity, and political principles of Augustus Drury, Esq., and would respectfully recommend him to the favorable consideration of the delegates, appointed to nominate a candidate for Congress, as a suitable person to represent this district in the National Legislature.

From the above proceedings, it would seem that we are likely to have, at least one candidate from each county in the district. Armstrong and Indiana, and have each presented a man, and most likely Walker and Clermont, will do the same. There is no harm in this. Let there be a multitude of candidates, if you please, before the convention—then let the delegates, who should be well acquainted with the feelings of their respective counties, select the man who ought to be elected. There are four Followers in the district, and I think a candidate to please the eye of faith, and the eye of reason, will be found in each.

Like the angel of death, the hand of Providence will bring us safety, to the end of our pilgrimage.

It will guide you through all the trials of life, mortal pilgrimage, to the fruition of a noble, perfect, and unchangeable.

Resolved, The Day we celebrate.

Resolved, That the last government will be compelled to perpetuate it—

"Out former are now in the thrones of the most abundant harvest that e'er kind Providence bestowed upon our country. The weather has been excessively warm, but otherwise well adapted to the business of the farmer. We think we speak within bounds when we say that the present wheat crop in this county will be very nearly double that of any former year. It has nowhere in our knowledge received the least blight."

The Patriotic Bill, passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 114 to 35. This bill requires the duty on many articles, while it is raised on many others. Iron, and all articles made of iron, are subject to a duty of 30 per cent. on the foreign valuation.

CONFRONTATION.—Thursday and Friday of this week, we think, were the warmest days we can remember for this region. Yesterday (Friday) the thermometer stood at 100 on the north side of a building.

Two young men, one named Rodney and the other Snyder, were severely injured by the premature discharge of a cannon at Horsham, on the morning of the late anniversary.

THE FAIR.—We understand that our lady friends more than realized their expectations with their fair. It was very handsomely got up, and still more handsomely attended.

Wolf Run Celebration.

The 70th Anniversary of our National Independence was celebrated by the citizens of Wolf Run—the teachers and scholars of the Sabbath School, and the National Grays. There was no distinction of sect or party; old and young mingled together in sweet harmonious union. After they were assembled, they organized by appointing the following officers of the day:

President, JAMES A. READ—Vice Presidents, JAMES IRVIN and JAMES FULTON, and THOMAS H. FULTON, Secretary.

Being thus organized, the throne of Divine Grace was addressed by the Rev. Mr. Hoffman. Then followed the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Samuel Fulton—after which the Rev.

Mr. Holloman, in a lively and interesting manner, addressed the meeting in general, but more particularly the teachers and children of the Sabbath School. The company then partook of a sumptuous repast which was prepared by the citizens and brought to the grove. Dinner being over, the cloth was removed, and the company again took their seats. The Hon. Wm. Bigler then being called upon, came forward and entertained the audience with an interesting and amusing oration peculiar to the occasion, which he delivered in his own familiar style. After which the following sentiments were received and read, all on strict temperance principles:

REGULAR TOASTS.

1st. The Day we Celebrate. Glorious in the annals of the world. Let it be celebrated to the latest posterity.

2. The surviving Heroes of the Revolution. Few in numbers, but the glory of their deeds brighten as they retire.

3. The Constitution of the U. States. Not a monopoly for the Old Thirteen.—Let it embrace Oregon and California—and its broad shield protect alike the native and the naturalized.

4. The President of the United States.

5. The Governor of Pennsylvania.

6. Texas. The lone Star—added to our bright Constellation. May the Union be happy.

7. The memories of Washington and Jefferson. May they be handed down to posterity.

8. Our Common Schools. Nurseries of civilization—the parents of society—the guardians of liberty. They will prove the Sexton of superstition.

9. The Signers of the Declaration of Independence. They have sunk beneath their horizon of time—their names and deeds, like the stars in the firmament, will shine forever.

10. Agriculture, Commerce and Manufactures. May protection prop up the strong pillars of our National Independence.

11. Our Army and Navy. The nation's shield and buckler.

12. Political and Religious Toleration. Not for one party, or sect—but for all.

13. The Ladies. It is not good for man to be alone.

VOLUNTEER TOASTS.

