INFANTICIDE IN WHITE TOWNSHIP .-The Cambria Tribune of last week gives the particulars of a shocking case of infanticide that recently occurred in White township, this county. The facts are about as follows: A young unmarried girl, only sixteen years of age, named Ann Hartzel, who resided with a family named Smith, loved not wisely but too well, and on Monday evening, the 4th inst., was delivered of a child. Unwilling that the The coolest thing of the season-the world should know her shame, the unhappy mother resolved to make way with her Rhey's furnace, Johnstown, is to be put | illegitimate offspring; and accordingly she concealed it under a pig-pen on the Who has it—our volume entitled "Old premises, intending, doubtless, to remove Hepsey?" The person in whose posses- it to a place of greater security at her convenience. But Mr. Smith and two companions, who were returning from church, had their attention attracted by the eries of the infant, which was still alive; and after a brief search, they drew forth the baby from its hiding-place. It What has become of our Johnstown was taken into the house and properly cared for, but owing to the injuries it had received, survived but about nine hours.

In the morning a Coroner's inquest was held upon the body, and the facts developed that the back part of its head was crushed, its back broken, and marks found upon its neck as if an attempt had been made to choke it to death. The girl admitted the maternity of the child, but denied having done it any violence. After a careful hearing of the facts, the jury rendered as their verdict that the child came to its death by violence at the hands of its mother, Ann Hartzel.

The unnatural mother was brought to this place on Tuesday and committed to jail, to await her trial at our next Court.

GAS LIGHT IN THE CARS .- Almost every person who knows anything at all knows that the passenger cars on the Pennsylvania Railroad are illuminated at night by means of that useful, economical and highly inflammable fluid known as gas. But, knowing this much, possibly some of our readers may still be considerably in the dark. Like George the Third who, after cating an apple dumpling, expressed surprise as to where the apple came from and how in thunder it got inside the paste without leaving any visible seam, they may say-We know that gas is consumed in the cars, but where does it come from? The following brief expose will enlighten all such:

At Altoona, the Company have a building devoted to their gas apparatus, containing twenty receivers, each of which is ten feet long, twelve inches in diameter, and which will sustain a pressure of nine hundred pounds to the square inch. By the aid of one of Merrick & Son's gas pumps, the gas received from the Altoona Gas Works is forced into the receivers to a pressure of six hundred pounds. By means of pipes, it is conducted to the cars, and there enters a receiver on each car, (seven feet six inches high, fourteen inches in diameter,) which, with a pressure of five hundred to six hundred pounds, contains sufficient to supply two six-foot and one three-foot burner, sixteen to eighteen hours, or one round trip. The use of gas proves more satisfactory and popular with passengers, but is probably more expensive than oil or candles.

THE QUESTION SETTLED .- At a meeting of the officers and members of the Ebensburg and Cresson Railroad Company, held on last Monday, it was definitely determined, by a unanimous vote of those present, that the location for the depot for the road shall be on the western side of Centre street, a short distance below Triumph street; in other words, about three squares south of the old Academy. This is about the most eligible situation that could have been secured, it being nearer the centre of town than any other point. It is easy of access from all directions, and likewise-a great consideration-there is plenty of room in that vicinty for the town to spread itself.

Mr. Evan E. Evans, the gentleman we mentioned last week as having received the contract for the erection of the depot building, has already commenced work in that direction. He expects to push his job forward to a speedy completion.

The happy Thomas and his estimable young bride have our thanks for their kind remembrance of the printer. If our wishes were of avail, then indeed would only the silver lining of the cloud be revealed to their vision during their stay in this world of cares and troubles. We sincerely hope their wedded life may prove to be all their fancy painted it; may they experience the full measure of bliss which is sure to follow the linking together of "two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one," and may prosperity ever attend them.

[As a poetical accompaniment to the above, a Bacheler Friend of the bridegroom submits the following:

Let all of us bachelors deplore our condition, And take us a wife; Full well do we merit the woes and the troubles Of this singular life. BACHELOR.]
