

Miscellany. OLD JOKE.

'Tis a very ancient saying. Time till now has proved it true: "Do unto all your neighbors As you would have them do to you."

CLOSED FOR REPAIRS.—A good one is told of old Judge L. His Honor key a demijohn of good old Jamaica in his private office, for his own comfort and the entertainment of his particular friends.

PERUVIAN BARK.—An Indian, in a delirious fever, having been left by his companions by the side of a river, for the purpose of quenching his thirst, conceiving himself unhealed, drank large and copious draughts of the stream, which, having imbibed the virtues of the bark from the tree which grew upon its margin, soon vanquished the fever, and he returned to his astonished friends perfectly restored.

BAPTISM IN HOOPS.—At Chicago last week a rather amusing scene took place during the baptism of a young lady by the pastor of the tabernacle. The Union says: The minister requested her to assume the dress peculiar to such an occasion, but she declined to take off her hooped skirt. The minister told her of the inconvenience that must result from her obstinacy, but she persisted. When she came to descend into the bath the inflated skirt touched the water and rose up around her like a balloon.

How hard corn-bread may be made, will appear from the following story, told by an old gentleman in Western Arkansas:—"I have been living down here below Fort Smith for twenty years. The desk in my office is at the head of a long flight of stairs. In the bustle of business my inkstand is often knocked off and rolled down. For a long time I could get no material that would stand this usage. Glass was out of the question; stone broke like crockery—the hardest wood I could find soon gave way. Finally, a lucky thought struck me. I sent up to one of my neighbors (the Widow B.—) for a piece of her corn bread. After ruining several fine tools I succeeded in hollowing it out, and shaping it into an inkstand. That was ten years ago—and, stranger, I've used that inkstand ever since, and I reckon it's good for at least two generations longer!"

A certain linen draper waited upon a lady for the amount of an article purchased at his shop. She endeavored to remind him that she had paid when she called some time time ago. He declared he had no remembrance of the circumstance on which she produced a receipt. He then asked pardon, and said:—"I am sorry I did not recollect."

To which the lady replied:—"I sincerely believe you are sorry you did not recollect."