By James A. Read. If ever the day should arrive when party feeling should so far prejudice the American mind, as to lose sight of the events connected with the Revolutionary struggle, it would prove the funeral dirge of liberty throughout the world.

By James Irvin. A man who deserves the esteem and confidence of others must do his duty fearless of consequences. He must lay aside selfishness—honor the Supreme Being—and being governed by just and honorable principles, must maintain uniform rectitude of conduct, or we can not esteem him.

By James Fulton. Generals Scott & Taylor—Brave, generous, and humane; while America can boast of such commanders, her eagle will never want a laurel wreath to his crest.

By Thomas H. Fulton. The Heroes of the Revolution. May their memories be hallowed and their example followed by every friend of equal rights, until the last vestige shall bury the actions of the undistinguished raim.

By George Ort. The Day we Celebrate. Our political Sabbath. We will not be led astray by intemperance.

By James A. Read. The Day we Celebrate.

1. The Day we celebrate.

2. The 4th day of July, 1776.—Sacred to the cause of freedom every where.

By L. R. Carter. May the God of bathe protect the life, health, and happiness of General Taylor and his noble band of soldiers. May he give them another glorious victory over their savage enemies.

By Hugh Mallon. Our National and Slave Rulers. With their eye on the compass of public good, and their hand on the helm of the ship of State, may they steer us through every danger.

By Wm. P. Read. The Day we Celebrate. A day in commemoration of the most noble achievement ever accomplished by man—a glory to the world.

By Samuel Fulton. Henry Clay.—The noble champion of the mechanic and laborer. As a scholar and statesman he stands unrivaled.

By J. L. Beams. The Fair of this place are entitled to the esteem of every American for their endeavors to celebrate the birth day of freedom in an appropriate manner.

By James Hollenbach. Temperance is a law designed to raise civilized man immeasurably in his upward progress to perfection.

By Thompson Read. The Yeomanry of the Keystone State. They are the sons of American freemen. Liberty is their inheritance. May they never disgrace their origin or refuse to bleed in defense of their patrimony.

By David Ogden. George Washington. Never dearer to his countrymen than now—his name being used as the watchword of temperance.

By Rufus Thompson. The memory of General Harrison. From his youth up to the day of his death the assertor of American rights and human freedom.

By A. A. Read. Republican principles and the Republican Press. The former the basis of our liberties—the latter the sentinel which watches and protects them. May they ever walk hand in hand.

By G. R. Kline. America. It true to the principles of her republican faith, the glory of her revolution, and the benign operation of her free institutions shall be as wide spread as the earth, and as lasting as the fame of her immortal Washington.

By Peter Livergood. Gen. Taylor, the great American General. He justly merits the appellation of "Rough and Ready."

By James Irwin. How little do we think of the dead. Their bodies lie entombed in all towns, villages and neighborhoods. The lands they cultivated, the houses they built, the works of their hands, are always before our eyes. We travel the same roads, walk the same paths, sit at the same firesides, sleep in the same rooms, ride in the same carriages, and dine at the same tables, and yet we seldom remember that those who once occupied these places are now gone. Alas for Eve.

By E. R. Carter. Gen. James Irvin. May he be our next Governor. He would make a good one, always one of the people.

By Lieut. Wm. P. Read. I, as a member of the "Grays," tender the thanks of the company to the ladies of Wolf Run for treatment which we have received.

By L. R. Carter. May our liberty, as a nation, be continued to the latest posterity, and may it extend to all the nations of the earth, to bless them with the same national, political, civil and religious blessings.

By the Company. The Orators of the Day. They have this day appeared before us the able and fearless advocates of republican principles and American interests. May success attend them in all their undertakings.

Karthaus Celebration.

The 70th anniversary of our national independence was celebrated at Karthaus with that spirit which should ever animate Americans. The spot selected for the occasion was on the beautiful bank of the pleasant Susquehanna. After partaking of a sumptuous repast, prepared by the ladies of Karthaus and neighborhood, on the pic-nic principle, and in which many of the inhabitants participated, the cloth was removed, and the meeting organized by the appointment of Capt. EVAN STEER, President, THOMAS BOWERS and JOHN CULL, Vice Presidents, and JAMES CURLEY, Secretary.

