

The Alleghenian. THURSDAY NOVEMBER 3. LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

LOCAL PRODIGES.—During all of last week the weather was wet and disagreeable. It was a continual patter and drizzle, day in and day out, from Sunday to Saturday; a continual falling of very wet rain that soaked a person through and through in less than no time, and chilled him to the marrow. Sometimes the rain fell in torrents, and sometimes it fell otherwise. It seemed as though Summer was weeping whole barrels full of tears over the loss of her scepter of flowers—over her own approaching dissolution. The various streams throughout the country were filled to overflowing. Little rivulets, whose course before could hardly be traced, became for the nonce rushing streams; streams were metamorphosed into foaming rivers; and rivers took the form of roaring, thundering cataracts of Niagara, or Norwegian Maelstroms, or anything tre-men-dous. A great deal of damage was done to the roads. Our plank roads, especially, were badly washed, causing an almost total discontinuance of travel for the time being. The rush of mighty waters has pretty much subsided, however; the weather has "dried up," and a man can now put down his foot without saturating his boots, hose and underclothes with a concentrated article of muddy mud; women, also, can now cross a street without exhibiting any more agitation than the old Puritanic laws would allow.—The Johnstown Echo last week appeared in its new dress. It now contains good looks with excellence. We are glad to see this evidence of its prosperity, and offer the hope that the Echo may live forever.—A woman named Catherine Schertz recently preached a sermon in Huntingdon on "The Ingathering of Israel for the redemption of Soul and Body, the second coming of Christ and His reign on earth for a thousand years."—Blair county polls 5224 votes; Huntingdon 5184; Bedford 5025; Cambria 4790; Clearfield 3795.—Four convicts were sent to the Western penitentiary from Blair county last week.—The Alleghenian Wide Awakes contemplate going to Harrisburg to assist in inaugurating Gov. Andrew Gregg Curtin. Cannot our Wide Awakes make it convenient to be present, too?—A company of men from Philadelphia are prospecting for lead in Sinking Valley, Blair county.—That article on "Tabacco" will be found on our outside this week.—The "Callithumpians" were out again last Thursday night.—Hullman was but indifferently observed in this place.—A colored girl named Love, about six years old, was recently kidnapped from Cumberland Valley, six miles from Bedford. It is supposed that she was taken to Maryland and sold into slavery.—The Pittsburg Dispatch states that D. W. Moore, special agent of the Postoffice Department, on Saturday, arrested John A. McConell, assistant Postmaster at Newry, Blair county, on a charge of robbing the mails. In default of bail he was committed to prison to await his trial at the next term of the U. S. District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania.—We learn that the great fall of rain last week did considerable damage about Johnstown. In some instances, the water flooded the first floors of houses, causing the inhabitants to take to the upper stairs. We have not heard any estimate made of the loss of property.—The philanthropic citizens of this place at one time seriously considered the propriety of shipping down a cargo of life-preservers for the benefit of our submerged neighbors.—On Tuesday morning, the hills and valleys around here as far as the eye could reach were covered with a mantle of beautiful snow. Towards noon the rays of the sun caused it to disappear, but it continued to fall at intervals throughout the entire day.—The time of year in which "apple butter boilings," or idiosyncratically expressed "strousses," or vulgarly "applebushes," are the go is at hand.—This is a time-honored institution peculiar to our fruit-growing regions. Without entering into a description of it, we will remark that the poet must have felt the inspiration of one of these gatherings when he composed as follows—
"I wish I were an apple,
And Miss Dinah were another;
O how happy it would be,
To be both squeezed up in cider!"
That strengthens our belief that the author of the above-quoted very bad lines gathered the inspiration as above stated is the evident partiality for squeezing and being squeezed.—George Huntley, in our advertisement elsewhere to-day, calls upon those indebted to him to make immediate payment.

"ROOR, HOOR, OR DIER!"—Many stories are told of men who have failed to lose their self-possession under the most trying ordeals—we desire to add our mite in that direction: A young man who lives something less than a hundred miles from town suffered a tender passion to grow up in his heart for a pretty piece of calico. He concluded that it wasn't in the order of things to let concealment, like a worm in the mud, prey on his cheek, so he resolved to pay the aforesaid calico a visit and his devoirs at the same time. Unfortunately, one drawback to this happy arrangement existed. It was the old story—inevitable guardians, et cetera, (the same as in novels.) But "love laughs at locksmiths," which means that you can go and see your "gal" whenever you have a mind to—almost. So, one night when our hero knew, or imagined he knew, that no one was at home but the identical she, he entered into an arrangement by which he could do some considerable sparking without much risk of discovery. He procured a confederate, to whom he unburdened himself of his tale of woes; and after having thus softened the listener's heart, he prevailed on him to stand guard and give the alarm when the household would return. The signal of danger was to be a shrill whistle. So it was arranged. After running his fingers through his hair and giving his dicked the straightening touch, our hero walked straight up to the door and knocked. A moment or two elapsed, when—confederate saw it all but his lively sense of the ridiculous caused him to burst into a laugh, thereby preventing him from whistling the alarm.—Instead of his lady-love, the lady of the house—the last person in the world whom he desired to see at that particular moment—appeared before him and politely demanded his errand. You can imagine his surprise, but seemingly without a moment's hesitation, he replied: "Madam, I just stopped to tell you that the pigs were in your garden and that I turned them out!" He received many thanks, the door was closed, he and friend turned into the nearest alley, and such exclamation as then and there pealed out on the still night have not been heard since the days of the Laughing Philosopher.

