ABSTRACTS OF DE NOT.
On an evening preceding Thanksgiving, many years ago, two students left the college at the most full intent of procuring some of the doctor's fine and fat chickens, that roosted in a tree adjoining his house. When they arrived at the spot, one ascended the tree, while the other stood with the bag, ready to receive the plunder. It so happened that the doctor himself had just left the house, with the view of securing the same chicken for his Thanksgiving dinner. The request under the tree hearing some one approaching, immediately crept away, without notifying his companion upon his Thanksgiving dinner. The doctor came up and was immediately saluted from above as follows:

A GEORGIA WEDDING.
The preacher was prevented from taking his part in the ceremony, and a newly created justice of the peace, who chanced to be present, was called upon to officiate in his place. The good man's knees began to tremble, for he had never felt the knot and did not know where to begin. He had no "Georgia Justice," or any other book from which to read the marriage service. The company was arranged in a semicircle, every one with his eyes on the officiating minister, and every thing he had ever learned, even to "Thirty days hath September, April, June and November," but all in vain, he could recollect nothing that suited the occasion. A suppressed titter all over the room admonished him that he was making a bad matter worse, and in the agony of desperation he began—

PARENTAL TEACHING.—If parents would not trust a child on the back of a wild horse, without a bit or bridle, let them not permit them to go forth into the world unskilled in self-government. If a child is passionate, teach him by gentle means to curb his temper. If he is greedy, cultivate liberality in him. If he is selfish, promote generosity. If he is sulky, charm him out of it by encouraging frankness and good humor. If he is quarrelsome, accustom him to exertion and train him so to perform even onerous duties with alacrity. If pride comes in to make obedience reluctant, subdue him, either by counsel or discipline. Let him give you his respects, and let him be exceeding their besetting sins. Let them acquire from experience that confidence in themselves which gives security to the practiced horseman, even on the back of a high-strung steed, and they will triumph over difficulties and dangers which beset them in the path of life.

THE DEAR PEOPLE OF NASSAU very suddenly discovered that there is such a Government as the United States, and that they have always enjoyed an untroubled and untrammelled independence. It may be mentioned in this connection, that there are thirty-four free blockade running steamers lying idle in Nassau harbor, and more are arriving daily from England, and the latter are without discharging. The warehouses are full of goods intended for the Rebels, that are now so sorely worth paying insurance upon. A few speculators are busy in buying up the goods, and the Bahamas, but thus far they have done nothing. Young, Locke, one of the captors of the Chesapeake, is in prison, on charges of forfeiting his parole, and is being captured by the British. It is gratifying to know what interest the British Islanders take in us—since the capture of Charleston and Wilmington.

PROPOSALS.—John Billings' advice to a young lady as to how she shall receive a proposal will suit this latitude as well as any other. You ought to take it kind, looking down hill with an exuberant half tickled and half cast. After the pop is over, if you have any more to say to him, I don't think I'd say yes or no, but let the matter rest. I don't think I'd say yes or no, but let the matter rest. I don't think I'd say yes or no, but let the matter rest.
