Miscellany.

DENOMINATIONAL OXEN. - Texas, says the True Witness, is a great State. It has not only a large, growing, mixed popula- street. tion-every variety of climate and soil, game and stock-but its very oxen have become denominational, if not sectarian in name, character and spirit. In proof of this we give the following incident:

A minister travelling along the road. met a stranger driving his wagon, which was pulled by four oxen; as the minister approached, he heard him say, "Get up, Presbyterian!" "Gee, Campbellite!"-"Haw, Baptist!" "What are you doing,
Methodist!" The minister, struck with the singularity of such names being given to oxen, remarked: Stranger, you have strange names for your oxen, and I wish to know why they had such names given to know why they had such names given than The driver replied. "I call that August 25, 1859,-tf. them. The driver replied, "I call that lead ox in front 'Presbyterian' because he is true blue and never fails-he believes in pulling through every difficult place, persevering to the end, and then he knows more than all the rest. The one by his side I call 'Campbellite;' he does very well when you let him go his own way, until he sees water, and then all the world could not keep him out of it, and there he stands as if his journey was ended. This off ox, behind, is a real 'Baptist,' for he is all the time after water, and will not eat with the others, but is constantly looking, first on one side, and then on the other, and at everything that comes near him. The other, which I call 'Methodist,' makes a great noise and a great to do, and you would think that he was pulling all creation, and he don't pull one pound." The minister having had his curiosity gratified with the explanation, rode on, wondering what he should next see and hear in Texas.

PLEASURE FOR A CHILD.—Blessed be the hand that prepares a pleasure for a child, for there is no saying when and where it may bloom forth. Does not almost everybody remember some kind hearted man who showed him a kindness in the day of his childhood? The writer Ebensburg, Pa. of this recollects himself at this moment a bare-footed lad, standing at the wooden fence of a poor little garden in his native village; with longing eyes he gazed on the flowers which were blooming there quietly in the brightness of a Sunday morning. The possessor came from his little cottage; he was a wood-cutter by trade, and spent the whole week at work in the woods. He had come into the garden to gather flowers to stick in his coat when he went to church. He saw D S. BUNN, M. D., tenders his protiful of his carnations, which was streaked with red and white, he gave it to him. Neither the giver nor the receiver said a word, and with bounding steps the boy ran home; and now, here at a distance from that home, after so many events of so many years, the feeling of gratitude which agitated the breast of that boy, expresses itself on paper. The carnation has long since withered, but it now blooms afresh .- Douglas Jerrold.

ANECDOTE OF THE REVOLUTION .- Col. W. Williams, a delegate in Congress from Connecticut, after having signed the Dec- Blair's Hotel. laration of Independence, said to one of his companions :-

"If we are defeated in our struggle for Independence, this day's work will make bad work for me. I have held a commisrebel newspapers; I am the son-in-law of ceps .a rebel Governor, and now I affix my name to this rebel declaration. My sins are too great to be pardoned by our royal master; I must then be hanged.'

The other gentleman answered :--"I believe my case is not so desperate; for I have had no connection with the army nor can it be proved that heretofore I have written or done anything obnoxious to the mother country."

The immediate and prompt reply was, "Then, sir, you deserve to be hanged!"

265 Dr. Johnson made a large hole and a small one in the door of his room for his patch. two cats.

"What have you two holes for ?" asked a friend.

"Why, the large is for the large cat, and the small one is for the small cat." "Why, one hole would have done for both."

"Ah! would it? how is the big ent to get through the little hole?" asked the astute Dector. "She can't. But the little cat can get through the large hole." "Egad! I never thought of that."

EVERYDAY EXAGGERATION .- "I am tired to death." So you have said often, and are alive still, and in good health too. "I have not had a wink of sleep all night." And yet your bed-fellow heard DED LION HOTEL, you shore several times.

"I would not do it for the world." And yet you have done many things equally as well for a penny.

"We were up to our knees in mud."-But knowest theu not, oh woman, that the dirt didn't cover that dainty shoe of thine.

At Dieppe, in France, the following notice was recently issued :- "The bathing police are requested, when a lady is in danger of drowning, to seize her by the dress, and not by the hair, which latter oftentimes remains in their grasn .-Newfoundland dogs will also govern themselves accordingly."

Pat O'Flaherty says his wife is very ungrateful, for, "when I married her she hadn't a rag to her back, and now she's covered wid 'em."
