people at least, that there is a haunted house at Watertown, about three-quarters of a mile from Mount Auburn-a veritable haunted house-one which has gained that reputation, whether rightfully or not we leave our readers to judge. The house in question has been more or less occupied by plucky folks during the past twelve years. There is nothing particularly attractive about the house. It is situated off the road a few rods, and is almost hiden from sight by the trees and fo-

Often at dead of night the noise of carriage wheels is heard coming up the gravelled walk toward the house, accompanied by a crack of a coachman's whip, the "whoa,' to the horses, and the sound of one alighting, followed by the latch key in the door, the rattling and the bang in closing and the huried step in ascending the stairs. The confused sound of voices in conversation then strikes upon the ear, but no words can be distinguished. Hurrying feet seem to traverse the hall and landing, lights glisten, doors shut, even supernaturl laughter arises-then all is silent. These manifestations occur by day as well as by night. There is also a singularity about them which is remarkable, to say the least. They are more numerous in full moon time during the Spring of the year.

SPIRITS IN QUANTITIES.

The little girl, daughter of the tenants, frequently comes down in the morning and says, "Oh, Mother, there were ever so man; people in my room last night. # Reading Aloud.

"I think it is much to be regretted that this charming accomplishment is not more cultivated by ladies. You see half a dozen girls in a family, whether they are musical or not, doomed to hours of daily practice on the piano, which is in fact often so many hours of precious time wasted. How few ever play sufficiently well to be listened to with pleasure ; and many of-those who do play decently give it up as soon as they are married. I am not speaking against music -let those who have a real taste devote themselves to it, but certainly it ought not to be viewed as an educational necessity, like geography or history. Now there are few people who cannot be taught to read well, and there are a thousand ways in which a good reader can give pleasure. When fathers and husbands come home tired from their professional duties of the day, how pleasant it is to them to have the paper, or some good review read aloud by wives or amount of study is requisite; first of all it is necessary to acquire a habit of sustaining the voice; then one must learn to modulate they may be termed, that in the family they above all, the reader must have a fair appreciation of the author's meaning. At this moment, the huge paddle-wheels beam descended heavily, shaking the huge fabric to the centre. All who were not going to New Haven were ashore. The hands

"Shut up you braying donkeys!" yelled the maddened Yankee, "or there will be an ugly sort of work !"

But the plank was got aboard, and the boat splashed past the pier. In an instant, the Yankee pulled off bis coat, flung his hat on the deck, and rushed wildly to the guard. "Are you drunk or crazy?" cried a pas-

The big brown Yankee uttered one stentorious shout of "Sary Ann !" clasping her in his arms, in spite of her struggling, and the bays and creeks. THE NORTH POLE .- Two French gentlemen recently explored the Island of Spitzbergen in a manner never before done. They have measured the mountains, mapped the whole coast, examined the vegetable products, the geological composition, &c., of the island. They found that the long day, extending over several months, during which the sun never sets, became intensely hot after a month or two by the unceasing heat from the sun. In this period vegetation springs up in great luxuriance and abundance. The North Pole is only a matter of 600 miles from the island, and it is thought by the two explorers, as by many others, that the Pole itself, and the sea which is supposed to surround it, could be reached from Spitzbergen without any great difficulties being encountered. A single fact noticed by the explorers in connection with this island is the enormous quantities of floating
