

SABBATH THOUGHTS.

Many and thrilling are the associations which the weekly recurrence of the Sabbath brings. The sun of the Sabbath morning first shed light on a finished creation. — When the ball we tread on stood a complete and lovely thing before its Maker, when Eden bloomed a little heaven below, and man with his pure and lofty spirit, lived in its bowers, ere yet the trial of the serpent was over all. "God blessed the Sabbath day and sanctified it." The beams of a Sabbath morning first shed light on a ransomed creation. Then it was that the captain of our salvation, having battled with death in his own dark domain, shivered his fetters, rose a victor from the tomb, led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men; so that now, instead of the wo and shame had entailed upon the fallen, there is proffered to them the beauty, the brightness of a purchased immortality.

The Sabbath is a type, and tells us of that rest which remaineth to the people of God, of an hour when the Christian pilgrim shall terminate his long and toilsome march through the wilderness, and cross the threshold of his Father's home—when the Christian mariner shall leave over the last ocean billow, and enter the desired haven—when the soldier of the cross shall lay off his panoply, wear the rich robe and the bright crown. Independently, too, of these grander associations, there is much—much of piety, much of poetry, to make the Sabbath day to a Christian's soul the very "best of all seven." The image of a gray haired sire, the family shrine, the domestic Sunday school, the "big ha' Bible, once his father's pride," the music of the church bell, the house girt round with the graves of his kindred, devotion's lofty psal. Oh! it cannot be that that man is on his way to heaven who loves not as his life, this atom of heaven dropped on earth; it cannot be that he is of the "peculiar people," who calls not the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable; that he has any claim to the character of a religious being, who allows its golden hours to glide away, without some thoughts about that inheritance to which it points.

TO YOUNG MEN.

There is no moral object so beautiful to me as a conscientious young man. I watch him as I do a star in the heavens; clouds may be before him, but we know that his light is behind them, and will beam again; the blaze of others' popularity may outshine him, but we know that though unseen he illumines his own true sphere. He resists temptations not without a struggle, for that is not a virtue, but he does resist and conquer; he bears the sarcasms of the profligate, and it stings him, for that is the trial of virtue, but he heals the wound with his own pure touch. He heeds not the watchword of fashion, if it leads to sin; the atheist, who says not only in his heart, but with his lips, "there is no God," controls him not; he sees the hand of a creating God, and rejoices in it. Woman is sheltered by fond arms and loving counsel; old age is protected by experience, and manhood by its strength; but the young man stands amid the temptations of the world, like a self balanced tower; happy he who seeks and gains the prop and shelter of morality.

Onward, then, conscientious youth!—Raise thy standard and nerve thyself for goodness. If God has given thee intellectual power, awaken it in that cause; never let it be said of thee, he helped to swell the tide of sin by pouring his influence into its channels. If thou art feeble in mental strength, throw not that drop in a polluted current. Awake, arise, young man! assume the beautiful garb of virtue! It is fearfully easy to sin; it is difficult to be pure and holy. Put on thy strength, then! Let Truth be the lady of thy love—defend her.— Southern Rose.

SAYINGS OF RANDOLPH.

The following sentiments are gathered from the letters of the late Hon. John Randolph, to his nephew.

THE GENTLEMAN.

The character of the real gentleman is the most respectable among men. It consists not in plate, and equipage, and rich living, any more than in the disease which that mode of life engenders; but in truth, courtesy, bravery, generosity, and learning, which last, although not essential to it, yet does very much to adorn and illustrate the character of the true gentleman.

TRUTH.

Lay down this as a principle, that truth is to the other virtues, what vital air is to the human system. They cannot exist at all, without it; and as the body may live under many diseases, if supplied with pure air for its consumption, so may the character survive many defects, where there is a rigid attachment to truth. All equivocation is falsehood, which consists, not in using false words only, but in conveying false impressions, no matter how.

LABOUR.

Remember that Labour is necessary to excellence. This is an eternal truth, although vanity cannot be brought to believe or indolence to heed it.

VANITY AND INDIFFERENCE.

Self-conceit and indifference are unfriendly, in an equal degree, to the attainment of knowledge, or the formation of an amiable character. The former is more offensive, but does not more completely mar all excellence than the latter; and it is truly deplorable that both flourish in Virginia as if it were their native soil.—The vanity of excelling in pursuits, where excellence does not imply merit, has been the ruin of many a young man. I should, therefore, be under apprehensions for a young fellow, who danced uncommonly well, and expect more hereafter from his heels than from his head.

SELF-EDUCATION.

We, all of us, have two educations; one which we receive from others, another, and the most valuable, which we give ourselves. It is this last which fixes our grade in society, which determines, eventually, our actual value in this life, and perhaps the colour of our fate hereafter. Yes, my dear Theodore, your destiny is in your own hands; nor would all the professors and teachers in the world make you a wise and good man without your own co-operation; and, if such you are determined to be, it is not the want of them that can prevent it.

