

From the New Orleans Delta.

A Dark One of the Olden Time.

Yesterday morning an old colored woman, by the name of Rachel Hupp, came before Recorder Baldwin for the purpose of making an accusation against a man whom she accused of having beaten her. Rachel was a tall, masculine negro, with a pair of shoulders broad enough for a modern Hercules. She was as gray as a budge, and yet she seemed to be as lithe as a wild cat. The old woman was dressed in a suit of faded black silk, and her venerable head was enveloped in a turban, which, like Joseph's coat, was of many hues. Her eyes were dim with age, but all the rest of her physical faculties unimpaired. When our Reporter asked her how old she was, she replied that she was one hundred years and nine months.

"Where were you born?" asked the Reporter. "I was born, sir, about thirty-five miles this side of Baltimore, and raised in the family of old Nicholas Rawlins, about twelve miles from Baltimore."

"Well, Rachel, you must have seen a great deal in your time."

"Yes, sir," said the old woman, wiping her eyes with the end of her black apron; "I've seen a good deal, as you say, in my time. Virginia and Maryland wasn't then what they are now. The country belonged to the English then, sir, and I being free born, was one of the subjects of that country."

"Aunt, you must have known some of the great men of that time. Did you know Washington?"

"Know him!" said the old woman, her eyes sparkling with animation, "yes, sir, I know'd him three years before Braddock's defeat. He was a Colonel then, or they used to call him so in old Westmoreland. I seed him, sir, when he was a General. Ah! I remember him well!"

"What kind of a looking man was he?"

"He was a big, tall man, sir. He had a broad forehead, and a sharp, crooked nose. He didn't laugh often, and when I know'd him first he seem'd to be just the same man only a little younger, as when I seed him last."

"Do you recollect the names of any of the families in the vicinity of which you speak?"

"Oh, yes, sir. I'm old now, but I recollect the Barbour, the Tazewells, the Walkers, the Morgans, the Dorseys, the Seymours, and God knows how many more."

"How long have you been living in this city, aunt?"

"Forty-three years, sir, last month."

The last we saw of the old woman, she was standing up in Court as firmly as a person in the prime of life, waiting until the person she had prosecuted should be called. Rachel seem'd to be a link between the past and the present, and when she spoke of those who lived in the "time that tried men's souls," we could not but look on her with reverence.

HONORABLE TO PRINTERS.—To the credit of that useful and patriotic class, the printers, be it said, that among all the men who have been published as deserters from the army not one is a printer; of all the soldiers punished for disobedience of orders, not one is a printer. The printers who have entered the service, compared with their numbers in this country as to other classes, will average three to one in their favor. These facts are the most complimentary to this valuable and meritorious class of the American people. Who would not be a printer.

The following conundrum recently took a prize cup at St. Louis: "Why are the battles fought by General Scott, in Mexico, like a suit of clothes made by a neat seamstress?" Because the work was done as well as it could be done without having a tailor (Taylor) to do it!

RESTON.—An old gentleman fell in love with a young lady named Page. In a ball room the young lady dropped her glove—instantly he took it up, and his address was in presenting it— "If from glove you take the letter 'G,' Then glove makes love, which I present to thee."

HER ANSWER.

"And if from Page you take the letter 'P,' Then Page makes age, and that won't do for me."

"Which is the best shop to get a fiddle at?" asked a pupil of Tom Cook, the musician. "An antiseptic shop," answered the wag, "because if you buy a drug there, they always give you a violin."

The late Duke of Norfolk was much attached to the bottle. On a masquerade night he asked "Gode, who was his intimate friend, what new character he should go in. "Go sober," said Gode.

A Clergyman told an Indian he should love his enemies. "Mee do love 'em," replied the latter. "What enemies do you love most?" "Rum and cider." There are too many such lovers.

COOL.—John, has the doctor arrived? "Yes, sir." "Then go immediately for the undertaker."

When Socrates was told that his judges had sentenced him to death: "And hath not nature, and he," passed the same sentence upon them!"

Wisdom's best school is adversity. Prophecy was painted by the ancients like a harlot, quite blind, on the brink of a frightful precipice.

When you can find nothing else to do, plant fruit or shade trees—they will grow when you are asleep.

Tongues are like race horses, which run the faster the less weight they carry.

The Voluptuous man stands in the market to be bought and sold.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS.

From the Delaware Democrat.
WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS.—These celebrated Pills, so universally used and admired, have become to be considered almost as necessary in families as water or food. In fact, the principle upon which this medicine has established its reputation—evacuation—is now pretty generally acknowledged to be the only true one, by which health may be restored, or restored when impaired. Wright's Pills are now a universal favorite. From the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.
WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS, are attaining great celebrity in New England, as well as other parts of the United States. The attempt of persons to defraud the public by the sale of spurious articles meets with general reprobation. Dr. Wright is an individual business man, and shows an array of cures by the medicine which warrant confidence in the virtues of his Indian Vegetable Pills.

From the Philadelphia Spirit of the Times.
WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS.—People who are pretty well and fed by this time that autumn, and the other thousand and one mineral preparations of the shops, are better adapted, as a general rule, to kill rather than cure the patient; as a nut or of course, vegetable medicines are therefore in great request. There are many humbugs however, among the latter, and we would advise all those who have the least regard for their health, to try Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills of the North American College of Health, as they are the preparation of one intimately acquainted with the healing art.

