

MISCELLANY.

The Brave at Home.

BY T. BUCHANAN READ.

The maid who binds her warrior's sash,
With smiles that well her pain dissembles,
The while beneath her drooping eyelids,
One starry tear drops hangs and trembles,
Thou' heaven alone records the tear,
And Fame shall never know her story,
Her heart has shed a drop as dear,
As ever dewed the field of glory.

The wife who girds her husband's sword,
And little ones who weep and wonder,
And bravely speaks the cheering word,
What tho' her heart be rent asunder—
Doomed nightly in her dreams to hear
The bolts of war around him rattle,
Hath shed as sacred blood as e'er
Was poured upon the plain of battle.

The mother who conceals her grief,
While to her breast her son she presses,
Then breathes a few brave words and brief,
Kissing the patriot brow she blesses,
With no one but her secret God,
To know the pain that weighs upon her,
Sheds holy blood as e'er the sod
Received on Freedom's field of honor!

To the War Department.

The annexed suggestions are highly valuable, and should receive the immediate attention of the "powers that be."

1. No soldier should be ordered on duty where his life would be placed in danger. This will do away with recruiting offices.

2. Officers should always be the first to treat, as they are to retreat.

3. Privates should always have their sweethearts along, so that they may learn to fly to arms quickly.

4. In behalf of the short soldiers, we object to the shortest men being always placed in the front ranks during an engagement, as it gives them the hottest place "under fire," and they are necessarily in the rear on a retreat, subject to receiving unsoldierly wounds from the points of the enemies' bayonets! Quite a "point."

5. All sentries should be allowed a young lady to stand guard with—the time would seem so much shorter.

6. A dentist should examine the teeth of each soldier, and label on the back of the head what duty the grinders can do, tender—midling—tough or extra tough! The waiter will then know what kind of meat to give each man that none may be wasted.

7. Soldiers who cannot stand a charge should never receive a discharge!

8. Officers receiving the higher pay should go afoot, and let the privates ride!

9. Soldiers should always keep their arms, and if possible their legs with them!

10. None but fathers of families should belong to the "infantry."

11. The sappers and miners should be made up of underwitted men and soldiers not yet of age.

12. None but scholars should be sent out as skirmishers, as they are best to fly to cover.

13. To make a good stand, get a company of cabinet makers.

14. Always remember that troops will stand a hotter fire in January than in July.

The Pennsylvania Railroad.

The editor of the Chicago Railroad Gazette has been taking a ride over the Pennsylvania Railroad. He describes the country through which it passes in the most glowing colors, and winds up as follows:

"The road is double tracked for nearly the whole distance, is stone ballasted the entire length, and for this reason, and on account of the skill in imbedding, is the smoothest railroad for the length over which we ever traveled. Over that entire portion which lies around the mountains and hills are stationed road watchmen, every two miles, whose sole duty it is to ascertain and give notice of obstructions on the track. The cars are well ventilated, and of the most approved modern style. The sleeping cars are all that the body could wish, while the conductors are accommodating, intelligent and gentlemanly. For these and sufficient other reasons, such as good living, plenty of ice water, close care of baggage, and a general sense of comfort, we give the Pennsylvania Railway our hand, and proclaim it a 'trump.' It certainly is the live railroad now from West to East, and vice versa, and must soon, unless something checks its growth in popular favor, distance all competition. This is most gratifying, as it would clearly be a 'reward to merit.'"

BEAUTIFUL IDEA.—In the mountains of Tyrol, it is the custom of the women and children to come out when it is bedtime and sing their national songs until they hear their husbands, fathers and brothers answer them from the hills on their return home. On the shores of the Adriatic such a custom prevails. There the wives of the fishermen come about sunset and sing a melody. After singing the first stanza, they listen awhile for an answering melody from off the water; and continue to sing and listen till the well-known voice comes borne on the waters, telling that the loved one is almost home. How sweet to the weary fisherman, as the shadows gather around him, must be the songs of the loved ones at home, that sing to cheer him, and how they must strengthen and tighten the links that bind together those humble dwellings by the sea!

If June has its foliage, January has its beautiful gilt!

A CARD.
WITMER'S BRIDGE, Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860.
MESSRS. EVANS AND WATSON GENTLEMEN.—The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R. Bar, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This safe, containing all my books together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends, and representing a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 27th of July, 1860, and passed through the fiery ordeal unscathed. The safe was on the second floor and fell to the basement of the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat which rendered it almost insupportable to the human touch. The safe was confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored. This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Safes than could be expressed in any other words from me.
Yours Respectfully,
[s1e3] SAMUEL RANCK.
A large assortment of the above quality of Fire and Thief Proof Safes always on hand and for sale at as low rates as any other firm, at EVANS & WATSON'S, No. 304 Chestnut st., Philadelphia.