FEMALE SOCIETY.

You know my opinion of female society. Without it we should degenerate into brutes. This observation applies with tenfold force to young men, and those who are in the prime of manhood. For, after a certain time in life, the literary may make a shift (a poor one I grant) to do without the society of ladies. To a young man nothing is so important as a spirit of devotion (next to his Creator) to some virtuous and amiable woman, whose image may occupy his heart, and guard it from the pollution which besets it on all sides.

MARRIAGE.

One thing, at least, is true, that if matrimony has its cares, celibacy has no pleasures. A Newton, as a mere scholar, may find employment in study; a man of literary taste can receive in books a powerful auxiliary; but a man must have a bosom friend, and children around him, to cherish and support the dreariness of old age. Suitability, is the true foundation for marriage. If the parties be suited to one another, in age, situation in life, temper and constitution,—these are the ingredients of a happy marriage. If my life were to go over again, I should make a very different sort of a thing of it from what it is.

NEW PROSPECTUS, 1846.

The Saturday Evening Post; Formerly the U. States Saturday Post.

GREAT INDUCEMENTS.

The publishers of the Saturday Evening Post offer a new prospectus to their friends and the public. In this day of newspaper enterprise they are determined to maintain their old reputation, & keep ahead of all competitors. For quarters of a century the Post has been the most durable popular of the weekly newspapers; and if capital, enterprise, and a host of writers, can effect their aim, the publishers are resolved that the Post shall still lead "the field."

A PERFECT MAGAZINE. Owing to the large size of the paper we are enabled to publish weekly, as much matter as is contained in any one number of the monthly magazines; so that, for less money, the subscriber yearly obtains four times as much reading. Besides this, numerous illustrations, engraved by competent artists, will hereafter grace our columns, rendering the Post, in all respects equal, and in many respects superior to the best magazine!

ORIGINAL TALES. Every week one or more original tales of the first American writers, grace the columns of this paper. We eschew the common practice of copying stories from foreign magazines, except in rare instances—pictures of American life, and the romance of American history, told by competent American writers, are what the readers of this country require. Our aim, however, shall not be confined to this point alone. To make the Post a useful as well as a pleasant companion, it will have a thorough NEWS DEPARTMENT, which shall contain the latest intelligence, comprising a Washington Letter, News from New York, General News, Foreign News, Monthly Letters from England, &c. Together with all important public documents in full, and condensed reports of important Congressional debates. Also reports of such of the public Lectures for which Philadelphia is famous, as may interest our readers. Everything, in short, suited for a Family Paper will be found in the Post.

AGRICULTURAL. As many farmers do not take advantage of the reports of the Department of Agriculture, we have now a department for the purpose of giving full and late intelligence on Agricultural matters—viz. New discoveries, new manures, remarks on soil, &c. This department will be very complete. Full and accurate reports of the markets will be found in every number.

LADIES DEPARTMENT. The great size of our sheet enables, not only to be a Family Paper, but to devote some space especially, each week, to the Ladies Department, in which all matters interesting to the sex will be noticed, including the Fashions, the latest Novelties, &c.

JUVENILE DEPARTMENT. A department, under this head, will be devoted to enigmas, Charades, riddles, puzzles, arithmetical questions, and other like matters, interesting to adults as well as to the young.

LETTERS FROM EUROPE. A series of letters from J. Bayard Taylor, the printer post, now on a pedestrian tour through Europe, are being published in the Post. These letters have attracted great attention, and are said to be the best since the celebrated letters of the same author.

In political intelligence we recognize only one party, and that is OUR COUNTRY—OUR WHOLE COUNTRY. We know no sectional interests in our patriotism, no party lines in our politics, no sectarianism in our religion.

EARLIEST AND BEST. As it is important to have the latest news, our columns will always be found the freshest in this respect of any contemporary literature also, we shall possess great facilities for giving novelties.

HEALTHY ARTICLES. A good laugh is better than a pound of medicine; and the Post will give original humorous sketches, a week's reliance of fun, choice scraps of humor, wit, &c. Our dish will always be a merry one, let the world wag as it may. In a word, we shall still remain THE FIRE-SIDE FRIEND; a paper indispensable to country readers, in consequence of its Original Tales and Sketches; Original Verse and Essays; History and Histories; Biography and Legends; Science and Statistics; Revolutionary Annals; Moral Tales and Tracts of Life; Original Comments on Notables.

Those who have not subscribed for this paper will find that the terms are as cheap as the matter is worth. TERMS.

1 Copy, 82 1/8 Cents. 10 3 Cents. 5 17 1/2 Cents. 20 30 The money must always be sent in advance, free of postage. S. B. A. A. PETERSON & CO., No. 25 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.
