

From the Phil. Ledger of the 22d inst.
Arrival of the Steamship Hibernia.
TWENTY-SIXTH DATE LATER.
The Hibernia was telegraphed a mile below Boston, at 5 o'clock last evening, and as soon as she reached that city, the following commercial intelligence was transmitted over the wires, which we hasten to lay before the public.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.—We have had an anxiety market since our last publication, but tending generally towards a decline in the price of Consols. It appears to be generally conceded that the course the Government has resolved upon, viz: to take a loan of £5,000,000, is the very best that could have been adopted. The bidings for the loan took place on the 11th of March, at the Treasury, when as the Messrs. Rothschild and the Messrs. Baring Brothers, were the only bidders on terms that were satisfactory to the Government, the loan was divided between these as offered, viz: £5,000,000 for each hundred pounds sterling, three per cent. consols.

The corn trade has been in a very fluctuating condition during the month of February.

At the time of the sailing of the Cambria the price of Meal continued to give way occasionally rapidly until from the commencement of the recedion the reduction amounted altogether to about 8 to 10s. per quarter, and 7 or 8s. per bush.

Various reasons and opinions are offered as to the probable supply of bread stuffs, which we can procure during the present season of famine and distress.

The last eight or ten days the receipts of corn, &c., have been light, and this added to the continuance of considerable exports to Ireland has raised the market to have a very firm aspect, and prices have since returned as regards wheat and flour. Indian corn still continues in great requisition, and commands the high price of 69 to 72 shillings per quarter, while other kinds of grain are cheaper.

Sundry and Erie Railroad.
Correspondence of the Miners' Journal.
PHILADELPHIA, March 15th, 1847.
MY DEAR SIR:—The arguments of Mr. Robling, which are so widely circulated in the city, are beginning to open the eyes, and I should not be surprised if another direction be given to the "Great central road to St. Louis." With the opposition of the Baltimore and Ohio, he proves incontrovertibly that Pittsburg should not be the terminus—nor, according to the arguments, can it be taken to Cleveland or Cincinnati, without an expenditure that is far beyond the means of its projectors. The fact also, that the right of way principle, which is so ably discussed by ourselves, is a serious contingency, and as we have no reason to doubt that Ohio will exact it, we may as well, before we expend our money, look into the position in which we stand. The Baltimore and Ohio, in consequence of such neglect, is rather in a tight place, but having a single string left to their bow, they may yet deprive us of the trade, and leave us exactly in a similar fix.

With this position of affairs, we are rather in a quandary. The prudent are beginning to talk, and the timid have their eyes upon the outlet; but the pride of opinion, and the disposition to stick to our errors, will carry the projectors to the end of their tether. Nothing in the shape of argument will induce them to move. They have set their hearts upon the route, they have been praised and flattered into the belief that there is no other way, and nothing but the eyes of their constituents will relieve them from the disastrous prospects before them; with no trade at Pittsburg—with nothing but rivalry at Cincinnati—with no resources at Cleveland—with the contingencies on the way to St. Louis, will the subscribers, who have been forced into the measure, encourage them on to their ruin? or will they continue to subscribe where hope is to reward them for their enterprise?

We think not! It is marked on the countenance of many, and as the disposition is bending in the direction of the facts, I shall not be surprised at the West Branch being selected as the route most favorable to the object. The Grand Trunk Line now being formed from Iowa to Erie, is an evidence in favor of business, and when we look at the lateral branches now existing in Ohio, in Indiana and in Illinois, costing to the owners some 50 millions of dollars, will it be doubted that a connection with all these advantages, can be anything else than profitable? Then when we look at a branch from the mouth of the Sinnamahoning to Beaver, and thence, if permitted, to Zanesville, Columbus and Cincinnati, will there be any doubt of the propriety of making it? or will it be necessary to climb and bore the Alleghenies, for the miserable prospect of a trade at Pittsburg?

Such, however, are the reductions that are beginning to reach the minds of the people, and when the local advantages of the Sunbury and Erie, are taken into the estimate, I have no doubt 'the people' will decide the question.

SUNBURY AND ERIE.

CURIOUS LOVE STORY.—A very curious story is told by several ancient writers, respecting Egrivard, a secretary to Charlemagne, and a daughter of that Emperor. The secretary fell in love with the princess, who at length allowed him to visit her. One winter's night he stayed with her very late, and in the meantime a deep snow had fallen. It is said, that he was discovered by her father, and he was ordered to be executed. At length the princess resolved to carry him on her back to a neighboring house which she did. It happened, however, that from the window of his bedroom the emperor saw the whole affair. In an assembly of his lords, on the following day, when Egrivard and his daughter were present, he asked what ought to be done to the man who compelled a king's daughter to carry him on her shoulders, through frost and snow, in the middle of a winter's night? They answered, that he was worthy of death. The lovers were slain; but the emperor addressing Egrivard, said, Hadst thou loved my daughter, thou shouldst have come to me; you are worthy of death, but I give the two lives. Take thy fair partner in marriage; for God and love one another.

TRIP ROUSSEL'S UNIVERSAL SHAVING CREAM.

Small quantities given without Charge.
114 Chestnut St., PHILADELPHIA.
THIS new and splendid article, of its name denoting, is preferred to any other Shaving Cream in the United States or Europe. It is unsurpassed in beauty, purity and fragrance, somewhat analogous to Gu-rain's Ambrosial Cream and other similar compounds. It far surpasses them all by the firm lient paste consistency of its lather, which softens the beard as to render shaving pleasant and easy. It further possesses the advantage over the imported article, in being freshly prepared, no skill being wanting in its manufacture. E. Rousset having had many years' experience in the celebrated Laboratory of Laugier, Paris, is the inventor of this shaving cream.

Besides being the best, it is the cheapest article for shaving; it is elegantly put up in boxes, with splendid steel engraved labels.
Price $3 per dozen, or 374 cents for a single box, to have one year. It is also sold at $1 50 per lb. or 124 cents per oz., so that gentlemen can have their beards filled at EUGENE ROUSSEL'S Wholesale and Retail Perfumery and Mineral Water Establishment, 114 Chestnut Street.
