AGRICULTURAL.

Corn, where it is inclined to be weady should be heed three times—the first hoeing as soon in the corn is large enough. Many farmers in ay judgement commence hoeing corn when o small and pile the dist and that becoming strangled, as it were, it seems o stint the corn, and it does not get over it or some time. The principle object for hoeg the first time should be to stir the ground nd destroy the weeds, which should be comhem up and leaving them between the rows ed to the sun, which will cause them to vither and die. Many farmers hoe their corn cloudy as well as fair weather. This is poor y, as the work, if done ever so thoroughy, does not result in the good that will folow a warm dry'day; and a great many run over their hocing as though all depended on he quickest possible time it could be passed wer. Hence with a crew of men and boys farmer "Slack" goes over his cornfields, and the next day it looks as though it wants arother good hasing, but does not get it, and the but recommend to others that which has done so much for me." esult in the fall is seen in a field crowded with A CASE OF 27 YEARS' STANDING CURED. and green when it should be nearly ripe, 38 well as about half the crop raised that might in the course of three of the course of the ave been obtained if carefully cultivated. Corn should be hoed the second time within ten days of the first, and the ground thoroughly stirred. I do not think it to be good policy to drive a horse and cultivator between the rows, as it is apt to cut and tear up the roots of the corn, especially when large. Do not make little conical hillsasthough to shed the rain, but hills broad and shallow. BREAKING COLTS.

"David," in the Germantown Telegraph, says he is strongly opposed, both in principle and practice, to 'breaking colts'-that is allowing them to attain the age of two or more years before they are taken in hand for learning the principles which are to form so important a part in their future life. There should when all others prove meffectual. be no "breaking" about it. The education should begin as soon as the colt is born, and Rapid in Relief, soothing in Edict. safe in its Operif properly attended to, will be perfect by the time he is large enough to drive. Being led or tied with a halter should be his first lesson, and the seoner he learns it the shorter the struggle and the more permanent the lesson ; nevergive him a chance to break loose, for once done and he will remember it for a long time ; and, if the lesson be too often repeated, he will make a proficient in this not desirable art.
