VALUE OF AN EXPLANATION .- A certain King, it is said, sent to another King saying, "Send me a blue pig with a black tail, or else ... The other, in high dalgeon at the presumed insult, replied, "I have not got one, and if I had-.... On which weighty cause they went to war for many years. After a satisfy of glories and miseries, they bethought them that, as their armies and resources were exhausted and their kingdoms mutually laid waste, it might be well enough to consult about the preliminaries of peace; but, be fore this could be concluded, a diplomatic explanation was first needed of the insulting language, which had formed the ground of the quarrel. "What could you mean," asked the second King of the first, "by saying, 'send me a blue pig with a black tail, or else-" "Why," said the other, "I meant a blue pig with a black tail, or else some other color .-But," retorted he, "what could you mean by saying, 'I have not got one, and if I had --- ?" "Why, of course, I meant if I had one I should have sent it." The explanation was entirely satisfactory, and peace was concluded accordingly

FROM THE "EXTREME SOUTH."-A young man in Wheeling, Virginia, got on a spree recently, and after having been arrested and fined for disorderly conduct, was conveyed to a hotel by his friends, when he became frenzied with the idea that he was in the hands of an infuriated mob, and was about to suffer martyrdom for his principles. "Gentlemen!" expostulated the frantic youth, as he was hurried to his room, "gentlemen! don't injure me; don't hurt me; I am with you in sentiment and in principle; I am from the South, gentlemen, from the extreme South! My God!" he yelled, as he was suddenly chucked under the blankets, "I am from-from-South America!"

"How is your husband, dear?" asked one lady of another. "Oh, he's in a very bad state," was the

"And pray what kind of a state is he in?" persisted the other. "In the State Prison!"
