When earth produces, fresh and fair, The golden, waving corn, When fragrant fruits perfume the air.

And fleecy flocks are shorn;
Whilst thousands move with aching hand, There must be something wrong

When wealth is wrought as seasons roll. From off the fruitful soil, When luxury, from pole to pole, Reaps fruit of human toil

When, from a thousand, one alone in plenty rolls along. The others only gnaw the bone. There must be something wrong

And when production never ends, The earth is yielding ever. A copious harvest oft begins. But distribution-never. When toiling millions work to fill The wealthy's coffers strong.
When hands are crushed that work and tell,

When poor men's tables waste away. To barrenness and drought.
Then there is something in the way That's worth the finding out.
With surfoits one great table bends; Whilst numbers move along.

There must be something wrong

While scarce a crust their board extends, There must be something wrong Then let the law give equal right To wealthy and to poor. Let freedom crush the arm of might We ask for nothing more.

Until this system is begun, The burden of our song Must be, and can be, only one—
There must be something wrong.

While you are gazing on that sun which is plunging under the vaults of the West, another observer admires him emerging from the gilded gates of the East. By what inconceivable magic does that aged star, which is sinking fatigued and burning under the shades of the evening, reappear at the same instant, fresh and humid with the rosy daw of the morning? At every instant of the day the glorious orb is at once rising-resplendent at noon day, and setting in the West; or rather our sense deceives us, and there is, properly speaking, no Eeast or West to the world. THE MECHANIO. - The beautiful sentence subjoined is from the . Carpenter of Rouen,' a popular play:

"The Mechanic is one of God's noble men. What have mechanics not done?-Have they not opened the secret chambers of the mighty deep and extracted its treasures, and made the raging billows their highways, on which they ride as on a tame steed? Are not the elements of fire and water chained to the crank, and at the mechanic's bidding compelled to turn it? Have not mechanics opened the bowels of the earth, and made its products contrib ute to his wants? The torked lightning is their play-thing, and they ride triumphant on the wings of the mighty wind. To the wise they are the floodgates of knowledge, and/kings and queens are deckorated by their handiwork. He who made the world was a great mechanic."

A Cure for Bad Temper .- A cheerful temper-not occasionally, but habitually cheerful, is a quality which no wise man would be willing to dispense with, in choosing a wife. It is like a good fire in winter, diffusive and genial in its influence, and always approached with confidence, that it will comfort and do good.

Attention to health is one great means of maintaining this excellence unimpaired, and attention to household affairs is a. nother. The state of the body which women call bilious, is most inimical to habitual cheerfulness; and that which girls of the STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA. call having nothing to do, but which I call The qualifications required are a small idleness, is equally so. TO THE PEOPLE.

THE session of Congress, which has just terminated, will be long and gratofully remembered by all true republicans for the triumphant success of many of their cherished principles and measures. While we heartily rejoice at the triumph of the make a pleasant reply when spoken to- principles which it has been our constant effort to | principles which it has been our constant effort to advocate and defend, and from which no prosperi. he borough of Clearfield, being 48 feet in tion, the Farmer, Markets, &c. But we plan of said town. rust that this decision of Congress increases raths er than diminishes our claim to the support of a higher power-that of the people; and to them we confidently appeal to aid us, by their patronage, in is inflexibly devoted to their interests and the true interests of the country.

It is known to every one, that the chief source of sustaining a newspaper is not the magnitude of its subscription list, so much as the advertising patrounge which may be bestowed upon it. In large commercial cities, indeed, the latter is usually the concomitant of the former, as it becomes the obvishad not thought to see there. 2d. The ous interest of mercurtile men to advertise in those absence of some whom I expected to meet papers which are the most extensively circulated Washington, however, is differently situated. Doprived of the advertising patronage incident to a mercantile community, and burdened with pecuhar and enormous expenses which are not else where incurred, nothing but a very long list of Owens.
