Democratic State Convention.

The State Central Committee have determous wish of the Democracy of Pennsylva- of gay seducers.

What is Needed.

What the Democratic party needs at present, is a prompt and thorough reorganization of its effective strength. An important crisis is near at hand and an early preperation to meet the emergencies that may arise, is simply the part of wisdom. If the Democratic party has, for a time, failed of success, that failure can properly be accounted for, in the superior drill and powerful party machinery of the opposition. There has never existed a political organization so theroughly harnessed and so completely knit tomobilization it has had the subtle influence, the cohesive power of public plunder, to fortify and strengthen its lines, a species of lubrication quite freely and most unscrupulously used. With the two influences combined hour, the impossibility of successfully grapplling the power of the adversary, has already passed into history. But another, and if we choose to make it. a better day. has dawned. A portion of the props of the the radical temple have been removed while others have tumbled down of their own volition. The leaven of discontent and political hearthburnings combined are sapping the strength and undermining the entire structure of radicalism. The animus of 18-60-64 no longer exists. The organization is threatened with disruption, and its prominent leaders already foretellits disintregation and defeat. Will the legions of Democracy look natural for the Democracy to do either. on as idle spectators or will they rally on the center and insure its permanent overthrew? Before an culightened, intelligent public sentiment, the principles of radicalism stand condemned, and with a cloud of odium thickening around its infamous history, past and and imperative. Its mission is the salvation of the country, the restoration of the Union in sentiment as well as fact; the repudiation of mougrelism and the permanent estab- now absent from the city. lishment of a government in which the rights of all citizens shall be protected and the privthe federal fathers, recognizing only white Western States. men as its predicate, it is the duty of the Democratic party both in its individual and collective capacity to labor for and by the apumphant. There is a solemn reflection, an inevitable sequence, which shou'd and we have no doubt will commend itself to the sober reflection of all candid men, either the theories of the Democratic party must become the basis of national legislation, or the and constitutional liberty. Let the Democratic party arouse itself to be six instead of four years.

action. In the name of the constitution let it rekindle its sacred watch-fires and in solid column move forward in every election precinct and sub-district in the State and throughout the Union. Letthere be a grand, eletermined, consolidated effort, and let it be done at once. Organize, combine, work, in season and out of season, until the grand result is within our grasp. The former naturally grasp at every flickering hope, and running hither and you soon fail to recognize each other-their strength mined to hold a Democratic State Conven- then gone they soon cease to exist. Let him work his way through as best he can; sustain his measures when proper, but never place his name upon our banner. It has no business there. The experiment was tried icent, speaking only in answer to questions, principle it is a fraud to put his name there. and as a matter of expediency it is a great weakness. Last fall the placing it there gether as the radical-republican-abolition roused all the energies of an infuriated, chaparty of to-day. In addition to its thorough grined and fanatical combination to resort to every effort, fair and foul, that the ingenuity of man could devise to defeat us. The Democracy were compelled to shoulder all A. J.'s sins, for which he had no peculiar merits to compensate us. His speeches and at a time when reason was powerless and during his travels were crushers upon us, passion and prejudice the motors of the food for the Radicals-his patronage was so elumsily used, so far as used at all, as to be an injury to us; and lion-hearted Clymer, with the Democracy at his heels, had to suffer defeat as per consequence.

We say, therefore, that the Democracy have had enough of this business-Johnson was enough, and Cowan is surplusage. The Democracy hold fast to their good old principles-they say to their representatives, hold fast to our good old usages-right action alone can give us victory, expedients are worthless and mischievous, and stout hearts do not cower under a few defeats. The principal subject under consideration was the propriety of recommending a National Democratic Convention to meet at New York, on the 12th of May next. After a general but informal discussion, which was participated in by Messrs. Kerr, Hise, Strouse, Finck, Ward, Marshall, Campbell, Humphrey and Sitgreaves, it was decided to postpone the subject until Monday evening next, when another caucus will be held. Owing to the session of the Senate on the tariff bill, the Democratic Senators were not in attendance.

York, Albany, Brighton and Cambridge Live Stock Markets; New York Country produce and General Produce Markets; spe cial and valuable Hop Intelligence; a department of Agricultural Reading; all together composing an unrivalled handbook of current information for the Farmer, Live Stock or Produce Dealer, Country Merchant,

2. A page or more will be reserved for entertaining fireside reading for the family cirele, embracing the freshest and best Stories, Poetry, Religious Reading, etc., and a page for the Discussion of all Prominent Topic of general interest, political, agricultural, financial, literary, etc., etc.

3. Its Digest of the News is not, like most city weeklies, a mere waste-basket of the Daily; only matters of interest and importance are chosen from the Daily, while the mass of its contents are prepared especially for the Weekly. In every post-office district there should be found some active, public spirited Democrat, who will confer a benefit upon us, his neighbors, and the cause, by counseling with his Democratic friends and making a determined effort to form as large a club as possible for the Weekly World The Semi-Weekly World is a large quarte sheet, same size as daily, which, by omitting a great mass of city advertisements from the Daily, contains all its news, correspondence, editorials, commercial and market news, cattle market and provision reports, and a fresh and entertaining miscellany of literature. Published Tuesday and Friday.

The Daily World affords a complete, compendium of and commentary upon, the news of every day. TERMS. WEEKLY WORLD.
