

Army Intelligence.

We have received from the War Department, in advance of the mail, the following...

From the N. O. Picayune extra, June 7.

Later from Mexico!

Arrival of the Steamship N. Orleans. The steamship New Orleans, Captain Wright has arrived from Vera Cruz...

Gen. Shields is doing well, we are most happy to hear, and was shortly expected at Vera Cruz.

Gen. Scott left Jalapa on the 23d ultimo for Puebla, at the head of nearly 6,000 troops.

The division of General Trigg entered this city to day, all well. There were rumors in the morning that Gens. Bustamante and Leon were advancing to attack General Scott...

The diligencia does not run between this and the city of Mexico; and, so far, I have found it impossible to lay hand upon any papers.

No one as yet knows what Gen. Scott's intentions are as regards his future movements; yet small as his force is, many think he will advance upon the capital.

The news from the city of Mexico by this arrival is most important. Our intelligent correspondent from Vera Cruz has furnished us with the annexed extracts from letters written at Mexico...

Extract from a letter dated—CITY OF MEXICO, May 23, 1847.

From here I have nothing worthy of notice to communicate, except that Santa Anna yesterday resigned the presidency, but it is not known yet whether Congress will admit of it.

Through the same channel we have received the following brief extract from another letter of the same date:

Last week Santa Anna commenced fortifying Guadalupe, Perion and Mijicuitzingo, near the suburbs of the city; but unusual disapprobation was the result, and hence his reason for offering his resignation.

We have an exciting rumor from Puebla, mentioned in letters from Vera Cruz, that the citizens of Puebla had risen upon General Worth, and cut off six or seven hundred of his men.

VERA CRUZ, May 23, 1847. GENTLEMEN: After several days of anxiety and suspense, occasioned by the capture of the diligence by a band of guerrillas...

Col. S. arrived here about a week ago with despatches from Washington to Gen. Scott. He left this city last Saturday for Jalapa, and was murdered three miles beyond the National Bridge.

Another report, by way of Orizaba, tells us that Santa Anna is still in the presidential chair; that Valencia is commander-in-chief of the army, and old Nicholas Bravo governor of the State of Mexico.

Late from Gen. Taylor.

By the steamship 'New Orleans' we have later dates from the Rio Grande and the army of Gen. Taylor.

[Special Correspondence of the Picayune.]

SALTILLO, Mexico, May 17, 1847.

A long, tedious, eight-days' fever having partially left me, I am able to write you again with some little idea of what I am doing, and to furnish you with a few items of news.

Lieut. Col. Mitchell and a portion of the advance of Col. Doniphan's command arrived here yesterday morning from Parras, having arrived at camp the day before.

The whole of Col. Doniphan's command will be here in a few days, and after remaining awhile to recruit their men and horses will proceed down towards the mouth of the river.

Slavery in Mexico.

It is one of the favorite allegations of the Federalists that Mexico is a free country. On this subject, however, the correspondent of the Ohio Statesman, writing from 'Camp Buena Vista,' says:

In my estimation a worse state of slavery could not be devised by the cruelty of man than that enforced by the Mexican government.

Latest from Mexico.

By the arrival here this morning of the steamship New Orleans, we have received full files of papers and our regular correspondence up to the time of her sailing from Vera Cruz, which port she left on the 1st instant.

VERA CRUZ, May 31, 1847.

I have allowed myself to be deceived by the quartermaster's department. The N. Orleans has been detained another twenty-four hours, and will probably be forty-eight hours in getting off.

A small sum per month, say from one to five dollars, is allowed and credited on the debt; but after furnishing the outfit with food and drink, at the master's own prices, the indebtedness is seldom diminished, but rather increased.

Another report, by way of Orizaba, tells us that Santa Anna is still in the presidential chair; that Valencia is commander-in-chief of the army, and old Nicholas Bravo governor of the State of Mexico.

The yellow-fever (el vomito, as it should be called) is now getting really serious amongst us. Thirteen cases terminated fatally yesterday, and to day already I have heard of the death of three individuals whom I personally knew.

8 P. M.—The British courier is in from Mexico, but seems to know but very little of matters in that neighborhood.

He expresses an intention to fortify the town, at least with a large ditch and embankment, and to place a force in the city capable of keeping off the Americans.

No disturbance whatever has taken place at Puebla; on the contrary, the people both of the city and country seem to be much pleased with their conquerors, and trade is quite brisk.

The Pennsylvania Regiments.—We take the following from the N. O. Picayune. It will create no little surprise on the part of our readers:

We learn from the American Star published at Jalapa, that a part of the first and the whole of the 2d Regiments of Pennsylvania Volunteers will remain at Jalapa, and with the 3d Artillery form the garrison of that town under Lieut. Col. Childs.