From the Boston Daily Times.
WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS.—Of all the public advertised medicines of the day, we know of none that we can more safely recommend for the "ills that flesh is heir to," than the Pills that are sold at the depot of the North American College of Health, No. 198 Tremont street, Boston. Several instances we know of where they are used in families with the highest satisfaction; and no later ago than yesterday, we heard an eminent physician of this city recommend them in high terms.

The following highly respectable storekeepers have been duly appointed agents for the sale of Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills, in Northumberland county: Henry Maser, Sunbury. E. & J. Kaufman, Augusta township. Samuel Herb, Little Mahony. William Drayton, Jackson. Benneville Holshue, Upper Mahony. John G. Benn, Upper Mahony. Samuel John, Shamokin town. Forsythe, Wilson & Co., Northumberland. E. L. Piper, Watsonburg. Ireland & Haynes, McEwensville. James Reed, Potomac. Wm. G. Scott, Rockville. Hartman Knoble, Elsburg P. O. Amos T. Rosell, Turbotville. (Old on Shadel), Upper Mahony. Rhodes & Farrow, Snyderstown. John King, Farmersville. Silas C. Cook, Martin's Creek. J. De Young, Hicksville. Abraham Sherr, Richmond. Samuel Taylor, Slatedale. John H. Vincent, Chikungue. Wm. Heinen & Brother, Milton. Bessner & Co., Greensburg. The public are cautioned against the many spurious medicines which in order to deceive, are sold by names similar to Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills. The safest course is to purchase of the regular agents only, who are gentlemen that may be relied on.

Office devoted exclusively to the sale of WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS, of the North American College of Health, No. 298 Greenwich Street, New York; No. 198 Tremont Street, Boston; and PRINCIPAL OFFICE, No. 169 Race Street, Philadelphia. June 12th, 1847.—19y.

First Premium Writing Ink.

No. 87 North Third Street, PHILADELPHIA.

FROM Dr. Hare, the celebrated Professor of Chemistry in the University of Penna. Philadelphia, Oct. 11, 1843.

"Dear Sir—Having tried your Ink, I will thank you to send me another bottle, as I find it to be excellent. I am yours, truly, B. H. Hare."

From Dr. Locke, of Cincinnati, distinguished for his numerous scientific researches. "Medical College of Ohio, Cincinnati, January 17, 1844.

Having used Mr. Hover's Writing Ink, I am satisfied that it is the best which has ever come to my knowledge, and especially it is excellent for the use of Steel Pens, and will not corrode them, even in long use.

JOHN LOCKE, Prof. of Chemistry. HOVER'S ADAMANTINE CEMENT. From a well known scientific gentleman. "Philadelphia, Feb. 27, 1846.

Mr. Joseph E. Hovee—Sir: A use of your Cement, and some practical tests of its superiority, has induced me to recommend it to others as an invaluable article for mending China, Glass, or Cabinet Ware. CAMPBELL MORRIS, Analytic Chemist.

SOMETHING NEW!

THE Subscribers have the exclusive right of vending J. M. THATCHER'S Hot Blast Hot Air Cooking STOVES.

in the counties of Northumberland, Columbia and Schuylkill; and from the encouragement met with already, they expect to do a large business. This stove is constructed on an entirely new principle, and on the only principle that can make both a good wood and coal stove. The inventor has overcome all the difficulties that so frequently belong to other stoves. He has, by his arrangement, constructed a boiler in front, where in broiling, roasting, frying or baking may be done, and all the small that arises therefrom must pass into the combustible chamber, and is not at all thrown out into the room. Besides this, there is an oven only two inches less than the whole size of the stove, wherein baking or roasting may be done as well as can be in the common brick oven. This oven is always fit for use when the stove is heated, as the whole draught of hot air passes around it constantly.

Public attention is particularly called to this stove. It can be seen at our Store and Tin Establishment in North Danville, at the sign of the Columbia Tin Shop, and at the Foundry of Robert Schuylkill & Co. in Sunbury, where its particular qualities will be fully shown and explained to any person wishing to examine it.

The subscribers continue to have on hand all kinds of parlor stoves, such as radiators, cylinders, fancy and plain, suitable for all who may favor us with a call; also common sheet and Russia Iron, which can be made in any desirable shape; together with a general assortment of tin and japanned ware, wholesale and retail. Country merchants are invited to call and examine our stock, as our work cannot be surpassed, and prices moderate. N. B. We can safely recommend the above mentioned stove to persons who wish to embark in a good business. The patentee will sell either country or state rights, to suit purchasers, and on reasonable terms. He or his agents may be found in Danville, Pa. J. & J. ARTER.

The undersigned, having seen in operation the hot blast hot air cooking stove, invented and patented by J. M. Thatcher, certify that we believe, from the manner of its construction and operation, that it is the best one ever offered to the public. The arrangement is so complete and the construction so judicious, that there is a saving of one half the fuel and time, in doing any given amount of roasting, over other celebrated stoves. In short we recommend it in preference to all others, for the simple reason that it embraces every branch of economy.
