

AGRICULTURAL. WINTERING FARM ANIMALS.

Some farmers treat their horses in winter much as they do their fattening cattle and sheep; they give abundant food, and but little exercise, keep them in a warm and dimly lighted stable, and if they do but grow fat, with their cattle and sheep, they deem it convincing proof that the proper course has been pursued. Now horses in good working condition, at least, should always be seen on the premises of a good farmer, but his gratitude towards these faithful servants should not induce him, at any time of the year, to stall feed them. The butcher wants thick meat and plenty of tallow in the cut and sheep, but the plowman looks for strong muscle, spirit and endurance in his team. The food and care of the different animals should be consistent with the ultimate purpose they are to serve. Fat horses that have been wintered mostly in the stable, without much exercise, are not fit for hard service at the opening of the working seasons in the Spring, and a prolific source of disease is the hard work they are frequently compelled to do when they are not in proper condition.

The ordinary winter exercise of the farmer does not call for much business of his team, and if he have several, most of them may be entirely idle. In such cases it is an excellent plan to have a yard for their special benefit, well littered and safe, and let them have access to it several hours each day. The horses should be unshod, and if any are vicious they may be turned loose at different hours by the plowmen. The horses will show by their playful actions how much they enjoy this temporary relief from the stall. Another very important thing often neglected by farmers is the grooming of their teams. In the summer time the horse by rolling in the pasture, to a certain extent cleans himself; besides, the rains have some effect. But in the stable he relies on the care of his master, and the keen enjoyment the curry-comb and brush evidently give him, should be an ample reward for the labor. A well lighted stable, thoroughly ventilated yet free from currents of air, should also be provided.

In regard to the feed of horses, most farmers we think will agree to the proposition that it is always good economy to grind or mash all kinds of grain before feeding. It is well established that cut straw, corn-stalks, or other coarse fodder fed with some grain is cheaper than to winter the horses wholly on hay. Without stopping to assign reasons, we think they also come out in Spring in better condition than when fed on hay alone. Good wheat or cut straw fed with bran strengthened with corn meal has been found excellent. When the weather is not too cold it is preferable to dampen the cut hay or straw and sprinkle the meal on it. The wintering of horses should begin with the first approach of cold autumn nights. No work horses should now be left in the pasture except in the day time. Exposure to a single autumn storm might cause enough damage to the farmer's team to have paid for years of timely care.

MAKING STOCK COMFORTABLE. It is for the interest of every farmer to see that his stock are comfortably provided for, which consists not merely in housing and feeding them well, as this may be well and faithfully done, and still an animal may be uncomfortable, if it will not thrive as well, nor be as well fitted to labor, nor in the case of milk cows, be as productive in milk, as would be the case, where the cause or causes of discomfort removed. To realize the most profit from keeping stock, every condition necessary to their comfort should be secured and maintained. An animal poorly housed, if ever so well fed, will fail to give a satisfactory return in growth and flesh for the amount of food consumed. Stock should be comfortably provided for, as a matter of economy, setting aside every other consideration. When animals are supplied with an abundance of the best quality of hay and grain, the bad effects arising from neglect in other particulars, will not be as easily perceived, as when in connection with the same neglect, they are poorly fed, although there is a loss to the owner in the first instance often-times, when the excess of food consumed, which under different management might have been saved, but when the fodder on hand is either deficient in quantity or inferior in quality, as it often is, the utmost care and judgment need to be exercised in feeding, to maintain stock in good condition, and to make them a source of profit. Variety in feeding should always be carried out as much as possible, as anything calculated to create and increase a relish for food will keep the animal in good condition. The food, therefore, should be changed as occasion requires, and roots, and grain fed alternately with hay, stalks and straw, and it has been found, by experience, that where the appetite is thus excited and kept up, stock can be well and profitably kept on less and poorer food, as where without the variety, more and better food is given.

SECURE THE LEAVES.—The woods are full of leaves. Indeed they appear to be more abundant than ever, but farmers do not value them as highly as we think they should. For barnyards especially they are profitable to haul in. They are obtainable now when there is a little pressing work on hand. Gathered up in heaps they can be readily loaded in carts and wagons with close shavings by using either a cloth some two or three yards square, or with a wooden rake and the arm. Hogs are very fond of them for litter, so are cows; and for compost they are excellent. As oats straw commands a high price in the market, there is nothing left for the purpose of littering except wheat straw. Hence forest leaves should be held in higher estimation than they commonly are.

HELMHOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU.

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Micturition, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings. This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorption into healthy action, by which the watery excretions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for men, women and children.

HELMHOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU. For weakness arising from Excess, Habits of Disipation, Early Indulgence, attended with the following Symptoms: Impediment to Erection, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Trembling, Error of Vision, Pains in the Back, Flushing of the Face, Dryness of the Skin, Urinary Calculi, and other Disorders. These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow:—TAINING OF THE TESTES, etc. In one of which the patient may expire. Who can say are not frequently followed by those "dreadful diseases."

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION. Many are aware of the cause of the latter, but none will confess. The records of the insane asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion. The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which the Extract of BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

HELMHOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU. IMPROVE ROSE WASH. Cure of the Venereal Disease. In all their stages little expense, little or no change of diet, no inconvenience, and NO EXPOSURE.

HELMHOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU. USE HELMHOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU. For all venereal diseases of these organs, whether existing in MALE OR FEMALE. From whatever cause originating, and no matter how long standing. Diseases of these organs require the aid of a specific.

HELMHOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU. IS THE GREAT DIURETIC. And it is certain to have the desired effect in all diseases for which it is recommended.

HELMHOLD'S ROSE WASH. An excellent Lotion for diseases arising from buds of disipation, used in connection with the Extracts Buchu and Sarsaparilla, in such diseases as recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicine. Also explicit directions for use, with hundreds of thousands living witnesses, and upwards of 30,000 uncollected certificates and recommendations of the highest authorities in the highest countries, including Physicians, Clergymen, Statesmen, etc. The Proprietor has never resorted to their publication in the newspapers; he does not do this from the fact that his articles rank as Standard Preparations, and do not need to be propounded by certificates.

HELMHOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU. My Extract Sarsaparilla is a Blood Purifier; my Extract Buchu is a Diuretic, and will act as such in all cases. Both are prepared on purely scientific principles—no essence—and are the most active measures of either that can be made. A ready and conclusive test for a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the following certificates:—See Dispensatory of the United States, and See Professor Dewees' valuable works on the Practice of Physic. See remarks made by the celebrated Dr. Parron, Philadelphia, in his Medical Dictionary, a celebrated Physician and Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland, and published in the Transactions of the King and Queen's College, London.
