

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

APPOINTED.—William Tiley, Jr., has been appointed Post Master at Hemlock, this county.

IN LIMBO.—Four young boys were brought from Johnstown on Monday and committed to jail, on a charge of stealing old iron and brass.

COURT.—The attendance at Court this week is slim. The weather has likewise proved rather a failure. Nothing of importance has yet been reached by the Court.

GONE TO THE WARS.—On Monday, some five or six young men of this place left for Chambersburg to fill up the ranks of a company in the 10th regiment, stationed at that place.

THE CRY IS, OIL!—A couple of weeks since, the agents of the Ebensburg Oil Company, who are boring in Ohio, struck oil at the depth of 180 feet. We are not informed as to the probable value of this streak of luck, but hope it may prove to be considerably up in the figures.

DEATH OF STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.—On the death of Hon. S. A. Douglas being made known on Tuesday morning, the County Court, which was sitting at the time, was adjourned over until the afternoon by the Judges, as a mark of respect to the memory of the illustrious dead.

GONE TO CHAMBERSBURG.—The 2d and 3d regiments Penna. Volunteers left Camp Scott, York, on Monday evening, 27th ult., for Chambersburg, where they arrived next morning. How long they may remain there is not known, as it is supposed they are to be marched toward the Potomac.

ARMY GOSPEL.—It is a notorious fact that the clothing furnished the Pennsylvania Volunteers is of the most wretched material and make. The boots, in particular, are represented as being miserable structures. This should not be—the soldier should be tenderly cherished. Why don't the authorities buy where they will be fairly dealt with. For instance, at C. R. Jones', where the very best boots and shoes, hats and caps, ready-made clothing, etc., are sold at reduced prices.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY.—Late last night (Tuesday) some scoundrel intent on pilage effected an entrance into the house of Mr. David Pryce, distant from town about a mile. Mr. P. hearing the noise occasioned by the burglar, arose from his bed, when he was attacked by the latter with a billet of wood. Although considerably disabled by blows, Mr. P. made so gallant and effectual a resistance that the would-be robber was obliged to flee, leaving his cap behind him as a trophy of the prowess of his antagonist. We believe nothing was taken from the house. This practice of entering and pillaging country residences has become rather too fashionable for comfort latterly, and should be squelched forthwith. Who has lost a cap?

ETCHINGS.—In town—the magical razor powder man. Great is gammon.—All the rage—trout-fishing. No wonder, for what could be nicer than "angling, dangling, with a fly!"—As an illustration of the avidity with which news is devoured in this place, we may state that about sixty copies of the Pittsburg Dispatch, twenty of the Pittsburg Post, thirty of the Philadelphia Bulletin, besides a large number of copies of the Philadelphia Press, Inquirer, and other papers, are daily disposed of by newsboys.—Some hungry individuals made a forcible entry into the cellar of Mr. Eben Williams, residing a short distance from town, the other night, and relieved it of its entire contents in the shape of eatables. Indeed so clean a sweep did the depredators make that they left not the wherewith for the family's morning meal. Besides the eatables, they carried off a tin bucket and other articles of value.—Union note paper and envelopes can be had at the Post Office.—Butter is selling at ten cents per pound in our stores.—Mr. John Carroll, of Baltimore, has leased the hotel at Loretto Springs, this county, for the coming summer season.—A public sale of a large number of clocks, watches, jewelry, &c., will be held at the late residence of Jacob Stahl, dec'd., on Tuesday, the 11th inst.—The trees are said to be clothed with a denser foliage this year than they have been for many summers.—It is reported that Col. Anderson is coming to the "mountains of Penna." to recruit his health. To Cambria, we hope.

