

FOR THE FARMER.

Aplary in January.

Plenty of air is necessary for bees in Winter as in Summer. Without care the passages may be closed by rain freezing on the outside, or moisture condensing from the inside, and the bees be smothered.

During mild weather, unless there be new fallen snow on the ground, it is well to allow the bees to fly; but on days only warm enough to tempt a few to issue, shade the hive to discourage them.

Continue to guard against depredations from rats and mice, especially with those stored in the house. These latter, should be kept dark and as quiet as possible.

A Good Farmer in a Neighborhood.

In looking over some recent remarks by Hon. Z. Pratt, on taking the chair at the formation of the Prattville Farmer's Club, we find the following suggestive paragraph:

"A good farmer in a neighborhood is a great blessing; and let him go to what Mill or Meeting he likes, his mode of farming and his improvements will be adopted."

This is very true, and it is encouraging to every one who is trying to bring about a better husbandry on his own farm and among those who are, and are to be, his neighbors and companions.

Farm.

This is the season for the thought crop. The seed may be obtained from the past year's experience of yourself and others, and books and papers will furnish a still wider choice.

A Useful Table.

Counting plants one foot apart each way, we shall have forty-three thousand five hundred and sixty upon an acre, because an acre contains that number of superficial feet.

Table with 3 columns: Distance (14 feet to 10 feet), Area (10,360 to 435.45 sq ft), and Plant Count (302 to 21).

THE CURCULIA AGAIN.—We give a plan by which Mr. Considine, of Cincinnati, has been successful.—His treatment is to dissolve a half-peck of slacked lime and two pounds of flour of sulphur in a bucket of water, which is to remain for forty-eight hours before use.

SIZE OF TREES FOR TRANSPLANTING.—It is advisable not to buy trees of more than three or four years' growth. Trees ten or twelve feet high may look more promising when first set out, but those of five to six feet will, in a few years, outstrip the former, and if properly cared for, be far superior.

BEST APPLES IN NEW YORK MARKET.—The Newtown Pippin commands the highest price. Parties are now paying $5 and $6 per barrel, for shipping to Europe.

GINSENG.—Minnesota ginseng is selling in the St. Louis market at 35 cents per pound. Ginseng will hereafter be one of the exports of that State.