The Declaration of Independence.—The brightest jewel in the diadem of American legislation.

By a Traveller. John Hancock. His name stands recorded on monuments more durable than marble; the hearts of the American people.

By Moses Teats. George Washington. Born to redeem a nation from chains. May his grave never be trod upon by the foot of a despot, or his name be pronounced but by the lips of the free.

By the Company. The Officers of the Day.

By the Company. The Orator of the Day. Patriotic and eloquent. His address to day is worthy the epoch it commemorates.

By the Company. The ladies who prepared this excellent repast.—May they live long—may their shadows never grow less—and may they never want for any of the good things they have so liberally dealt out to us to day.

The News from Mexico.

Revolution in Jalisco—The People Proclaimed General in Chief of the enterprise.

By the New Orleans Picayune of the 24th ult., we have the particulars of the revolution in Jalisco, which, owing to the storm of life previous, we were prevented from receiving in full through the telegraph. The revolution, it will be seen, is highly important as well as successful one, and may be productive of important results in that country. Jalisco is one of the central States on the Pacific side, and one of the largest, as it contains 72,839 square miles and 600,000 inhabitants.

The city of Guadalajara, the capital, where the revolution broke out, contains 26,000 inhabitants. The outbreak was by the people, assisted by the military, and the government troops were compelled to leave the department of Mexico, that being one of the conditions, which allowed them to retire in safety. The revolution appears to have been ostensibly occasioned by fears of a foreign monarchy, to which the people are opposed, and its object to restore the former free constitution—though, no doubt

Santa Anna's friends are the real movers. The present Congress is denounced, and a new one called, which is to be assembled in four months after the liberating forces shall have gained possession of Mexico.—Santa Anna is proclaimed the General in Chief of the movement.

From the boldness of this step, and its declared object, it is to be presumed that it has not been undertaken without due deliberation; that the object is to overturn the present government, and that the insurgents intend to follow up their success by marching against Mexico. Surrounded at Paredes is, with disaffection to his government on all sides, one department after another pronouncing against him, a victorious foreign foe in the country, his best troops beaten, broken and dispersed, and no means ample enough on hand to retrieve this disgrace, or to check the popular outbreaks constantly occurring, he appears to be doomed than, and his dynasty almost at an end.

The presence of Santa Anna is only necessary to complete his ruin, and affairs appear to be about ripe for such an event.

As soon as they are, we may expect to see him set his foot again in Mexico, and once more placed at the head of affairs. The movements of Santa Anna are now investigated with interest, and the revolution will be looked for with interest.

A Prospect of Peace!

LATEST FROM THE ARMY.

The Mobile Journal of the 29th June says—The United States brig Lawrence arrived at Pensacola on Thursday 25th instant, seven days from Brazos St. Jago, having been employed blocking the Rio Grande and Brazos, and co-operating with the army 103 days. The Democrat reports that the day the Lawrence left her station off the Brazos St. Jago, she was boarded by the Pilot, WHO STATED THAT AN EXPRESS HAD REACHED GEN. TAYLOR'S CAMP AT MATAMORAS, SUEING FOR PEACE.

The authenticity of this information depends upon the pilot, as the Lawrence did not communicate afterwards in consequence of bad weather. It was the wish of the Lawrence to remain a day or two for certain information on the subject, but the shortness of her supplies forbade it.

IMPORTANT FROM THE SOUTH.

The New Orleans Picayune has the following. It is truly gratifying to perceive by it that the steam frigate Princeton performed so admirably.

Vera Cruz, June 11th.

This city has now been under blockade for twenty-five days. The frigate Raritan is the commanding ship at this time. Commodore Conner being still at Pensacola—and is at anchor near Green Island, while the Pensacola steamer is lying off and on, just outside the fort under sail, and completely prevents all intercourse from abroad.

The Princeton now proves herself to be equal to the whole fleet
