

The Trials and Tribulations of a Printer's Devil.

At the late Anniversary Celebration of the Washington Typographical Society, a number of admirable speeches were made, and among them the following, by G. B. Wallis, a Congressional reporter:

Mr. President:—Gentlemen: I have nothing to say. I suppose, though, the requisition to say something is imperative. Gentlemen, I am one of you; if the trials of a printer's devil and the vicissitudes of a journeyman printer's adventures are the test. Many of you are acquainted with the outline of my career from the time that I was an apprentice to the late Jonathan Elliot, of this city, (peace to his soul,) who was familiarly known in his office by the enthusiastic signification of "Old Bomb." I see before me a fellow-apprentice (Mr. Daniel Smith) with "Old Bomb." I had been the devil, (laughter,) and Daniel succeeded in the dignity of that office. He knows, and I know, and we cannot forget the peculiarities of a printer's apprentice's life, if our own are to be taken as the standard. "Old Bomb," of summer evenings, gave us our supper under the arbor of an Italian vine in his garden, but the fruits of the vine were interdicted to us, and our evening meal uniformly consisted of certain broiled specimens consisted of a dish of red herrings. And I am here reminded of a most singular circumstance. We all know, and Daniel, you know, and I know, and Mr. President and Mr. T. He tells you, that from time immemorial the devil has been associated with our craft. From the tradition of the Devil and Dr. Faustus down, our ancient ally, the devil, has been an appendage of a printing office, inevitably and inseparably. The justice of the association is another question—the fact is so. And then, too, you all recollect, or ought to recollect, the incident in Scripture history where the devil, by the divine command of our Saviour, was expelled from certain individuals and, taking refuge in a drove of hogs, impelled them and propelled them down the mountain declivity and through the chapparrals (laughter) into the waves of the sea. Well, now, I know not why our good "Old Bomb" persisted in feeding his devils on herrings, unless he believed that the whole tribe were descended from those driven into the sea, and concluded that they must be well equipped, as a matter of course, a taste for salt fish. [General laughter.]

But again, my brethren, when I contemplate you in the aggregate as journeymen, I cannot but reflect with pride that I, too, am a printer; that I have known something of a printer's chequered career, and have experienced something of the facility and the good grace with which a printer adapts himself to the exigencies of his case; [laughter] and so it may not be amiss to detail a little circumstance of a tramp of mine through Pennsylvania—a bona fide tramp—a journey of 600 miles to Columbus, Ohio, undertaken on foot, with finances on hand amounting to the extraordinary sum total of $8.75, [laughter.] But I got several fat jobs on the way, and at the end of my journey had a surplus in hand of seven dollars and fifty cents. [Laughter.]

Mr. President. It was an autumn day, and the evening sun was shining askant the mountains; there was a cold grayness in the sky, and a melancholy stillness around, save the tinkling of the cowbells here and there along the hills. There was something in the sadness and loneliness of the scene in harmony with the desolation of the lonely traveller's thoughts. The sun was setting, when your narrator described a house of entertainment on the way side, promising, from the proofs of comfort about it, good fare, and a pleasant rest for the night. The landlord, a sturdy German, set in his porch, smoking his pipe, and with his feet propped forward upon the railing, displayed the broad foundation of a pair of hogans, studded with nails, and the heels upon them shining like two new moons emerging over the horizon. Mr. W. then went on to relate the suspicions of the landlord, and his failure to guess the occupation of his applicant for "supper and lodgings." Said the worthy host: "You are not a dentist, nor a krenologist, (phonologist,) nor a poet, nor a chemist, nor a maker; well, then, what in ter tifer are you?" "An humble disciple of Faust, a professor of the art preservative of all arts, the typographical art, that is, the black art, sir." "Vot is dat; for erout's sake, vot is dat?" "A printer, sir, a man that prints books and newspapers." "A printer," echoed the German, reaching out his hand, "a man vot prints books and newspapers, hey! Chinkop, take the gentleman's pack off; Chon pull up a root fire. Vork in, sir; vork in." "Sally put the kittle on, and we'll all take tea." [Great laughter.] "A printer, hey—I wish I may be ten, if I didn't think you was a tailor!"

THE DOLLAR MARK.—We copy the following from a communication in the Southern Standard, written by Beverly Tucker:—

"Now the most rational account I ever heard of the mark is this:—The Straits of Gibraltar, called of old 'the pillars of Hercules,' were also then called the ne plus ultra of the world. Spain pushed her discoveries to this continent, and when she carried home the wealth thus rewarded her enterprise, she coined it into dollars, and stamped them with a triumphant allusion to her great achievement. The pillars they bear are the pillars of Hercules, and across them is twined a fillet marked with the boastful words, 'plus ultra.' Farther yet, the two straight lines are supposed to represent these pillars, and the line that weaves across them stands for the fillet; and thus the mark is but a rude picture of this part of the impression.

OAKLEY'S DEPURATIVE SYRUP.

