PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg—Prosperity of its Business Circles—The Crops—Coal—The Presidency—Volunteering—The Weather.

Correspondence of The Franklin Repository.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 5, 1864.

Your correspondent finds himself unexpectedly and temporally transferred from Washington city to this city. What a contrast there is between these two cities. In the one we have nothing, and see nothing but the bustle which always tends Congress while the session lasts, and the dull monotony of life in public office, mixed up with the follies and fashions of fast living, a place devoid of enterprise or the common sociabilities which makes life agreeable. Here we have living, a sociable people, knowing each other, and not annually gathered together, as mixture from all parts of creation—a place full of enterprise—a city of manufactories—the noise of which we hear all the day and night long, taxed to their utmost extent with work—never employing so many hands before, finding such ready sales for their products. Never were workmen of every description in such demand, or more remunerative prices paid. Never were markets more abundantly supplied or higher prices paid to the producer, and willingly with a smiling face by the consumer, from the highest to the lowest, from the rich to the poor—all seem to have their pockets lined with money. Never were Hotels and Boarding Houses so crowded, or Houses and Farms to rent so scarce—in fact they seem to be a thing of the past. For every farm that has been for rent or every house to let there has been at least ten applicants. This however appears to be the same all over the country east and west. Why is it? Are there more people at present than before the war? From whence comes this overplus of families?

THE CROPS.

The fall grain does not look so well. The late cold weather froze out a great deal of it, killing it completely, and many old farmers assure me that there will not be over half a crop of wheat in this section of the country. Notwithstanding all this, I know many farmers who are having wheat ground for feed for their cattle.

COAL.

Every one passing through this city, from the black appearance of the houses, and the immense clouds of smoke always hanging over the city, remarks, that this must be a great place for coal. So it is; the country all round is full of the best quality of bituminous coal, and nine-tenths of all the coal used along the Ohio and Mississippi rivers are taken from this market. Lately a great deal of trouble has been made by the diggers, by their periodical strikes. Last week they demanded five cents per bushel for digging and it was given. They are about to strike again for six cents. The action of these diggers, if the owners of banks are not more watchful, will destroy the coal interests of this section of the country. Discoveries and enterprise will open up new fields in other quarters, so as to obtain a cheaper article, and if owners and manufacturers will continue to allow at every strike, an advance, they will find the bad effects of it in the end. A coal digger in a bituminous bank will put out over one hundred bushels per day; so coal digging at five cents per bushel, is certainly a paying trade. No one, three years ago, would ever have supposed that in so short a time, coal would be fifteen cents per bushel at the mouth of these banks.

NEXT PRESIDENT.

All through the country wherever I have been, I hear of only one person spoken of for President, that is Abraham Lincoln.

VOLUNTEERING.

Another and a glorious uprising of the people has got in in this section. Wards, boroughs and townships are pouring out their money for bounties, and hundreds are daily to be seen wending their way to the recruiting offices ready to accept the bounty and shoulder a musket. This is a glorious record for this old county, which gave in the fall election nearly 8,000 majority for A. G. Curtin.

WEATHER, &C.

The weather is very soft and damp, and an unusual quantity of mud is to be found both in city and country. Considerable sickness, especially fevers, prevail. The Ohio, Allegheny and Monongahela rivers are all bank full and clear of ice. Oil and rafts are arriving again from up the river. Steamboats are leaving for Memphis and New Orleans, laden with freight to their guards.

HARRISBURG.

A Spicy Debate in the Senate—Senators Champneys and Clymer on a Rampage—The Bill Allowing Soldiers to Vote—The Apportionment—Gov. Curtin.

Correspondence of the Franklin Repository.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 8, 1864.

But little of interest has transpired here during the past week. The Senate preserves its dead-lock sacredly, and nothing short of a Senatorial funeral could alter the present aspect of things until the successor of Major White is chosen. The Senate is not, however, as monotonous as might be supposed. Each session is compelled to get up some sort of a sensation to put in the time, and once in a while the proceedings become thrilling in interest. Last week Senators Clymer and Champneys changed the performance by the fiercest debate that the Senate has witnessed for some years. In the course of a speech Senator Champneys declared that had the Democrats triumphed at the last election, it was given out by their leaders that the troops would be withdrawn from the army to their respective States by the Democratic Executives, and he intimated that Senator Clymer had given the same pledge to the people. Mr. Clymer, usually philosophical, lost his temper and of course his wits went with it, and he hurled the falsehood direct at the venerable Senator from Lancaster, and had it retorted back upon him with a zest uncommon to a man of nearly four-score years. Explanations followed, and the silver lining of the Senatorial cloud brightened into the fulness of sunshine again.

