HOME IS WHERE THE HEART IS.

Tis home where the heart is, Where'er its loved ones dwell. In cities or in cottages.

Thronged haunts or messy dell.

The heart's a rover eyer, And thus on wave and wild. The maiden with her lover walks. The mother with her child.

"Tis bright where'er the heart is . Its fairy spells can bring Fresh fountains to the wilderness And to the desert-spring. There are green isies in ocean.

O'er which affection glides, And a beaven on each sunny shore Where Love's the star that guides Tis free where'er the heart is.

Nor chains, nor dungeous dim Nor check the mind's aspirings. The spirit pealing hymn! The heart giver life its beauty. Its g lory and its power-Tis sunlight to the rippling stream.
And soft down to the flower.

MEXICAN MISTAKE.

The Concordia [La.] Intelligencer has the following:

" The volunteers who have just returned from the Rio Grande tell a good joke as related to some of their friends there by the Mexican soldiers who were in the battles of the 8th and 9th. Before the Mexicans went into the fight they were told that the Americans were great fellows to run, and in this bettef they fought on and on, wondering why the Americans did not run! until, when they became compelled to run themselves, and the Americans were pursuing them, they felt the truth of what they had been told to their cost, viz: -that the Americans " were great tellows to run,"-but it was after instead of he fore their enemy. There's where they had deceived themselves.

This joke suggests to us the recoilection of the fact that but one American has in this day of newspaper enterprise they are deterever been known to run away from the field in Texas, during fair fight. BRITISH MODE OF ANNEXATION. - The Advocate of Peace for August, edited by Eliha Burritt, contains a letter published in the Stanford Mercury, (England,) from a private to the victorious army, John Lum, dated the 8th of March, giving some account of the battles of last December, on the banks of the Sutlej Having spoken of the battle of the 20th, the writer add -: "On the succeeding morning, we commenced hanging and shooting all the prisoners, which dreadful work occupied us nearly the whole day!" We had thought that the 19th century was sufficiently horrified with the roasting of the poor wretches in Algiera, under French barbarity; but if the above is true, it would seem that England seeks to outdo her illustrious rival. How horribly shocked the sensibilities of the English and French cleared land. people often are at the cruelty and injustice of American slavery !