A CAMBRIA COUNTY SPY AT FORT PICKENS!—HE TURNS UP ALL RIGHT!—The Cambria Tribune of last week furnishes some interesting particulars concerning the adventures of a Cambrian in the far South, the leading incidents of which we herewith present to our readers: Some weeks ago the city papers contained various accounts of the capture at Fort Pickens and subsequent confinement on board a U. S. vessel in Pensacola harbor of an alleged spy from the camp of the rebels at Pensacola. The accounts concurred in the statement that the chap had made his way to and gained admittance into the Fort under the guise of a deserter from Gen. Bragg's army, (the correspondent of a Northern journal, who had been impressed into the rebel service), but that it was subsequently and speedily ascertained that the pretended deserter was nothing more nor less than a spy from the rebel camp, in consequence of which he was immediately seized, confined in irons, and placed on board a vessel, where he was doomed speedily to suffer the fate of such prisoners at the yard-arm. The name of Kirby was given, and the conviction soon fixed itself in the minds of many of the citizens of this county that the captured spy was none other than Joseph A. Kerbey, son of our worthy fellow citizen, George W. Kerbey, agent of the Penna. Railroad Company at Wilmore, who was known to be in the South. So strong was this conviction, that Mr. Kerbey visited Washington with a view of obtaining an order from the Secretary of War for the release of the prisoner, or at least a reprieve from the death penalty. While there, however, he read an account from a New York paper, which stated in substance that the evidence against the prisoner was positive, that he had been condemned to death, and that he had ere then suffered the penalty of a spy. Under the impression that this report was correct, Mr. K. returned from Washington, and while believing his son dead, he endeavored at the same time to forget both him and the dishonorable manner of his death.

But to-day we have a different version of the story. The pretended deserter was not a deserter in fact, and was not a spy in Fort Pickens, but had been a spy in the rebel camp! Instead of being placed in irons on the Sabine, and subsequently hung at the yard-arm, he was well received at Fort Pickens, hospitably entertained on board the government vessels, and finally furnished with a first class passage on board the steamer Philadelphia from Pensacola to New York, where he arrived on the 26th ultimo, in company with Lieut. Slemmer and the soldiers recently garrisoning Fort Pickens.

The New York Tribune of the 27th ult. contains a report of information relative to the rebel force of Pensacola furnished the reporter of that journal by young Kerbey, and the issue of the 28th contains an account of his visit to the rebel camp and his escape therefrom, the latter of which we copy: "We have obtained from Mr. J. A. Kerbey, the young man who arrived from Pensacola by the Philadelphia on Sunday, a more detailed account of matters in the rebel camp at that point, where he sojourned sufficiently to make accurate observations of what was being done. He was, of course, compelled to travel in disguise, and certainly he succeeded most admirably. He communicated the essential facts at Fort Pickens, and to the officers of the fleet. The manner in which he was able to do this was interesting. He passed two sentinels at Pensacola, and engaging a negro, compelled him to convey him across to Fort Pickens in a small boat. When he had reached the middle of the bay the negro refused to go further, as he was afraid of the Yankees on the island! He implored him kindly, however, and at length succeeded in passing a series of guard boats, and getting in front of Fort Pickens, where the negro was taken prisoner, and subsequently sent back to tell the story of his adventure with the Yankee whom he conveyed to Fort Pickens.

"Having arrived at the Fort, Mr. Kerbey stated his errand, and was immediately welcomed. He was the first to convey the intelligence of the attack on Fort Sumter, and the result, having had a file of papers which contained all the latest news. He also communicated the result of his observations on the opposite shore, which was received in the most appreciative manner.

"The Pensacola Observer having furnished Mr. K. with all its late Northern exchanges, as soon as it discovered the use he had made of them, immediately set to work to cover its own mishap by announcing to the Secessionists that their old friend and acquaintance, Kerbey, had been hung in Fort Pickens, and a New Orleans paper stated that he was in double irons on board the Sabine. He was, however, well received, and treated with respect on board Capt. Porter's ship, while waiting for an opportunity to return home under the protecting wing of the American flag."

Thus, he who was believed to be a traitor to his flag, his home and his friends, was the while really doing his country a hazardous service, and the same who was given up to a dishonorable death is not only alive but is honored as a true patriot in our chief metropolis!

—Our friend, James M. Thompson, of the Quaker city, has returned home on a visit. Welcome!

OCCUPATION OF BEULAH.

BEULAH, June 4, 1861. To the Editor of The Alleghanian: Beulah is safe! You will remember, oh, Knight of the Quill, that at last writing my Company had not been accepted. Such is yet the case. And such will probably continue to be the case.

But meantime I have not been idle. In fact I have accomplished a large amount of big things latterly. As is my custom in time of war. (On Sunday morning, I received a telegram from the authorities of Beulah (Beulah is a place of considerable note on the Blacklick river, some few miles from the "border,") stating that that city was being menaced by a large body of Secessionists, and asking my aid. The ubiquitous Beau regard himself was supposed to hold the command; but this has since been contradicted by the Associated Press.

Of course the cry of my fellow Loyalists for succor was not permitted to go unheeded. I responded that the O. G.'s would march to their relief quicker'n does the concentrated essence of sheet lightning worm its way adown a greased sapling. Accordingly, that very afternoon we packed our duds and things with the possible haste: put two day's provision in our knapsacks: besides a temporary supply of grub and tippur somewhere about a foot or so below our manly buzzums: and migrated on the double quick for the theater of expected conflict.