The House instructed the Judiciary committee to report a bill providing for taking the vote of the soldiers, and the bill is now before the House. The vote instructing the committee was nearly unanimous; but when the decisive vote comes, there will be the fiercest opposition manifested by the Democratic leaders. They profess to be for the prosecution of the war, but oppose every measure necessary to give it success; and they profess to be in favor of allowing the soldiers to vote, but will oppose every necessary measure to enable them to cast their ballots. They will do it by cowardly quibbles, and endeavor to engraft such amendments upon the bill as would defeat measurabley or wholly the right of suffrage in the army.

The Apportionment of the State into legislative districts is the absorbing question just now. A few of the Union men insist upon such monstrosities as the association of York and Lancaster; Westmoreland and Somerset; Franklin Fulton and Huntingdon, &c; but a fair bill will be matured and passed giving the Union strength full justice and attempting nothing more. Franklin and Adams will probably be formed into a Senatorial district, and each county given a member. They have been so long associated Senatorially that they should not now be separated, and especially as they are, and for nearly half a century have been, joined in the congressional district. Bedford, Fulton and Somerset will probably form one Assembly district and elect two members, and Cumberland and Perry will each have one member.

Gov. Curtin went to Washington on Saturday to endeavor to have provision made for the payment of our militia called out by him under an order from the President. He is in good health. HORACE.

BRIEF WAR ITEMS.

A Richmond paper advertises a lot of brown paper, suitable for envelopes or wrapping paper, at $80 a ream.

Five thousand deserters have been received within the lines of the Army of the Cumberland since Gen. Thomas took command.

The rumors recently put forth of real or apprehended difficulties between the United States and France are without any foundation.

The draft, ordered by the President, will, in effect, be for about two hundred thousand men; allowance being made for those called out by the preceding proclamation.

The rebels made a series of attempts to capture Cumberland Gap on Friday and Saturday, 29th and 30th ult., but they were repulsed by Col. Love with a strong force.

Jeff. Davis' domestic troubles seem to be terrible. He has to eat hashed turkey, his house is burned, his servants run away, and his wife scolds like blazes. Poor unhappy Jeff.

The advance of the enemy, in North Carolina, under Gen. Hill, has been checked. The Rebels have retreated to Kingston and Murfreesboro, and Newbern is relieved from the threatened siege.

General Thomas' Chief of Staff, General Whipple, states that 7,300 deserters from Bragg's army had come into our lines since October 20th, as shown by the rolls. They were principally Kentuckians.

The New York Evening Post, in speaking of the call for 500,000 men, says:—"This call therefore means an early close of the war. It means an earnest disbandment of all our armies, a speedy return of peace." God send it.

The Richmond Whig has a significant article deploring the decay of the gallant Southern race, who entered the war so brilliantly three years ago. It says that they are all gone, and if they do not come back again the game is up.

General Pleasonton issued an order on the 18th, which read as follows: "Every guerilla or other rebel wearing the uniform of a United States soldier, caught in the act of making war against any of the forces of this command, will be hung on the spot."

Major Generals Grant, Rosecrans, Thomas, Schofield, Stoneman, Crittenden and M'Cook were all in Louisville on Saturday. Gen. Grant will take a look at Longstreet, and Rosecrans will give his evidence in the court-martial for the trial of Crittenden and M'Cook.

An official dispatch from Nashville says that General Hodge reports that on the 24th ultimo our forces, under Col. Phillips, drove Roddy to the south side of the Tennessee river, captured all his trains, and destroyed a factory and mill, which had largely supplied them.

A dispatch from General Kelley confirms the retreat of the rebels from the line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, vigorously pursued by our troops. The rebels have captured and burnt the steamer Levi on the Kanawha river. Brigadier General Scammon and one of his staff were captured with the boat.

Senator Wilson, of Massachusetts, Chairman of the Military Committee recently said in the Senate: "I think we have in the army 600,000 men, of which 400,000 are effective soldiers. I do not think the rebels have over 225,000. I have good reason for this belief. I think the rebellion will be crushed out by October."

Through rebel papers we have advices from Charleston to the 5th inst. The steamer Presto, in attempting to run the blockade, was run ashore on Sullivan's Island, and is fired at by the monitors to prevent her cargo from being landed. The firing on Sumter is continued, and on the 4th eighty shots were thrown into the city.

Dispatches from West Virginia state that our forces under Colonel Mulligan, sent in pursuit of the rebels, under General Early, after six hours hard fighting drove the enemy from Moorefield, and then sharply engaged General Rosser, on the south bank of the Potomac. It is said that we have taken a number of prisoners, and that our success has been signal and brilliant.

Mr. Wigfall, in the rebel Senate, speaking of rebel finances, said "If repudiation is to be the result, he was prepared to lay down his arms and surrender at once, for the loss of liberty would be more tolerable than the loss of honor." Mr. Wigfall must have read Mr. Memminger's report and should be ready now to make good his words.