THANKSGIVING MATTER.—"Bird of the broad and sweeping wing!" to me bright visions thou dost bring Of Elysian delights— Of rare old Gas-tromon's heights! Thy voice is heard In musical "gobble!" all day long, Sweeter by far than maiden's song— Cora-fed bird!

But hold! We took our pen in hand to inform our readers that Thursday, the 29th day of the present month, has been ordained and set apart by Executive Authority as a day of General Thanksgiving and Praise—as a day on which those who have cause to be thankful to Providence for manifold mercies (and who hasn't?) may publicly or privately avow their acknowledgments—as a day of general rejoicing. But hold yet a little! We also intended to say what is already known, that that day, by universal sanction, is assumed as the occasion on which a complete and terrible onslaught is to be made on the gallinaceous species—and especially on Turkeys. That's it! Turkeys.—When we began this article, we wanted to tell you, reader, that Thanksgiving was rapidly approaching, and—
"we have no Turkey! But instead of that, we imperceptibly glided in on a triumphant lay on the receipt of a magnificent gobbler—a fat, fair, and finely-formed bird, of delicate fibrous texture, and one not ashamed to show its family record, especially the column headed "births."
Ahem!
—If any person wishes to see the poem in a complete state, he only needs to send to our office, with a full quit-claim accompanying it, a feathered biped answering the above description.
P. S.: As we desire to interpolate the giver's name in the effusion, he will see the necessity of having one that rhymes well. However, jingle or no jingle, we'll make the Turkey welcome.

THE FROMALD BURGLARY.—The man Robert Hesson, whom we noticed last week as having been arrested in Pittsburg for alleged participation in the Fromald burglary in Johnstown, was brought to this place and lodged in jail on Thursday.—Another man, named George Talbot, was arrested on the same charge in the neighborhood of Blairsville. A portion of the stolen goods were found in his possession, but he says that he purchased them from parties whom he incidentally met at New Florence. He also was committed to jail. Officers are now in pursuit of a third party, and his early arrest is looked for.

THE QUESTION SETTLED.—The question with regard to where the depot of the Ebensburg and Cresson Railroad should be located has at length been definitely settled.

At a meeting of the officers and Managers of that company, on Wednesday last, it was decided that the terminus would be a short distance immediately south of the academy, on Centre street.—As this is nearer to the centre of the town than any other point, we presume everybody will be satisfied.

ANOTHER WONDER.—Almost ever person has heard of the "seven wonders of the world," and know what they are. An eighth wonder has arisen. It is this:—C. R. Jones sells boots and shoes, hats and caps, clothing, &c., at prices at which no one grumbles! Although this may seem to be a wonderful statement, it is nevertheless true; as more fully and at large will appear by calling at his store any time between 6 A. M. and 9 P. M.

LITERARY.—The following question has been selected by the Ebensburg Literary Association for discussion on Friday evening, Nov. 9, 1860:—"Resolved, That self-interest is the rudder that steers mankind, the universal monarch to whom all are tributaries." Geo. W. Outman was appointed to read a selection at the next meeting.

New Goods.—We desire to call the attention of our readers to the advertisement elsewhere of E. Hughes. Mr. H. has established a flattering reputation as a business man, and the large number of customers who daily flock to his store is an evidence of the manner in which his efforts to please the public are received. One and all, give him a call.

CARD.—WITNESS'S BORDER. Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860. Messrs. EVANS and WATSON: GENTLEMEN—The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R. Hart, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1859, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This safe, containing all my books, together with my keys, and belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends, and representing a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 21st of July, 1860, and passed through the fiery ordeal unscathed. The safe was on the second floor and fell to the basement of the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat among the ruins, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the papers not even being discolored. This fact was, however, merely by way of a better recommendation of your safe than could be expressed in any other words from me. Yours Respectfully, SAMUEL RANCK. No. 12

A large assortment of the above quality of Five and Third Proof Safes always on hand and for sale at low prices by my other firm, at EVANS & WATSON'S, No. 304 Chestnut st. Philadelphia.