The parting with the Oiliannians was a superb arrangement of tears and tearing of hair, of sighs and soft caresses, and so forth. The most extraordinary manifestation of devotion and heroism, however, was a private arrangement between myself and another one. "Good by, Calcib," quoth she, "you are going to War—always take care of Number One!" "I will, brightest and best," said I, "I will." We must be brief, you know, when traitors brave the field. So I tore myself away. "Farewell—take care of No. One—but yourself!" was her parting word. Sparta is not often extemporized to such effect.

Without going into detail, I will just state that we performed the hazardous journey in a day and a half. Which expeditious expedition is accountable for from the fact that the route between Oilianna and Beulah is principally not inhabited: therefore, we were not harassed by delirious mobs of foes nor by ecstatic gatherings of friends.

The glorious sun was about sinking to rest behind the western sky when we made our appearance before the beleaguered city. (You should have seen our entrance into Beulah! Pen cannot paint nor words portray the enthusiasm that greeted us. The citizens seemed to be in a state of absolute Hilarity on our account.)

Brave men vied with each other to do us honor. Fair women ministered to our wants. Which is refreshing. Especially the latter. Numerous other spicy and rose-tinted episodes, all looking to our especial glorification, were likewise disseminated. I felt flattered at these delicate attentions. So did my men.

(Beulah is safe! I'm here. The Home Guard of the city, numbering twenty-three men, has been attached to my command: which swells our number to one hundred. I didn't want such a large army; but I couldn't stay the tide of patriots who rushed to our rendezvous. The men have great confidence in me. I have formed a grand encampment in Union Square, near the City Hall. It is called "Camp Smith." In honor of the patriot, John Smith, who has more sons in the war than any other man.

But the tattoo is beating: I must come to a halt. We have seen nothing of the Traitors since our arrival. We expect brisk times soon, however. I am ready for 'em. All I need is money. Where can I borrow a million or so? My men are guarding Beulah Bridge night and day: communication with the Federal authorities must be kept open. God save the Kentry! Et cetera, C. SMITH.

DO YOU WANT WHISKERS? DO YOU WANT MUSTACHE? DO YOU WANT A MUSTACHE? BELLINGHAM'S CELEBRATED Stimulating Onguent. FOR THE WHISKERS AND HAIR.

The subscribers take pleasure in announcing to the citizens of the United States that they have obtained the agency for, and are now enabled to offer to the American public, the above justly celebrated and world-renowned article. THE STIMULATING ONGUENT is prepared by Dr. C. P. BELLINGHAM, an eminent physician of London, and is warranted to bring out a thick set of WHISKERS OR A MUSTACHE in from three to six weeks. This article is the only one of the kind used by the French, and in London and Paris it is in universal use. It is a beautiful, economical, soothing, yet stimulating compound, acting as if magic upon the roots, causing a beautiful growth of luxuriant hair. If applied to the scalp, it will cure baldness, and cause to spring up in place of the bald spots a fine growth of new hair. Applied according to directions, it will turn red or towy hair dark, and restore gray hair to its original color, leaving it soft, smooth and flexible. The "ONGUENT" is an indispensable article in every gentleman's toilet, and after one week's use they would not for any consideration be without it.

The subscribers are the only Agents for the article in the United States, to whom all orders must be addressed. Price One Dollar a box—for sale by all Druggists and Dealers; or a box of the "Onguent" (warranted to have the desired effect) will be sent to any who desire it, by mail, (direct,) securely packed, on receipt of price and postage, $1.18. Apply to or address HORACE L. HEGEMAN & CO., Druggists, &c., 24 William street, New York. March 21, 1861-6m

A CARD.—

WITNES'S BRIDGE, Lancaster Tp., July 30, 1860. MESSRS. EVANS AND WATSON: GENTLEMEN—The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R. Barr, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This safe, containing all my books, together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends, and representing a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 27th of July, 1860, and passed through the fiery ordeal unscathed. The safe was on the second floor and fell to the basement of the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat among the ruins, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored. This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Safes than could be expressed in any other words from me. Yours Respectfully, SAMUEL RANCK. [seal] A large assortment of the above quality of Fire and Thief Proof Safes always on hand and for sale at low rates as any other firm, at EVANS & WATSON'S, No. 304 Chestnut st., Philadelphia.