At Gettysburg 28,000 muskets were taken. Of these 24,000 were found to be loaded, 12,000 containing two loads, and 6000 from three to ten loads each. In many instances half a dozen balls were driven in on a single charge of powder. In some cases the former possessor had reversed the usual order, placing the ball at the bottom of the barrel and the powder on top.

An official despatch from Nashville announces another gratifying success of the Union cavalry in East Tennessee. On the 28th ult. our forces, under Col. Phillips, drove the rebel General Roddy to the north side of the Tennessee river, and captured his trains, consisting of two hundred head of cattle, six hundred sheep, and one hundred horses and mules. A factory and mill, which had largely supplied the rebels, was also destroyed.

Dispatches from Cumberland, on the 3d, say that Gen. Averill overtook the rebels who have been making a raid on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, near Springfield. A severe engagement ensued. The enemy were driven through Springfield, and thence to the south of Burlington. Our men captured at Patterson's creek were re-captured, and a large number of rebels and horses fell into our hands. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is now entirely clear of the enemy.

Gen. Butler has received an official dispatch from Brig. Gen. Palmer, commanding at Newbern, N. C., stating that on the morning of the 1st the outposts at Bachelor's creek were attacked by the enemy, 15,000 strong. Our forces fell back in good order, destroying the camps, but abandoning our few stores. The rebels advanced simultaneously on the south side of the river, but were handsomely repulsed. The communications with Morehead City continue, but it is thought that the enemy will attempt to cut the railroad. An expedition sent by Gen. Palmer on the 26th ult., to operate against the rebel cavalry in Jones and Onslow counties, North Carolina, routed the enemy, destroyed a large amount of property, and captured a number of prisoners, and mules and horses.

The Wisconsin Legislature has passed resolutions declaring opposition to "any armistice, intervention or mediation from any source whatever, so long as rebels are found in arms against the government," rejecting all party lines, names and issues, and recognizing but two parties—patriots and traitors.

About gone up—The Southern Confederacy. Ditto Down—Slavery. Ditto Squelched—The rebellion. Flabbergasted—Jeff. Davis & Co. Cattawampussed—The Copperheads. Coming to her senses—England. Toppling to his fall—Louis Napoleon II. Long may it wave—The Star Spangled Banner.

The Kentucky Legislature adjourned, without proceeding to the election of a United States Senator. It being ascertained that, by the Constitution of Kentucky, the election of Bramlette would necessitate a new Gubernatorial election, the probability now is that no election will be made until the fall session.

Hon. Geo. Read Riddle has been chosen U. S. Senator by the legislature of Delaware, to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Bayard, resigned. Mr. Riddle is a Democrat of the ultra copperhead persuasion, and will not add anything to the strength of the government in its deadly struggle with treason. He was in Congress two terms some years ago.

The Legislature of Connecticut, by a considerable majority, has sanctioned an amendment to the State Constitution providing for the exercise of the right of suffrage by her citizens who are serving in the army. Every Democratic member—seventy-six in all—voted squarely against the proposed amendment. Soldiers, remember this!

The total vote polled in the recent Territorial election in Idaho was 7912, of which Gov. Wallace, the Union candidate, received 4389, and Judge Cannady, Opposition, received 3523, giving the former a clear majority of 866 votes. In the Council there are six Unionists and one Opposition, and in the House ten Unionists and three Opposition.

Gen. M'Clellan is said to be the soldiers' candidate for the Presidency. Why is it then that all the friends of Gen. M'Clellan are now endeavoring in the State Legislatures to have the soldiers disfranchised? Gov. Seymour is a friend of Gen. M'Clellan, and we all know that he voted the bill allowing the New York soldiers to vote in the last State election?

Hon. Geo. Sanderson, editor of the Lancaster Intelligencer, was on the 4th re-elected Mayor of Lancaster, over John Fondersmith, the Union candidate. Martin Van Buren once complimented Lancaster as the only Democratic city in the Union; but Wall street cupidity and Five Point villainy have added New York to the list of Governor Seymour's "friends."

Gov. Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, has, by proclamation, ordered an election of State officers, to take place on the first Saturday (5th) of March. He prescribes the manner of holding the election, gives the form of oath to be taken, and forbids enemies of the United States voting or holding office. This makes three States that were under Rebel rule in which Union elections are to take place—in Louisiana on February 22d, Tennessee, March 5, and Arkansas, March 14—thus restoring three seceded States to the Union.

