CARL HEINBERGER,
MARIE VON HEINBERGER.

Mormonism.

George W. Robinson, late a General in the Nauvoo service, has withdrawn from the Mormon connection, as he cannot consent longer to remain a member of said church while polygamy, lasciviousness and adultery are practised by some of its leading members." He publishes a letter in the Sangamo Journal, corroborating Bennett's statements concerning the infamous character and practices of Joe Smith.

The last number of the 'Times and Seasons,' published at Nauvoo, contains a letter from Joe Smith, which was recently read to the Saints, announcing his flight as follows:

"Forasmuch as the Lord has revealed unto me that my enemies, both of Missouri and this State, were again on the pursuit of me; and inasmuch as they pursue me without cause, and have not the shadow or coloring of justice or right on their side in getting up their prosecutions against me; and inasmuch as their pretensions are all founded in falsehood of the blackest die, I have thought it expedient and wisdom in me to leave for a short season, for my own safety and the safety of this people. When I learn that the storm is fully blown over, then I will return to you again."

Then follow directions upon various church matters, especially baptism for the dead.

The same paper contains an account of a speech in which Elder Ripdon declares his perfect faith in Joe Smith, and relates a miraculous recovery of his daughter from sickness, which, he says, confirms him in the Mormon belief. His daughter, he says, was pronounced dead, but soon after rose and addressed them all at great length, and finally said that, having been dead, the Lord had 'sent her back' in obedience to her father's prayers.

An Old Times' Speculator.

The debts due by the estate of John Nicholson, once the partner of Robert Morris, of Revolutionary memory, are said to amount to twelve millions of dollars.

He was Comptroller General of the State of Pennsylvania, from 1782 to 1796, and in some way used the public funds to carry on his speculations. Of the extent of his landed possessions, some conception may be formed from the fact, that his brother, Samuel Nicholson, after a very laborious investigation, reported to the government in 1806 that the lands to which he had an indisputable title, covered one-seventh of the surface of the State. In a letter to an intimate friend, he mentioned a transfer in a single operation, of between one and two million acres in Georgia.

About the year 1798, he became seriously embarrassed, and died in the year 1800. As he was a debtor to the Commonwealth, the State had a lien on all his lands. Many of these have been cleared of all incumbrances by compromise, but the lien still remains on more than a million of acres, rendering, as a committee of the legislature say, 'titles doubtful and uncertain, retarding the improvement of the Commonwealth; and keeping all concerned in endless suspense.'

To adjust the conflicting claims of land holders, heirs, creditors, and the Commonwealth, the Legislature of Pennsylvania a few years since, instituted a special court, called the Nichols Court, with plenary power in the premises. And, the people of Erie county in that State, have been not a little astounded by an order from that Court, which if carried into effect, will cause nearly the whole county to pass under the auctioneer's hammer in about five weeks time! It appears to have been the first intimation they had, that their lands were embraced in the claim.

Great also was the surprise and alarm in the county of Beaver, when a handbill was received from Pittsburgh, containing lists of land to be sold at Pittsburgh on the 20th of October by order of the commissioners of the Nicholson Court. On examining it, there were found embraced in it, two or three hundred tracts, of four hundred acres each, altogether exceeding one hundred thousand acres, of the best land in the county, and embracing nearly a fourth part of its territorial limits.—This advertisement to sell it, is alleged, the first intimation that John Nicholson ever had a claim to a single tract of land in the county—the many hundreds, nay, almost thousands of persons now in possession, not dreaming of insecurity from that or any other quarter.

Such are the effects of speculation. Through John Nicholson's all-grasping cupidity, the peace of whole counties is disturbed, forty years after his death.—N. Y. Morn. Post.

ELWORTH, THE PEDESTRIAN.—We learn from the Boston Post, that Elworth, the pedestrian, on Wednesday morning triumphantly completed the arduous task of walking a thousand miles in a thousand hours; but to show that he was neither still nor wind-broken, he continued walking a mile every hour until 5, P. M. He walked the last mile in seven minutes and fifteen seconds, being nineteen seconds less time than it had taken him to walk the mile previous.

The Rainy Day.
BY H. W. LONGFELLOW.
The day is cold, and dark, and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
The vine still clings to the mouldering wall,
But at every gust the dead leaves fall,
And the day is dark and dreary.
My life is cold, and dark and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
My thoughts still cling to the mouldering Past,
But the hopes of youth fall thick in the blast,
And the days are dark and dreary.
Be still, sad heart! and cease repining;
Behind the clouds is the sun still shining;
Thy fate is the common fate of all,
Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary.

A Tough Customer.—The editor of the Jonesborough Whig, who, albeit a clergyman, writes and fights a little harder than any layman writes, says: "We still continue to do our own writing and our fighting, upon all suitable occasions; and we will, at all times, run any filthy rascal through our smut machine whenever the public interest is to be promoted by the operation."

PHILADELPHIA MARKET.
BUCKWHEAT REPORTER, Oct. 11th, 1842.

GRAIN.—But little Wheat arriving, and prices are fully supported. Sales of good and prime Penn'a red at 95 a 96 cents per bushel, and Southern at from 74 to 90 cents for inferior to prime, chiefly at 84 a 88 cents. Rye—A sale of Southern at 47 cents. Corn—A sale of round yellow at 55 1/2 and some flat 53 cents; Southern, if here, would command 52 for yellow and 51 cents for White. Oats—Sales of Southern at 23 a 24 cents.

ASSISTANT OF NATURE.—Dr. Brandreth does not profess that the Brandreth Pills are other than an effectual Assistant of Nature: He knows that if she be not entirely exhausted, they cannot fail to cure; and he is remembered they may be taken at all times without fear of other than good results. In truth, in this city, where five hundred and thirty-five thousand boxes have been sold, there is little occasion for saying any thing in their favor; for it is clear that 5,000 boxes would never have been sold had they not been good! Every fourth individual in this city has made trial of them. It may be observed, that their object is to restore the constitution to a state of health, and the result, when they have been persevered with, has fully established their power for so grand a consummation. In other words, it is the Blood which has to become perfect by purified, as on its pety depends entirely the health of the whole animal machine.

Dr. Benjamin Brandreth's Ve-etable Medicine Pills are indeed a universally approved medicine, which, by its peculiar action, cleanses the blood of all impurities, removes every pain and weakness, and finally restores the Constitution to perfect health and vigor.

MERCHANTS' HOUSE,

No. 237, North Third, above Colwell Street, PHILADELPHIA.
THE subscribers take pleasure in acquainting their friends and the public in general, that they have taken the large and commodious Hotel, recently built by the Messrs. Hart, on the same site occupied by the old established Hotel known as the Bull's Head, in Third street above Colwell Street.
This Hotel is finished in the very best manner, and of the best materials. Its location is very desirable, particularly for country merchants; the arrangements for heating and ventilating, the rooming, such as to secure any temperature. The bedrooms are all light and airy, all furnished in a neat style, so as to insure comfort.
The receiving parlors are also furnished in a superb style, the windows are on the French style, forming an entrance to a balcony in front, which makes a pleasant recess. Particular attention has been given to the beds and bedding, which, with the furniture, are entirely new.
From years' experience in hotel business, we trust, by strict assiduity to business, to make this house a desirable stopping place. Our table will always be supplied with the very best our market can afford, and our bar with the best liquors and wines of the most approved brands.
P. S. There are first rate stabling and carriage houses attached to the hotel, attended by careful and sober hostlers, and our charges will be low, in accordance with the present high times.
