CURIOUS ANECDOTE. In 1747, a man was broken alive on the wheel New Orleans, for highway robbery; and at having friends to bury his body, when the xecutioner concluded he was dead, he gave in to a surgeon, who had him carried to his entomical theatre, as a subject to lecture on. The thighs, legs, and arms of this unhappy cotch bad been broken, yet on the surgeons coming to examine him, he found him surviving and by proper application of proper cordials, he was soon brought to his speech. The surgeon and his pupils, moved by the sufferings and soltations of the robber, determined on attemptmy his core; but he was so mangled that his vo thighs and one of his arms were amoutated. Notwithstanding this mutilation and the loss of blood, he recovered. In this situation, the surgeon, by his own desire, had him conveyed in a eart fifty leagues from Orleans, where, as he and, he intended to gain his livelihood by beg-to a wood, and his deplorable condition excited compassion from all who saw him. In his youth in had served in the army and he new passed the a soldier who had lost his limbs by a connon and. A drover returning from the market where he had been selling cattle, was solicited by the cobber for charity, and being moved by compassion, threw a piece of silver. 'I cannot reach it : you see I have neither arms nor legs, (for be had concealed his arm which had been preserved, behind his back) 'so for the sake of beaven, put your charitable donation into my pouch and the Lord bless you." The drover approached him, and as he stooped to reach up the money the sun shining, he saw a shadow on the ground which caused him to look up, when he percieved the arm of the beggar elevated over his bead and his hand grasping a short iron bar. He arrested the blow in its descent, and seized the robber, and carried him to his cart, into which having thrown him, he drove off to the next town, which was very near, and brought his prisoner before a magistrate. On searching him a whistle was found in his pocket, which naturally induced a suspicon that he had accompices in the wood: the magistrate therefore, instantly ordered a guard to the place where the robber had been seized, and they arrived within half an hour after the murder of the drover had been attempted. The guard having concealed themselves behind different trees, the whistle was blown, the sound of which was remarkably shrill and loud; and another whistle was heard under ground, three men at the same metant rising over the midst of a bushy clump of brambles and other dwarf shrubs. The soldiers fired on them, and they tell. The bushes were searched, and a descent discovered in a cave. Here were three young girls and a boy. The girls were kept for servants; the boy, scarce twelve years of age, was a son to one of the robbers. The girls, in giving evidence, desosed that they had lived nearly three years in the cave, had been kept there by force from the time of the captivity; that the dead bodies were frequently carried into the cave, stripped, and . buried; and that the old soldier was carried out every dry day, and sat by the road side. for two or three hours. On this evidence, the murdering mendicant was condemned to suffer a second execution on the wheel. As but one arm remained, it was to be broken by several strokes in several places, and a coup de grace being dented, he lived in tortures for nearly five days. When dead, his body was burned to ashee, and strewed before the winds of hea-

A STUMPER, -The following touch of the sublime was spouted forth by a western orator, Pa. Agr. & Manuf. Bank recently, at a war meeting :

Men of blood! friends of Washington! that old hoss, General Jackson-I want your attention, for lightning has burst upon us, and Jupiter tos poured the ile of wrath down the greasy shanks of the Mexicans. Thunder has broken I use and slipped its cable, and the mighty valley of the Messissippi reverberates with the thousand tengued bisses of Santa Anna and his smaller fatua that revolve around the benighted and wooden leg pop-gun of Montezuma.

Citizens and sires of the bloody grounds upon which our fathers catawampously fought and bled, and poured out their claret free as ile, to enrich the soil over which we now hover, and watch with hyena eyes-let the catamount of the inner varmint loose, and prepare the chessy cat of vengeance; for the long-looked-for day has arrived ; the sun that lit King David and his host across the Atlantic looks down upon the scenes and drops a tear to its memory.

But, hosses, I am with you as long as the stars of Uncle Sam, and the stripes of his country triumphantly wave in the breeze. Whar, I say, whar is the lowlived, chicken-bred, toadhoppin, red-monthed, mothers' son of you, who will not raise the beacon light of triumph, smouse the citidel of the aggressor, and prese onward to liberty and glory! Whoop! hurrsh !- where's the inemy !

"I AIN'T A'GOING TO DO ANYTHING ELSE."-There are certain phrases, that once under way, take, as the saying is, and are all the go. Just now, the expression above is the fashionable reply to almost everything that is asked.

Not long since a minister stepped into a house -so the paper says-and found a lady making a-bustle. He asked what she was making that bustle for? She said she intended to wear it to preaching next Sunday.

"You intend to wear that bustle to church," usked the "man of Israel." "I don't intend to wear anything else," replied the fuir one. "Well," responds the preacher, "I should like to see you at church without unything else on GOING OVER TO THE ENEMY .- The London Herald relates an anecdote of a poor Irish woman who kept a small fruit store in the vicinity of Covent Garden, and who seems to have had her own understanding of the motto, "Of two Do evils, choose the least" Being asked by a Union Bank" gentleman who purchased some fruit "how trade was," she replied, "Och, yer honor, I'm of givin' it up, and goin' over to the famine."

Try Moussel's Universal SHAVING CREAM

At 114 Chemut St., PHILADELPHIA. HIS new and splendid article, as its name de-I notes, is professed to be superior to any Shaving Cream in the United States or Europe. It is unsurpassed for beauty, purity and fragtance, the' somewhat analogous to Guerlain's Ambrosial Cream and other similar compounds. It far surpasses them all by the emclicent pasty consistency of its lather, which so softens the heard as to render shaving pleasant and easy. It further possesses the advantage over the imported article, in being freshly prepaied, no skill being wanting in its manufacture. E. Roussel having had many years' experience in the celebrated Laboratory of Laugur, Pere et Fils, now Renaud & co., of Paris.

Besides being the best, it is the chespest article for shaving; it is elegantly put up in boxes, with splendid steel engraved labels. Price $3 per dozen, or 374 cents for a single box, to shave one year. It is also sold at $1 50 per lb. or 124 cents per oz., so that gentlemen can have their boxes filled at EUGENE ROUSSEL'S, Wholesale and Retail Perfumery and Mineral Water Establishment, 114 Chesnut Street, Dec. 19, 1846 .-- PHILADEL PHILADELPHIA.
