Anthracite for Steam Vexuels.

A few weeks since, while travelling on the North River, on our return from Albany to New York, we of which he got to boot on the speculation. engaged a passage in the steamboat Troy. The praises of this noble vessel were already familiar to us, and we were not disappointed. For speed, comfort and cleantiness, we never saw her equal, and we doubt if she anywhere has her superior, But what surprised and pleased us most, was the has been several years in use, and has given universal satisfaction. Her engines, we believe, are a night from the same people, for dancing. similar to those since constructed for the Russian Frigate Kamschatka. On the upper deck, and nearly over each set of bailers, there is a Fan, propelled by a small engine, which connects with the flue, and affords a sufficient draught for every purpose. Upon inquiry from one of the conductors. we ascertained that they gave coal a dicided preferonce over wood. But what is of vastly greater im portance, is the great economy and saving in the use of coal for fuel. This saving alone, our informant added, amounted to about forty dollars per day. Now supposing the "Troy" should be kept running eight months, or 240 days in the year. This at forty dollars per day, would amount to nine thousand six hundred dollars per annum. A handsome sum, really, of itself, to realise over and above the profits of steamboats using wood as their Wish these facts before them, the government, we think, owes it to itself as well as to the country, to adapt the new steam vessels that are about being constructed, to the use of anthracite coal. We are confident such a course would give general satisfaction. Sound economy and patriotism demand, at least that the experiment should be made. If the experiment should succeed, and we cannot concieve why it should not, several Government Depots could be readily established, one at Baltinore for the Susquehamas cost, and another at 'hiladelphia for that of the Schuylkill region; com whence our public vessels equid at all times abtain adequate supplies without difficulty, and with the least possible expense.

Expectorant Remedy. S performing some of the most wonderful cure 1 on record. Mr. WM. PEARSON, of Delaware county, Pennsylvania, was taken in the fall of 1840 with a distressing Cough, which daily increased until he became so much reduced in flesh that he was obliged to be helped in and out of bed. His Physicians at length gave up all hopes, and pronounced his tungs fatulty aff eted and incurable In this hopeless situation he was for ten weeks: when a friend of his called to see him, and discovering his awful condition. He immediately precored three bottles of DR. DUNCAN'S EXPEC-TORANT REMEDY, (having witnessed the effects in a similar case, induced him to procure the medicine,) and gave it according to directions, and Handred and Fitty Thousand Dollars after have to the astonishment of all friends, the patient began to feel better before using the medicine one week. After using it strictly six weeks the prtient was rendered able to resume his daily occupation. How many thousands of valuable fitends have been taken away from us for the want of proper treatment. The very many who are yes among us, and laboring under alarming symptoms and if it be not too tate, you may be restored to perfect health. In the last stages there is a consolation found in this meditine, by its soothing and paliative effects.