THE valuable properties of Oakley's Depurative Syrup of Sarsaparilla, as a purifier of the blood, is so well known to the public generally, that it is unnecessary to occupy much space in setting forth the advantages to be derived from its use, wherever the medicine has once been introduced, it takes precedence over all others; every one that has taken it, have derived so signal beneficial results from it, that it is recommended by them with the utmost confidence. Physicians of the highest standing in the profession, prescribe it to patients under their care; containing nothing deleterious, but being composed of the most mild, yet efficacious vegetable materials, it is offered with confidence, as the cheapest and most efficient purifier of the blood now known. The use of a few bottles, especially in the spring months, will be attended with a most decided improvement in the general strength of the system, eradicated any seeds of disease that may have been generated, besides giving health and vigor to the body.—For the cure of Scrofula or Kings Evil, Rheumatism, Tetters, Pimples or eruptions of the Skin, White Swelling, Pustula, Chronic Cough Asthma, &c. The numerous certificates in the possession of the subscriber and his agents, from physicians and others, are sufficient to convince the most skeptical of its superiority over all preparations of Sarsaparilla. Small wholesale and retail, by the proprietor, GEORGE W. OAKLEY, North 5th Street, Reading, Berks County, and to be had of the following persons: In Northumberland County—H. B. Masser; Sunbury; Inland & Mirel, McEwensville; D. Krauser, Milton. In Union County—J. Gearhart, Selingsgrove; A. Gutlein, Millburg. In Columbia County—R. W. McCay, Washington. Reading, March 14, 1845.

MR. OAKLEY—I believe it the duty of every one to do whatever in their power, for the benefit of their fellow man, and having had positive proof in my own family, of the wonderful properties of your Depurative Syrup of Sarsaparilla, I most conscientiously recommend it to the afflicted. We had the misfortune to lose two of our children, by the breaking out of ulcers sores that covered the face, head and neck, although we had some of the most scientific physicians to attend them, and had tried all the known remedies, including Sarsaparilla, without avail. Another of my children was attacked in the same manner, her face and neck was completely covered; the discharge was so offensive, and the disease so great a height, that we despaired of her life. Seeing the wonderful effects of your Depurative Syrup of Sarsaparilla, we were induced to make trial of it, as the last resort; it acted like a charm; the ulcers commenced healing immediately, a few bottles entirely restored her to her health, which she has enjoyed uninterruptedly ever since. As a purifier of the blood, I verily believe it has not its equal. JOHN MOYER, Tailor, Walnut Street, near Fourth, Reading. Douglasville, April 19th, 1843.

MR. OAKLEY—My son Edmund Leaf, had the scrofula in the most distressing and distressing manner for three years, during which time he was deprived of the use of his limbs, his head and neck were covered with ulcers. We tried all the different remedies, but to no effect, until recommended by Dr. Johnson of Northampton, and also Dr. Isaac Hiestor, of Reading, to use your Depurative Syrup of Sarsaparilla, of which I obtained several bottles, the use of which drove the disease entirely out of his system, the sores healed up, and the child was restored to perfect health, which he has enjoyed uninterruptedly ever since, to the astonishment of many persons who seen him during his affliction. I have thought it my duty, and send you this certificate that others who have like affliction in the family may know where to obtain so valuable a medicine. Yours truly, AMELIA D. LEAF, Sept. 16, 1843.—ly

MEDICAL APPROBATION OF THE Rose Ointment, for Tetters.

ALTHOUGH the superiority of the preparation on all others is fully established, the proprietors take pleasure in laying before the public the following certificate from a respectable physician, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Baugh, having found in this remedy that relief for a tedious and disagreeable affection which the means within the range of his profession failed to afford, has not hesitated to give it his approbation, although the prejudices and interests of that profession are opposed to secret Remedies. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19, 1836.

I was recently troubled with a tedious herpetic eruption, which covered nearly one-half of my face, and extended over the rest of my body, the proprietor of the Rose Ointment, observing my case, insisted on my trying his preparation, of which he handed me a jar. Although in common with the members of my profession, I discountenance and disapprove of the numerous nostrums palmed upon the public by ignorant pretenders, I feel in justice bound to except the Rose Ointment from that class of medicines, and to give it my approbation, as it entirely cured the eruption, although it had resisted the usual applications. DANL BAUGH, M. D. A PROOF OF ITS EFFICACY. PHILADELPHIA, May 27th, 1839.

THIS is to certify that I was severely afflicted with Tetters in the hands and feet for upwards of forty years; the disease was attended generally with violent itching and swelling. I applied to a number of physicians, and used a great many applications without effecting a cure. About a year since, I applied the Rose Ointment, which entirely stopped the itching, and a few applications immediately cured the disease, which there has been no return of, although I had never been rid of it at any time for forty years. RICHARD SAVAUE, Eleventh, below Spruce Street.

The Rose Ointment is prepared by E. B. Vaughan, South East corner of Third and Race Streets, Philadelphia, and sold on agency in Sunbury by H. B. MASSER, Agent. May 14th, 1843.
