

Prayers for all Men.

BY VICTOR RUCO.

My daughter, go and pray; see, night is come: One golden planet pierces through the gloom; Trembles the misty outline of the hill. Listen! the distant wheels in darkness glide— All else is hushed; the tree by the road side Shakes in the wind its dust strewn branches still. Day is for evil, weariness and pain. Let us to prayer! calm night is come again; The wind among the ruined towers so bare Sighs mournfully; the herds, the flocks and streams, All suffer, all complain; worn nature seems Longing for peace, for slumber, and for prayer. It is the hour when babes with angels speak, While we are rushing to our pleasures weak And sinful, all young children, with bent knees, Eyes raised to Heaven, and small hands folded fair, Say at the self-same hour the self-same prayer: On our behalf, to Him who all things sees. And then they sleep; oh! peaceful cradle sleep! Oh! children's hallowed prayer! religion deep Of love, not fear, in happiness expressed! So the young bird, when done its twilight lay Of praise folds peacefully at shut of day Its head beneath its wing, and sinks to rest. Pray then for all who living tread Upon this earth of graves; For all whose weary pathways lead Among the winds and waves; For him who madly takes delight In pomp of silken mantle bright, Or swiftness of a horse; For those who laboring suffer still; Coming or going—doing ill— Or on their heavenward course. Pray, though, for him who nightly sines Until the day dawns bright— Who at eve's hour of prayer begins The dance and banquet bright; Whose impious orgies wildly ring, Whist pious hearts are offering Their prayers at twilight dim; And who, those vesper all forgot, Pursues his sin, and thinketh not God also heareth him. Child! pray for all the poor besides; The prisoner in his cell, And those who in the city wide With crimes and misery dwell; For the wise sage who thinks and dreams; For him who impudently blasphemes Religion's holy law. Pray, though, for prayer is infinite— Thy faith may give the scorner light, Thy prayer forgiveness draw.

GEN. TAYLOR'S TITLES.—The New Orleans National finds, on examination, that Gen. Taylor has as many titles as the Duke of Wellington, and they all designate some great event in his history, or some striking peculiarity of his mind. They have been conferred by different sovereigns of the United States and foreign potentates at different times, and when Gen. Taylor is in full dress, with their ensigns hanging across his breast, it makes him look like a plain old gentleman of the olden times, that does the people good to look at. Mr. Marcy calls him—Major General Taylor, commanding. 'The People generally—'Old Rough and Ready.' 'The Mexicans—'Don Zachary.' 'The Teamsters in the Army—'The Old Man.' 'The Merchants and Artists in the Army—'The Old Boer.' 'The Mexican Women—'Mucha Buena.' 'Santa Anna—'Old fool, don't know when he is whipped.' 'Gen. Scott—'My dear, dear General.' 'The 'Sovereigns—'Our next President of the United States!

LAWYER OUTWITTED.—Several years ago (so runs the story) a young gentleman went to consult a certain attorney how he might carry off an heiress. 'You cannot do it with safety,' said the counsellor; 'but I'll tell you what you may do; let her mount a horse, and hold a bridle and a whip, do you then mount behind her, and you are safe; for she runs away with you.' The counsellor, however, was sufficiently punished for his quibbling advice, when next day he found that it was his own daughter who had run away with his client. An old, ragged, red-faced, forlorn looking Irish woman, accosted us with, 'Praise sur, for the luv or heaven, give me a flip to buy bread wid. I am a poor lone woman, and have two young twins to support.' 'Why, my good woman,' we replied, 'you seem too old to have young twins of your own.' 'They are not mine, sur. I am only raisin' 'em.' 'How old are your twins?'—'One of 'em is seven weeks old, and 'other is eight months old.'

A boy was asked what meekness was? He thought a moment, and said—'Meekness gives smooth answers to rough questions.' An Indian was questioned: 'What is original sin?' He quickly replied—'Laziness.' 'Are you fond of tongue, sir?' I was always fond of tongue, madam, and I like it—still. What weapon does a young lady resemble whose acquaintances pass her without noticing her? A cat's tail.

SOMETHING NEW!

THE Subscriber, having the exclusive right of J. M. THATCHER'S Hot Blast Hot Air Cooking Stove, in the counties of Northumberland, Columbia and Schuylkill; and from the encouragement met with already, they expect to do a large business. This stove is constructed on an entirely new principle, and on the only principle that can make both a good wood and coal stove. The inventor has overcome all the difficulties that so frequently belong to other stoves. He has by his arrangement, constructed a boiling Oven in front, in which, in boiling, roasting, frying or baking may be done, and all the small that arises from the most pass into the combustible chamber, and is not at all thrown out into the room. Besides this, there is an oven only two inches less than the whole size of the stove, wherein baking or roasting may be done as well as can be in the common brick oven. This oven is always fit for use when the stove is heated, as the whole draught of hot air passes around it constantly. Public attention is particularly called to this stove. It can be seen at our Store and Tin Establishment in North Danville, at the sign of the Calumet Tin Shop, and at the Foundry of Rohrbach & Clement in Sunbury, where its particular qualities will be fully shown and explained in any person wishing to examine it. The subscribers continue to have on hand all kinds of parlor stoves, such as radiators, cylinders, fancy and plain, suitable for all who may favor us with a call; also, common cast and Russia Iron, which can be made in any desirable shape; together with a general assortment of tin and japanned ware, wholesale and retail. Country merchants are invited to call and examine our stock, as our work cannot be surpassed, and prices moderate. N. B. We can safely recommend the above mentioned stove to persons who wish to embark in a good business. The patentee will sell either county or state rights, to suit purchasers, and on reasonable terms. He or his agents may be found in Danville, Pa. J. & J. ARTER.

The undersigned, having seen in operation the hot blast hot air cooking stove, invented and patented by J. M. Thatcher, certify that we believe, from the manner of its construction and operation, that it is the best one ever offered to the public. The arrangement is so complete and the construction so judicious, that there is a saving of one half the fuel and true, in doing any given amount of work, over other celebrated stoves. In short we recommend it in preference to all others, for the simple reason that it embraces every branch of economy. Samuel Garrett, John W. Garrett, David Chatfield, W. F. Kirch, John M. Gray, E.
