In the first place, science and practice, have both demonstrated that the valuable portions of any mature are those which are soluble, and that those which are not soluble are of little use to the soil except in their mechanical iffect ; hence the superior quality of monure made under the the open yard, and suffered to remain there all summer. After many years experience with both kinds of manure, I And having one of the first class catters, I guaran am convinced that one load of manure made and always kept under a shed, is better than three of the leached material made and kept in the open yard exposed to the rains and sun for eight or sine mouths of the year. I have a shed over the barnyard one hundred feet long and thirtytwo wide, but have yet to see the first load spoiled by heating or "fire fang-

Horse manure by itself is very liable to injury from this cause—in fact, it is very seldom that we can prevent it—but the best way to prevent it is to mix athe abed. This can best be done by wheeling the manure from the horse stables as last as it is formed, and putting it out in the shed, when it will at once be trodden down by the cattle and all fermentsproceed so for as to result in injury. Another plan which I have pursued with good success is to place it in alternate layers with the manure from the cow or ox stables, and tramp it down solid with

"Take a clean, water-tight barrel, or other suitable cask, and put into it half a bushel, of lime. Slack it by pouring Bookesping, Commercial Arithmetic, Penwater over in boiling bot, and in sufficient quantity to cover it five inches deep, and stir it briskly till thoroughly slacked. When the slacking has been effected, dissolve in water and add two pounds of sulphate of zine, and one of common salt. These will cause the wash to harden and prevent its cracking, which gives an unseemly appearance to the work. A desirable, and beautiful eream color may be communicated to the above wash, by adding three pounds of yellow othre, or a good pearl or lead color by the addition of lamp, vine or ivory black. For fawn color, add four pounds of umber-Turkish or American the latter is the cheaper-one pound Indian red, and one pound common lamp black For common stone color, add four pounds of oam umber, and two ponuds lamp black. This wash may be applied with a common whitewash brush and will be found much superior both in appearance and durability, to common whitewash.

REPAIRING.

Every good farmer will as early in the spring as the ground and weather will admit of it, go round and inspect all his fences and have them put in good condi-tion for the season. While the ground is yielding the work can be done with half the labor. The gates, doors, weather boarding, garden ferces, &c., should meet with our attention and be made whole. New posts, rails, hinges, &c. &c.
will be needed, and it is better to put everything in complete order. In looking round many things will be found out lace. Jack frost is a powerful agent and displaces everything at which he can get a fair grip, and he did immense mischief during the late reign. There is nothing I like to see more in early April than the repairing of the house yard and garden fences, gates, trellises and fixing up the beds and paths, and having in the early crops. It always impresses me with the idea that there is traits that commend themselves to every one who knows how to appreciate them.

If this process is long continued, the crops will be hardly worth gathering, and the land becomes a barren waste. To have a good farm; without manuring it, is an urter impossibility. There is no such thing as successful farming, for any great length of time, without the use of manure. This is not theory alone, but is a fact, that has often been demonstrated.—Rural American.

Pottstown, 1865 Jun. 3.

This certifies that I have used the Phoenix Pectoral in my family and I recommend it to the public as the very best remedy for Cough and Colds that I have ever tried. One of my children was taken with a cold,necompanied with a Croupy Cough, so bad, indeed. that it could not talk and breathe. Having heard so much said about the Thoenix Pictoral, I procured a bottle of it. The first dose relieves the difficulty of breathing, and before the child had three que-fourth of the bottle it was entirely well. Every family sho'd have it in their house.

My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases. Both are prepared on purely scientific principlesracuo-and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the fol lowing works: fee Dispensatory of the United States.
