or cold, it will pay, deepens, warms, enriches and es the soil, and thus lengthens the season. It brings spring from two to four weeks ear-lier than it otherwise would come. I will also give farmers an opportunity to test, nont much expense, the advantages of under-draining. Many do not like to go into it extensively, till they know by personal exe the good it does. For all such, the the place to begin. There is one durge all who have never seen ng not to commit; that is, enallow ditch, and then fill it full s, brush, pieces of wood or rails, and ell it an underdrain. Do it well, or don't do it at all. Well done, is twice done, while half done, is not done at all. RAINY WEATHER AND MORTALITY. - Notwithstanding that rainy weather causes colds and coughs, and even fever, it has lately been noticed, through combined, meteorological observations and medical statistics, that rainy years are not so injurious to health, as is commonly supposed. Heavy rains undoubtedly wash away many causes of contagious diseases. Experiments in Liverpool, extending over a great many years, have proved that the heavier the rains of summer the less children die of diarrhræ. In Calcutta the cholera always diminishes in the raing season there. In the low countries of and and Northern Germany, where fever and ague is endemic, the number of patients suffering from this disease is very great in dry summers and small in rainy seasons .-Mr. Rowell has kept tables from 1848 to 1866 that appear to prove that in years when more rain falls than usual the mortality is ess than usual, and vice versa. In all this eep everything clean and wholesome. BED YOUR STABLES. - A horse, remarks Rural World, will get tired of standing d treading on a hard floor; so will a cow, sheep, a man. A soft bed feels easyes rest. And yet we neglect the bedding our stables to a great extent. Injured abs and other ailments, especially of the diarette. , are the result often of a neglect here, has been clearly enough shown, and as any dy enough see, if he gives the ent's thought. Bed with w, which is plenty, or sawdust, or tan-bark or shavings. The dryer these materials are the better. Every day remove the moistened bedding and replace with new. Such a floor, well bedded, adds greatly to the warmth of a stable, and thus becomes a fodder saver. The small holes and crevices in a floor with a good bedding upon them, will let little or no cold through, and will drain the stable. Rather have a ground floor than hard naked plank.

TIME TO CUT BUSHES. - A correspondent of the N. H. Farmer says : Repeated trials on as many different pieces of land, and each trial a complete success, has convinced us that December, the time we invariably do this, is the best season, at which time the growth of the year is evidently at an end .-A piece of valuable pasture land of ours, times cut over by a former owner to no pur by us cut over in December, 1861, and to though, moist, is well stocked down to grass.

The obstruction of the prespiratory organs and orifices, whether effected by the application of whitewash or any other adhesive material, always acts as a fuitful source of disease, and in time proves fatal to the tree. When the bark becomes rough, or incrusted with moss, it should be cleaned

Of the twenty-three million acres heretofore disposed of by the government, but $2,692,-923 have been realized to the Treasury.

CREAM IN COLD WEATHER - For some reason not yet known, cream skimmed from milk in cold weather does not come to butter, when churned, so quickly as that from the same cow in warm weather. The new preparation, "Sarsaparilla in combination with lodies of Line," presents one of the most prompt alterative agents, in a form capable of exert. ing full action upon the system, and this in minute and pleasant doses. It is conceded that the alteraed most decidedly when associated with other alter-alives, in combination; and the Sarsaparilla seems to fulfill perfectly all the favorage partial seems. to fulfill perfectly all the favorable requisitions. The first off of usually observed when

"SARSAPARILLA WITH TODIDE OF LIME" staken, is an increase of appetite showing that it has tonic properties of a market character. Its al-terative effects are manifest in its ready combina-tion with the blood and its-uns. Pale, accordious omen and children improve rapidly under its use, ed the vital functions assume a healthy condition It is admirably adapted to a large number of chrer ic or acute affections peculiar to children. It is suited to them both by the mildness and efficiency of medicinal effect and the pleasant, attractive form of the remedy. It may be given for a long period where constitutional influences are desired, and no repugnance, or disinclinat on to take the syrup, encoun tered. In White Swedings, Hip-Joint Disease, and Distortions of the Spine it should be given persistently, in moderate doses, until relief is obtained.

Warm Weather, situde, Hennuche, Boils, Costiveness, Loss of Appente, Pains in the Joints, Indigestion, etc., are very common. Nothing ever devised is better adapted to combination of SARSALARILLA WITH TODIDS exterminate professe off these offictions than this ne-