The inauguration of the officers chosen by the State Convention of Arkansas took place on the 23d ult., in the Senate Chamber at Little Rock. The ceremonies were of a solemn and imposing character. After a prayer by Rev. Jos. Butler, the Governor addressed the Assembly in a touching and impressive manner. On the conclusion of his address, the oath of office was administered to Gov. Murphy. The entire scene was of the most affecting description, causing tears to trace down many cheeks, so solemn were the words uttered and responded to which bound the new officials to loyalty to their country and fealty to the Union.

In Indiana the Union State Convention is called for the 22d and 23d of February. The Democrats have already elected their delegates to the National Convention, by Districts. There is a good deal of "secesh" in the resolutions and debates of some of the District Conventions. In the Sixth District, one of the delegates to the National Convention declared that a war candidate on a war-platform would not carry one-tenth of the Democratic vote of Indiana. Thomas H. Seymour, Frank Pierce and Vallandigham were talked of as non-military candidates for the Presidency. A resolution to instruct the delegates to vote for McClellan was amended by a vote of 79 to 37, declaring that McClellan is one "every way qualified to become our standard-bearer in the approaching Presidential contest."

Hon. James B. Clay, an unworthy son of the noble Harry Clay, died on the 26th ult., at Montreal, a rebel fugitive from Kentucky and from the Union.

Col. Wm. H. Blair, of Bellefonte, is appointed Provost Marshal for the Lycoming district, in place of Capt. White, charged with corruption in his office.

Maj. Gen. M'Clernand has been reinstated, and ordered to report to Maj. Gen. Banks for duty, by order of the President.

The Princess of Wales was delivered of a son on the 8th ult. Queen Vic. has now nine children and five grand-children living. Royalty seems to be fruitful in England.

Wm. H. Hepburn, Esq., Cashier of the First National Bank of Carlisle, and oldest son of Hon. Samuel Hepburn, died at the residence of his father on Monday, the 25th ult.

Dr. Brower & Son, late publishers of the Danville American, are about commencing the publication of a weekly Union paper in Harrisburg, to be called the "State Journal."

Hon. Marcus Morton, formerly Representative in Congress from Massachusetts, and Governor of that State for three terms, died in Boston on Saturday evening last, aged 80 years.

Maj. Burroughs, the guerrilla chief, was shot by the guard last week while attempting to escape from the post-house at Fortress Monroe, where he was under treatment for the small-pox.

Lieut. Col. William P. Brinton, of the 18th Pa. Cav., who led the desperate charge into Hagerstown, at the time of the Gettysburg fight, has just been presented with a magnificent saber, sash and belt by the officers of his old regiment, the 21 Pa. Cavalry.

Rev. Geo. W. Thompson, D. D., of Lower Tuscarora Presbyterian church, Juniata county, died suddenly, on Thursday week. Dr. Thompson was widely known as an able, faithful and successful pastor. Besides filling other prominent positions, he was at the time of his death a member of the Board of Education of the Presbyterian Church, and a member of the Board of Trustees of the Theological Seminary at Princeton.

FINANCIAL.

The First National Bank of New Orleans began business on the 19th of January. It has been designated as a government depository.

A National Bank has been organized in Wrightsville, Pennsylvania, with a capital of $100,000, with the privilege of increasing it to $150,000.

The recent report of Mr. Memminger, Davis' Treasurer, shows that the Rebel chiefs raised only four million dollars by a war tax, but they got two million and sixty thousand dollars by "sequestration."

The bank note circulation of the North and South combined, at the commencement of the war, was $150,000,000. Now in the Northern States alone, it is $180,000,000, together with over $300,000,000 Treasury Notes, and $20,000,000 postal currency.

During the speech of Mr. Hakes, of Luzerne, he submitted the following statement relative to the holders of the Pennsylvania securities: Total amount registered loan of State, $31,151,000. Held in Great Britain and East and West Indies, $11,250,000; held in France, $1,500,000; in the rest of Europe, $3,000,000. Among the French holders is the Emperor Louis Napoleon.

The annual report concerning the railroads of this State in 1863, shows such remarkable prosperity as to deserve notice. The expenses of the roads during the year were $20,692,804 56. In the same time the receipts were $40,523,571 45, which leaves a profit of $19,920,766 89, or a sum very near equal to the whole annual expense. During the same period the passenger railways earned $1,813,218 10, and expended $1,267,044 62, which leaves them a profit of $546,173 58.

The Philadelphia bankers are advertising the new five per cent. interest bearing legal tender notes at a discount. They propose to take non-interest bearing legal tender notes at a premium for interest bearing legal tender notes. They thus violate the old fashioned rules of arithmetic evidently in accordance with a combination to discredit the new notes. If Mr. Chase will get them once clear of the shave-shop brokers, the people will take them.

LETTER FROM HON. E. W. GANTT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 20, 1864.

MY DEAR SIR:—Your very kind letter of December 5, directed to me at Little
