LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

STADE TREES .- If there is anything adds to the beauty of a village like shurg, it is the planting of shade , along the pavements and side-walks. not only do shade trees serve to ntify and adorn a town; they tend also nercase the happiness and convenience. to promote the health of its citizens. en the springtime comes, their bloss fill the air with delightful perfumes. he sultry days of summer, their foliscreens us from the scorehing sun. y cool and purify the atmosphere, and ten it as with the breath of the priral forest. Little birds come and Id in the branches, and with their et notes of song, dispel our gloom and anchely, and bring joy and gladness m who plants and nurtures shade trees, one not only possessed of good taste. as a public benefactor. True it may efits of his labor and care, but those o come after him will bless his act, and trees themselves will blossom to his comfort and happiness of those who he planting of trees, it becomes the fit to all who hear it. of every property-holder in our vilto attend to it. Many of our citizens long since discharged this duty; m have recently done so; and many we doubt not would do so, were it or the fact that they regard it as but r lost. It must be admitted that it is oor encouragement to the man who a tree one morning, to find it torn the roots the next. And it is sadto him who plants a tree, and its growth and developement with maious care, through so many days, the up some morning with his fond tations blusted-all by some cowhand and accursed knife. But things will occur in towns, and-we our in Ebensburg. We can only there very pleasantly and profitably. We better. "WE ALL DO FADE AS A LEAF."-About a year since, the Rev. D. Harbison preached in the Presbyterian church in this place, a sermon from the text, "We all do fade as a leaf." Now that the season is appropriate, a number of his congregation have signified their appreciation of his discourse by requesting its repetition. The Reverend gentleman has consented to gratify this desire on the part of his friends, and has appointed next Sabbath. at 10} o'clock in the morning, for that attested by the extent of its patronage and purpose.

It is a solemn fact that, sooner or later, we must all die. But amid the varied scenes and avocations of this world, we are too prone betimes to forget this important truth. It is well, therefore, that we be occasionally reminded of it; and well may it be done by comparing our mortality with the faded leaf. How truly has it been said of man, that "to-day, he puts forth the tender leaves of hope; toar hearts. We look therefore upon morrow, blossoms, and bears his blushing honors thick upon him; the next day comes a frost, which nips the shoot; and and Tyrone on the Pennsylvania Railroad. when he thinks his greatness is still asthat the planter may never reap the piring, he falls, like autumn leaves, to enrich our mother earth."

We trust, in view of the all-important subject of which it treats, that all who thing, come yourselves any how. porv. > EBENSBURG LYCEUM .- We publish today, a communication from "a member" of this association. We are very glad to learn that the Society is still prospering. It must result in much good to all who take part in the discussions and exercises which are there carried on. Although a member of the Lyceum, we have been so much occupied with other important matters for some time past, that we have been compelled to forego the pleasure of being present at a number of its meetings. We will act upon the suggestion of our correspondent, however, and endeavor to be on hand the next night, and if possible, attend regularly thereafter. more in sorrow than in anger-they An evening of each week may be spent

THE FAIR ! THE FAIR !- We invite especial attention to the notice of the Secretary of the Cambria County Agricultural Society, to be found in another column. It will be seen that some very nice premiums are offered on fast horses; and that excursion tickets will be issued for the Fair, at all stations between Johnstown This is right. So come along, friends, and bring your fast nags; and if you haven't any fast nags bring something else. But if you shouldn't bring any

DRY TIMES .- Bitters requests us to state that he is not prepared this week to give his readers their Bitters. In lieu of this almost unpardonable emission on his part, he promises most faithfully to give them (and the rest of mankind) at a day not far distant, a much larger slug than they have hitherto been in the habit of imbibing from his capacious bottle. This will compensate them no doubt for their loss this week. We would merely remark, in conclusion, that Bitters (to our own knowledge) has not been taking his Bitters.

FIRE ! FIRE !---On Tuesday, last, about noon, one of the chimneys in the dwelling of Mrs. M'Donald took fire, and burnt for some time with such fury as to alarm many of our citizens. Quite a number repaired to the spot, ready to make themselves generally useful. Fortunately the day was adamp, otherwise the flame might have been communicated to the building, and our peaceful inhabitants might then have had "quite a time of it."

A volume will be ismued every Saturday, until the edition is mpleted. The author is going to visit this fall, and give readings, and will vive the interest in these stories, which r humor, pathos, power of description and originality of sketching character, are thrivalled by the works of any living wriler. The Christmas tales are full of the erful spirit of the fireside. The third ume, now published, of this edition for he masses, contains the continuation of the Pickwick Papers.

IN BAD TASTE .- We read in the Echo ast week, a communication giving a ailed account of the reception which Johnstown folks gave Charles Ellis, als return from Ebensburg, after the sion of the celebrated "public square" t against him. When such demonstraas follow the result of judicial proslings, we are constrained to say that living. Long may he and his Lady's look upon them as being in very bad Book live! ste. We are not by any means the legist of Mr. Ellis. On the contrary, may have been the only man in Johns-" who would have permitted his name ^e used as the plaintiff in that suit. Charlie had eminent counsel employed his behalf, and we doubt not, they reed with him that the case might be ded in his favor, otherwise the suit ald never have been brought. When title so signally failed, the citizens of nstown should have been satisfied with triumph of right in a court of justice.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK .--- We have received the October number of this most excellent periodical. It contains a large amount of interesting reading matter, numerous useful receipts, directions for executing fancy needlework, &c., besides, several superb engravings. "Waiting for the Verdict" is a magnificent plate, and is well worth a year's subscription to the "book." Godey has been in the field for many years; has always performed what he promised; and has perhaps done as much to elevate the tastes and improve the condition of the fair sex, as any man

ACCIDENT .- We regret that a little cirl, the daughter of our neighbor, Mr. Thomas J. Williams, had her leg broken on Monday last. Whilst playing with some other children in the grounds of the Union School, she was either thrown down | Town and County. by some larger ones, or accidently slipped and fell, (we don't know which,) when the fracture occurred. As soon as it was discovered, surgical aid was called, and we are informed the little patient is now doing as well as could be expected.
